another senior class has added memories of its last collegiate year to those of past Aggie days. Days that combined fun and friendship, lectures and quizzes to create and maintain that intangible "Aggie Spirit."

The enthusiasm of moonlight pep rallics and the red glow of bonfires, the excitement of an Aggie-OU game, serenades, walk-outs, and Frosh caps reminding us of "Whaddaya say, Freshman?"

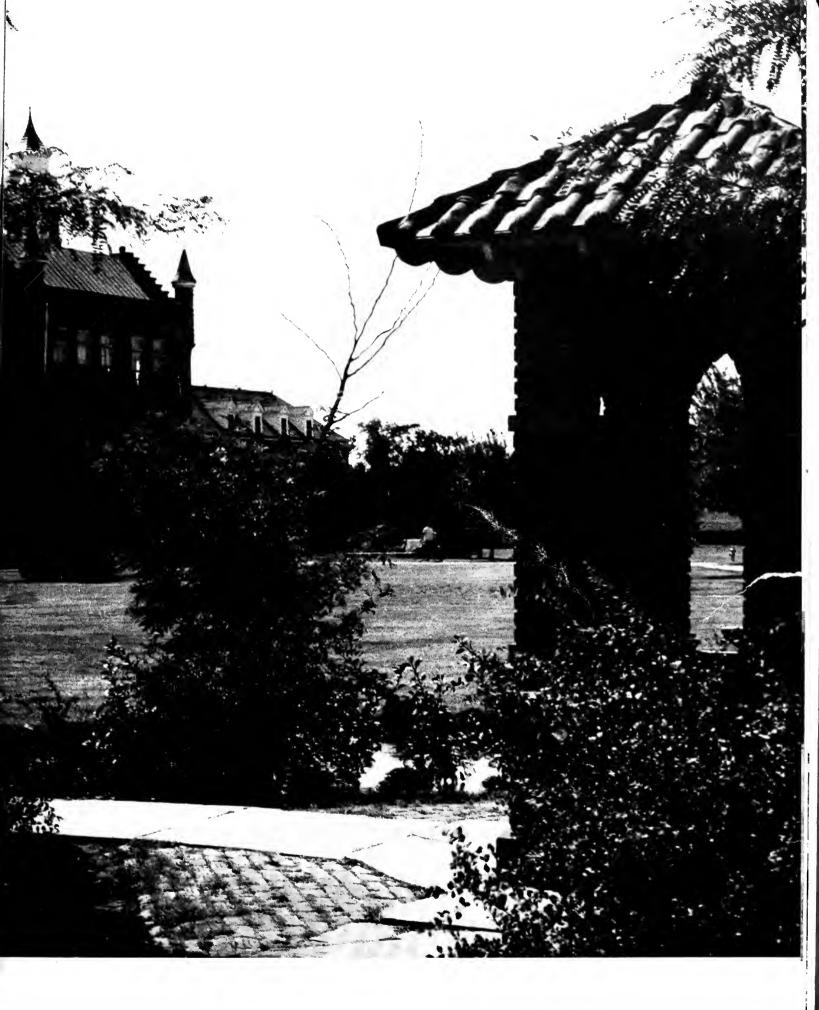

The first chill of autumn, the thrill of the alma mater hymn, the creaking stairs of Old Central, a sunrise—just beyond reach—over Theta Pond, midnight bull sessions, pre-election campaigns, the rush of finals—all these—memories of a college built for living and learning. This is A. and M!

GRADUATE SCHOOL

To promote the spirit and technique for research and to train men and women for the greatest possible efficiency as school and college teachers are the purposes of the Graduate school. The Graduate school encourages students to develop the power of independent thought by permitting them to leave the confines of the classroom and to a certain extent develop their own scholastic ability along lines of research work.

The GOVERNOR

In his swift transition from an Oklahoma farm boy to prominence as an oilman, cattleman and governor of Oklahoma, Roy J. Turner has lost none of his faith in the common people, nor have they lost faith in him.

That the people with whom he has dealt have faith in him was more than adequately shown in the 1946 election when they decisively selected him as chief executive of the state.

Oklahoma is looking forward to four years of progress under Governor Turner.

DR. HENRY G. BENNETT

Dr. Henry G. Bennett, president of Oklahoma A. and M. College since 1928, established in his first year in office a plan which is in its 18th year of operation.

The results of this plan, which is commonly known as the 25-year plan, can be seen in Cordell hall, Willard hall, Murray hall, Life Sciences building and others of the newer buildings on the campus.

A. and M. is fortunate in having a president whose farsightedness has caused this institution to prosper.

A Message from the President

"The ever-whirling wheele
Of Change, the which all mortall things doth sway."

The Faerie Queene — EDMUND SPENSER

The school year which draws to its close with the appearance of this traditional publication has been a year of major change, both for the students and the institution. Hostilities in the great world conflict came to an end in August of 1945, but for higher education, as well as for the young men and women returning from the war and from the manifold pursuits and industries which supplied those who waged it, and who desired the services of higher education, almost a year was to pass before the full impact of the new and greatly altered pattern of educational life was felt.

On our campus the younger section of our student body and a large group of mature men and women returning to us from the war have had to learn to live together and to form a harmonious and effective university community. This effort has been attended with a very high degree of success. Similarly, many other new student problems have appeared and been solved by the students themselves.

The institution has been called upon to expand its plant and facilities, both for purposes of residence and instruction, to an extent and at a pace unparalleled in our history. We have endeavored to meet this challenge as adequately as the physical possibilities would permit.

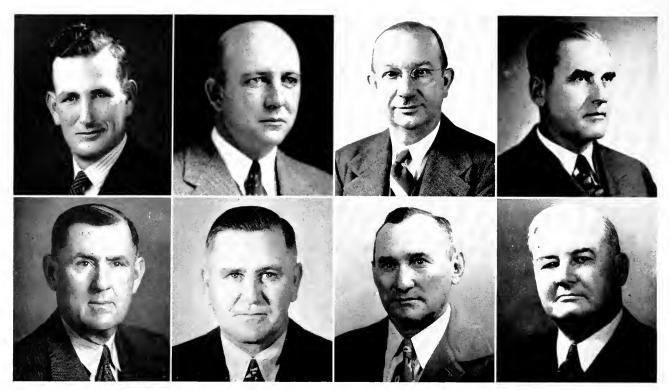

In addition to offering instruction to a greatly increased number of students, the faculty has had to give attention to needed changes of subject matter and of emphasis in the curriculum to meet the requirements of the new day. Beyond the continuing necessity to train young men and young women in the traditional pursuits of life, it is now necessary to train many of them for new vocational experiences brought about by the wonder advances of science in such fields as atomic energy, radar, electronics, and so on. It is likewise incumbent upon us to offer a broad foundation of understanding in these new areas of knowledge to all students in order that they may have some acquaintance with the forces which are shaping their world.

But with ''The ever-whirling wheele of 'Change' '', which is inevitable, there is also the obligation to emphasize more than ever the values which are timeless: the spiritual advancement of man which will fit him to cope with this new age; a deeper consciousness of man's moral responsibility to his fellowman and to society; and a deeper appreciation of the studies that satisfy the hungers of the human spirit and that give life meaning and hope.

BOARD OF REGENTS

The Board of Regents of the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College was created by amendment designated as Sec. 31a, Article 6, of the Oklahoma constitution. The amendment was adopted at a special election July 11, 1944.

The board consists of nine members, eight of whom are appointed by the governor by and with the advice and consent of the state senate. A majority of the board must be farmers and the ninth member is the president of the state board of agriculture. It is provided that the members of the board shall be appointed for eight years each with one term expiring each year.

The Board of Regents has the authority and is charged with the responsibility of directing the disposition of all moneys from the sale of bonds authorized by the law for the colleges, and it is provided that said board shall have supervision or charge of the construction of all buildings provided for the colleges under its jurisdiction.

The board has the power to employ presidents, necessary teachers, instructors and assistants to conduct the schools under its jurisdiction.

Dean Warren Lale Blizzard worked his way through Kansas State Agricultural college right into the hall of fame where his portrait hangs today.

An internationally famous judge of livestock, Dean Blizzard is an "Oracle" on animal husbandry in Oklahoma and in this region.

A member of the Oklahoma A. and M. faculty since 1915, the darkhaired dean became czar of the Division of Agriculture in 1939. Since then, the school has steadily risen in fame to top rank among agricultural schools.

This year bows and bouquets went to Dean ''Bliz'' and the division when the nation's agricultural spotlight turned on A. and M. for the crowning of Royal Jupiter, college-bred steer named grand champion of the International Livestock exposition.

Little-known to the rest of the college, Dean Blizzard is a familiar figure to Aggie eds who know and like him. His office shows his love for simplicity and modest nature.

Small in stature but mighty in diplomacy and as an educator, Dean Blizzard tops a staff composed of such eminents in the agricultural field as Vice-Dean Oliver S. Willham, C. P. "Hog" Thompson and livestock expert A. E. Darlow.

Much of the fame granted Oklahoma A. and M. is due to the outstanding work done by the Division of Agriculture under the direction of the quiet, unassuming Dean "Bliz", who has devoted much of his time and effort for 32 years to making experts of future farmers, instructors and scientists in the field of agriculture.

The aim of the school is to give practical and technical training in agricultural fields and to offer solutions for new farming problems. All this is done through cooperation with the experiment station which federal grants help support and of which Blizzard is director.

Departments include: veterinary medicine, horticulture, entomology, animal husbandry, aggie economics, dairy, botany, pathology, aggie engineering, agricultural chemistry, soils, plant breeding, horticulture, forestry and poultry.

SCHOOL of ARTS and SCIENCES

Dean of the School of Arts and Sciences since 1935, Schiller Scroggs is the head of the largest school on the Oklahoma A. and M. campus.

The success of the School of Arts and Sciences is largely due to the dean whose hobby is building the school's curriculum. Thanks to Scroggs, Aggieland can boast one of the finest arts and sciences schools in the southwest. He points out that here is an opportunity for those who will to receive a liberal education as background for vocations. The progressive measures which the school of arts and sciences have taken make A. and M. a leader in the new educational methods.

The author of two books on higher education and curricula building, Dean Scroggs was graduated in 1925 from Southeastern State Teachers college in Durant. He obtained his second degree from Columbia in 1932 and in 1935 was granted a Ph. D. from Yale university.

A many-sided personality, the dean's secret passion is poetry. He has had two volumes of poetry published — "Fragments" and "Wind Rhythms".

In the recesses of the library in what is known as the A. and M. collection, copies of these books, evidences of the fanciful wanderings of an educator's leisure moments, are kept. In the preface to "Wind Rhythms", Dean Scroggs expresses his views on poetry—"Poetry is the recreation of an emotion, the crystallization of a mood, the interpretation of a moment of insight or of sublimation."

In appearance, Scroggs does not strike one as a poet—one who cared about the "interpretation of a moment of insight." He reflects, instead, the stern appearance and manner of his days as an infantry captain.

In nature, Scroggs is changeable and moody, yet understanding in his dealings with students. His door is always open for friendly talks with students, which reveals something else about his character, and he is quick to meet students halfway and offer solutions to their problems.

Efficient Mrs. Maurine Riggs and scholarly Professor George White keep in touch with student reactions and needs in the School of Arts and Sciences and supply that "personal touch" so important to a school's administration.

SCHOOL OF COMMERCE

"Who's Who in America" says "Economist"—his students say "diplomat extraordinaire."

Raymond Doty Thomas, dean of the Division of Commerce, believes in and practices democracy through public opinion—in this case democracy through student opinion—because in the Division of Commerce emphasis is placed not on the administration, but on development of those personal qualities that lead inevitably to success in any field.

Dean Thomas believes in fitting young men and women—the business world's tycoons of to-morrow—to succeed by having the courage to face reality, to assume responsibility and to live helpfully in social groups.

The first lesson which Thomas gives to his freshmen is that personal appearance and exemplary behavior make the successful business man. The immaculate dean himself makes an outstanding appearance.

Its mentor's philosophy is carried into the classrooms of the Division of Commerce. Though the entire staff is willing to counsel with a student, its attitude is one of patience, not oversympathy. The business world demands clear thinkers and the commercial school means to see that its graduates are able to meet and hurdle perplexing problems without iron-hand guidance.

Missouri-bred Thomas became dean of the Aggie business school in 1929, three years after receiving his Ph. D. degree from the University of Wisconsin. In the first world war, Thomas was a second lieutenant in the QMC but only a slight trace of that "military bearing" remains—it's overshadowed by the dean's quiet speech and friendly grey eyes that leave the impression that here is a reasonable, open-minded, intelligent administrator.

It was Dean Thomas who proposed the first Commerce Student council as his "advisory" board. It is composed of a cross-section of students from all classes and directs the activities of the school.

The genial dean's interests outside his Morrill office lie in sports and gardening. Golf is his chief sporting love and his love of nature is evidenced by the "perfectly groomed" yard at his home at Fourth and Hester.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

Dean N. Conger, guiding light of the School of Education, is perhaps the most philosophical and least known of any of the Aggie deans. Perhaps it is because he is content to sit in the sidelights until there is something to be done—then he steps in and polishes off the job in short order.

For instance, the educational program Dean Conger put into effect on this campus during the war served in developing some of the most important psychological tests used in the selection of military personnel. The tests and measurements bureau recently expanded and improved has put Dean Conger's school in the college limelight as one of the most progressive and complete of all the schools.

Dean Conger is a graduate of Ohio university, where he received his B. S. degree, and received two degrees from Columbia university, where the Ph. D. was granted him in 1929. He received his LL. B. degree from Cumberland university.

The joint author of a series of arithmetic books for students from primary to high school, the education dean has seen to it that students graduating from A. and M. with a teacher's certificate will be able to set high standards in education.

Conger feels that schools are obligated to give the maximum education to every child, and this idea will no doubt be transmitted into action by those teachers who learned this philosophy of democratic education.

Dean Conger is the understanding type of administrator who will give in to student desires and needs when instructors and advisors have balked. He assumes that "fatherly" attitude on the slightest provocation and will launch into the merits of the teaching profession with such enthusiasm that it is no wonder that the School of Education has sent over 3,000 teachers into the public schools of this state and other states.

Perhaps the subject of the most speculation about the dean is the "N" that appears all alone before the "Conger". "N" is for Napoleon—but his friends call him "Jack".

DIVISION OF ENGINEERING

It would be difficult to say which of the deans of the Division of Engineering has made the biggest imprint on the lives of engineering students, Dean Philip S. Donnell or Acting-Dean Edward R. Stapley.

So much alike in personality and methods of dealing with students, both men are nationally recognized in the field of engineering.

Called to active duty from the college in September of 1940 as commanding officer of the 180th infantry, 45th division, Colonel Donnell left his role as head of Oklahoma's outstanding engineering school to step into active service in World War II. Before the war's end Colonel Donnell was chief of staff and engineering at the western base section of the European theater of operations.

Dean Donnell's military career belies his true character, that of father-educator-adventurer. Highly regarded in the community and state, he attended the second World Power conference held in Berlin in 1930 and the third conference in Washington, D. C., in 1946.

At the present, Colonel Donnell is back on an extra-curricular job lending his service to the GI housing program on the campus.

Edward Stapley, a graduate of Cornell, is recognized nationally as one of the United States' outstanding sanitary engineers.

Active on the college athletic board and in the American Legion, Stapley has been the efficient administrator of the Division of Engineering since Donnell's departure in 1940. He has sought to promote the activities of the Division of Engineering so that engineering students play a major role in campus activities, just as the school of which they are a part plays a major role in engineering activities in the southwest.

The A. and M. school of engineering offers an opportunity to obtain a technical education equal to that offered by any similar institution. The school has kept pace with the rapid expansion of the engineering profession. The developments in engineering in the last 50 years have so enlarged the industrial fields that trained engineers are constantly in demand.

The daughter of pioneers in Oklahoma education, Dean Nora Amaryllis Talbot is herself a pioneer in home economics education and a powerful influence in promoting home economics throughout the state.

Dean of the Division of Home Economics since 1923, Miss Talbot is a graduate of Oklahoma A. and M. and Columbia university. She is the coauthor of two books on home life and promoted and established the first home economics class for men.

Since that time, Nora Talbot has been recognized as an expert in curricula building for hotel administration courses. Too, she has brought laurels to A. and M. for its progress in this and other quickly developing phases of all types of home economics.

Dean Talbot declares that her hobby is making homemakers, for she feels the far-reaching effects of a well-run household on the nation's future.

White-haired and pert, Dean Talbot's graciousness and personality set a perfect example for her students to emulate. Quick to smile and quick to temper, Dean Talbot is eyed enviously by her students for her superb selection of hats, which though absurd on others, contrive to make this well-groomed woman look like a queen.

Dean Talbot's home on Fourth and Knoblock can be identified by her shiny black Oldsmobile that transports her from civic to church to college duties.

Sparkling-eyed Dean Talbot has chosen to direct the curricula of the Division of Home Economics so as to stress the development of each of its students as healthy, happy, well-groomed individuals and has fitted many a man's wife to be the perfect homemaker.

The School of Home Economics' ultimate aim is not only a well-trained and rounded personality, but also the teaching of special skills in general background knowledge.

Courses include food preparation, nutrition, child care and development, textiles, dress making, designing, home standards, and scientific meal planning and service.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

Quiet-mannered, scholarly Daniel Cobb Mc-Intosh is the man who in 1928 became dean of the newly-created Graduate school. He has served in that capacity ever since, encouraging students to develop the power of independent thought by putting them "on their own" so far as research and class work is concerned.

Thus the graduate student returning from war service finds here freedom to refresh his knowledge of his field, develop additional skills, or increase his general cultural background.

Graduated from the University of Indiana in 1913, Dean McIntosh has a long "pedigree" of degrees in agriculture and pharmacy—Ph. G., Indianapolis College of Pharmacy; A. B., A. M. and Ph. D., Indiana university and a B. S. from lowa State college.

Doubling as a professor of agricultural education and dean of the Graduate school, McIntosh is currently busy developing the Graduate school to embrace a wider range of courses. Recent expansions have made the doctor's degree obtainable in the fields of education, chemistry and agriculture.

The need for training beyond that offered by the bachelor's degree is evidenced by the increased enrollment in the Graduate school. To meet the needs of these students, the Graduate school offers master's degrees in 41 departments and the professional degree in engineering is offered by six departments.

The general administrative functions of the school are delegated to the committee of higher degrees, which consists of Dean McIntosh, and a representative of each undergraduate school who is appointed by the president.

Dean McIntosh, a native Indianan, "looks the part" of a graduate school dean. His quiet man ner and quick interest in people inspire confidence. His experience as an educator is evidence that such confidence is not misplaced.

EXTENSION DIVISION

Shawnee Brown is the type of man who will call a halt to an important conference just to interview a student. He is the type of man, too, who can have a finger in many pies at the same time and get everything done efficiently and on time.

Farm and Home week on the A. and M. campus usually finds the Extension division director busy with the daily affairs of the extension service and managing to see that all runs well at each convention meeting.

As head of the Extension division, Shawnee Brown must see that farmers throughout the state are kept informed on the scientific investigation conducted by the college for their benefit.

County and home demonstration agents in every county of the state serve as the faculty of the Extension division to teach and encourage the use of the latest agricultural findings.

Financed and directed jointly by the college and the United States government, the Extension division became a part of Oklahoma A. and M. College in 1914 with the passage of the Smith-Lever act. In 1942, Shawnee Brown was appointed its director, having been in college service since 1924.

Tackling the problems involved in changing from wartime production to peacetime agricultural production has been the chief objective of the Extension division this year. Maintaining constant touch with thousands of Oklahoma farmers, extension specialists work closely with the various departments of the college.

Accomplishments of Oklahomans in 4-H club work attest the worth of the work being done by the Extension division in encouraging young farmers to participate in 4-H activities.

DEANS of MEN and WOMEN

In his capacity as dean of men, Clarence H. McElroy has aided men students since 1928, and has been a leading faculty member since 1909. One of the best known and best liked men on the A. and M. campus, he is better known as Dean ''Mac''.

Chairmanship of the athletic cabinet, head of the department of veterinary medicine and bacteriology, and the chairmanship of the College council in the absence of Dr. Henry G. Bennett, are among his numerous other activities which are not generally known.

Dean "Mac" was at one time acting president of the college and for many years was dean of the School of Science and Literature, which is now known as Arts and Sciences. The young women students of A. and M. know they will find a sympathetic listener in Dean Julia E. Stout whether their many varied and complex problems are of social, financial or scholastic nature.

It is the duty of the dean of women to provide young women coming to A. and M. for the first time with counsel and friendship; to make the transition from home life to college life as smooth as possible.

A broad understanding of human nature is required for the job of advising, restoring confidence when needed, and looking after the physical welfare of the women students. It is a job that Dean Stout fulfills admirably.

COLLEGE OFFICIALS

In a physical plant so vast as that of our college, many officials are required to guide and manage the affairs of the school. These men and women have established dependable administration procedure throughout many years of experience.

Although we, as students, sometimes have little or no opportunity to meet and know these college officials, it is through their successful and efficient work that the high standards and integrity of the college are maintained.

EARLE C. ALBRIGHT—Assistant to the president. His shoulders carry many administrative chores.

CLAY POTTS—Head of the food units. Barbecue in quantity has made him famous throughout the land.

GEORGE W. WHITESIDE—Assistant dean of engineering. Housing for married veterans claims his attention.

PHILIP S. DONNELL—Dean of engineering. GI housing is temporarily under his guidance.

DR. J. O. THOMSON—Director of student health. Illness and ailments of students are his responsibilities.

C. R. STRONG—College business manager. Disbursements and collections necessary for college functions go through his office.

J. L. SANDERSON—Assistant business manager. He helps keep college business affairs in good order.

R. R. TOMPKINS—Director of educational extension. Adults and undergraduates use his off-the-campus service.

E. E. BREWER—Superintendent of the physical plant. The physical condition of college buildings is under his scrutiny.

EDMON LOW—College librarian. The securing of the latest and most complete reading material is his business.

RAYMOND BERRY—Chief accountant in the office of the business manager. He balances college books.

RAYMOND GIROD—Head of administrative studies. His I. B. M. machines provide college officials with needed information.

CLEMENT E. TROUT—Head of technical journalism and chairman of the board of publications.

J. L. GILLUM—Manager of the College bookstore. Shortages of supplies and books for students occupy his time.

JOHN F. HOUCK—Bursar in the chief clerk's office. Fees paid by students are paid to his office.

L. D. MEYER—College purchasing agent. Purchasing wisely during college expansion is his job.

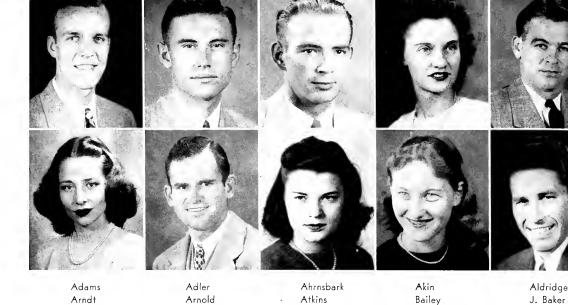

OF AGRICULTURE

Two statewide radio networks, Life magazine and several news-reel companies furnished on-the-spot coverage for the ceremony in which Royal Jupiter, college-bred steer, was crowned "King Sirloin of 1946-47" early in the winter. For this, thanks went to the Division of Agriculture which, in addition to offering the best instruction possible, has many activities of interest to the student body designed for the purpose of fostering good scholarship, friendly rivalry and earnest work.

OFARTS AND SCIENCES

The third school to be created on the campus, the School of Arts and Sciences has expanded its curriculum and administrative facilities since its founding until it occupies a vital niche in the framework of Oklahoma A. and M. The School of Arts and Sciences provides basic training for students in vocational schools and provides in four-year curricula the cultural background characteristic of well educated men and women.

De La Mater has to make the long reach at the Kappa Sig rush banquet (right above) while Doug Hogan, who is now more relaxed, gets his Sigma Nu pledge ribbons from Jimmie Jones. Thetas and rushees make like pretty for the camera at the right.

THE FIRST - OF - SCHOOL WHIRL

Bill Love and Flo Wainscott were the picture of sophistication at the ribbon dance. They were and here it is above. At the left, below, a slight idea of what went on at the Lambda Chi hobo dance. That's Trent "Ain't it Amusin'" Parkinson and KC Nelson at right. Right, below, the Kappa Sigs and their house dance where they gave an imitation of a small-sized sardine can.

- COMPLETE WITH COSTUMES

"Dere Boss, You said get the 'Bowery Brawl'. I did. See enclosed picture." We hear it was a brawl (above). The Pi Phi's knocked themselves out at their rush parties (lower left), and the Lambda Chi's outdid themselves when they brought the model T Ford into the Old Gym (lower right) for their hobo dance.

The Sigma Nu's jumped the gun by being the first on the campus to wear their "soup 'n fish" (above), and exmarine Kuper turns on the gab at the Sig Alph sailor dance. Theta Kappa Phi turned the Old Gym into a wood lot for its dance.

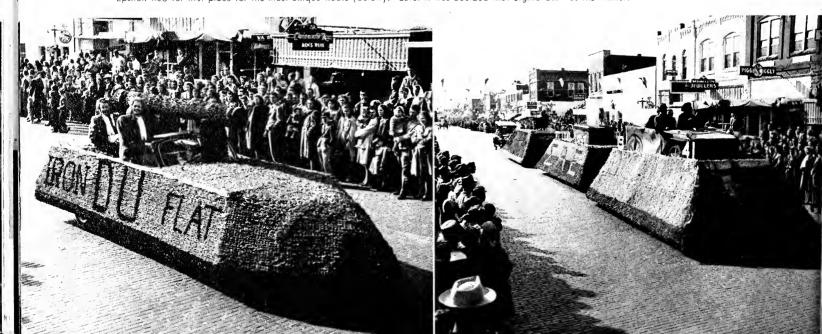

HOMECOMING!

JUS' PLAIN FOLKS

Out at Lambda Chi they believe in doing this sack time the right way. Pipe the pinup (above). As the old saying goes on the campus, "Every Monday night is YW night." Their members are initiated in a most impressive ceremony. And of course there's always Billie Rose and his Aquacade, but at A. and M. it's the Aquatics club and its feminine members who make aquatic beauty.

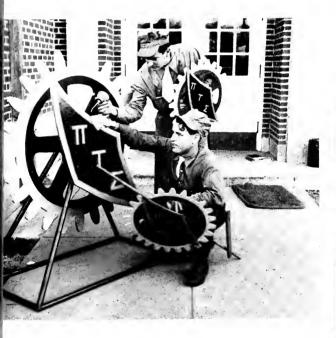

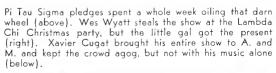

"That's a good gag, but let's get this ordeal finished," or maybe it was a good barbershop gag. Above left, Mr. Brewer holds his Christmas party for the kiddies. Hamilton, Critchfield, Hazelrigg, Schott and Adler, Incorporated, cook up shenanigans, below.

'47 STARTED —

The skating was better than good on Theta pond in spite of the sign that says "No Skating." Below, in Brooks during that unexpected storm, the customers lined up at the counter for coffee and doughnuts. At the Frat shop, two brave souls stuck it out when two staff members of the REDSKIN, Johnson and Rector, cleared the crowd when they walked in.

All over the place snow-loving Aggies were pelting each other; near Old Central (left), and in front of the Frat shop (right). Haven't the slightest idea how the Co-ed Prom got in here, but even if it was in October, the gals got a kick from it.

Everyone in the bookstore, except one girl, watches the door (above). Time was that the library wasn't nearly as crowded as it is now. Everyone's studying (right). Below, Earl Stratton is taking advantage of the peace and quiet in the "Y" hut.

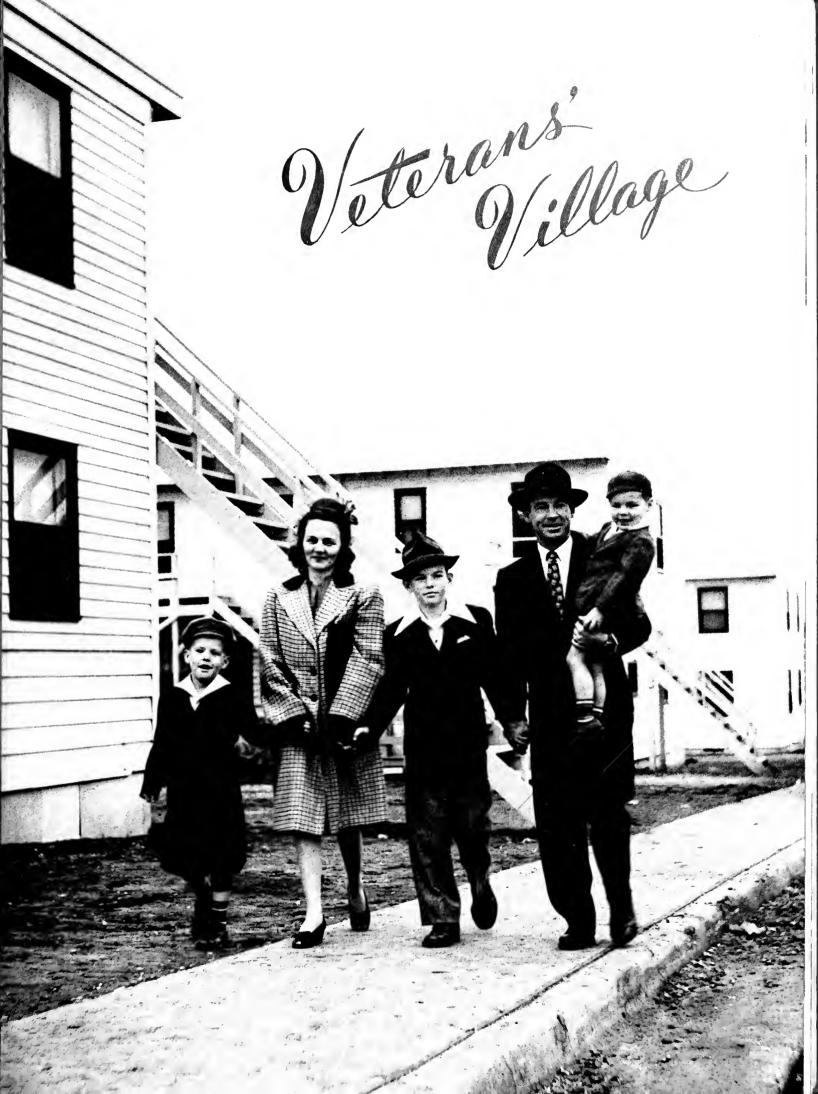

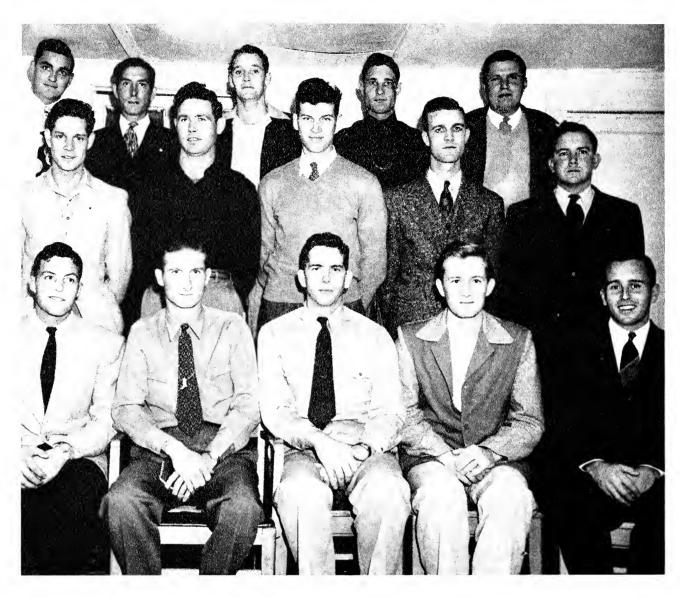

— WITH A STORM

When the new year was ushered in with a whopper of a storm, some Aggies had their fun on sleds (Rainey, put your hand down), others played it smart by warming up with coffee in Brooks, and on Theta, crack-the-whip was the sport of the day.

VETERANS VILLAGE —

Here are the men who help govern America's largest veterans village. They are the members of the Veterans Village council. Row I, Quentin Rizley, "Mayor of The Town," from Guymon, Oklahoma; Walter D. Skaggs, vice-mayor; Joe G. Vantine; C. A. Gough; M. M. Adams; Row 2, J. M. Shreve, J. O. Sandlin R. Foley, R. T. Winters, H. W. Mason; Row 3, L. A. Soloman, M. D. Burchett, L. L. West, O. O. Darnell, and W. M. Berger. Below is a civilian mail call, and next the new fire truck.

This is "proof positive" that the streets aren't always muddy. Below Dr. Henry G. Bennett makes his formal dedication address for the new dispensary.

Lieut. Governor James E. Berry also appeared to help dedicate the dispensary . . . Stevens, manager of the Village, gives out with a smile . . . and then there are the bull-dozers.

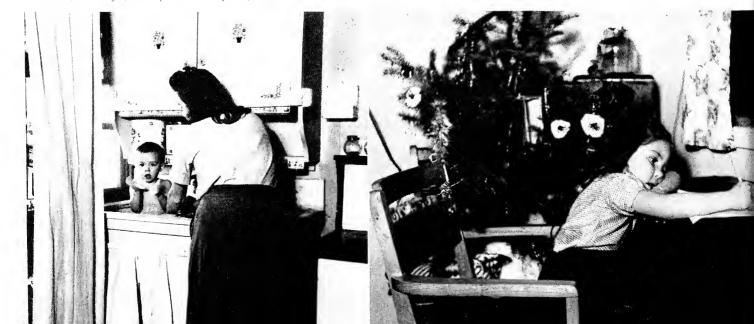

— WHERE VETS RELAX—

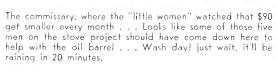

Babies seem to be gaining in popularity, 'specially at the Village . . . and don't forget Junior's bath on Saturday night . . . A Christmas tree, a little girl, and a pencil?? Why sure, it's a letter to Santa.

Pop looks pretty handy with a safety pin, doesn't he? . . . Of course a little session to smoke and talk with neighbors . . . The stoves arrive, with only five men to carry two stoves.

WITH ALL FACILITIES —

If you want to start a fight, try and take those oats away from the gentleman in the basket . . . Kelly still remains the biggest chow hound in Payne county . . . that's the way with grocery stores, the only exit is by the cash register.

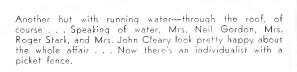

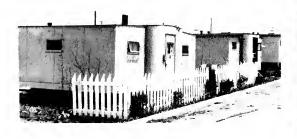

Here are some more idle workers who could have been helping with that barrel . . . A city bus shows up, that is worthy of a picture . . . No wonder that man isn't using that shovel, they are cuto!

- A MODERN CITY

This year found the third floor of the college infirmary occupied with—of all things—babies, and of course their respected and respective mothers . . . Shown above are a part of the maternity ward staff, some brand new mothers, and some "New Faces for 1947." Naturally they all signed contracts to send their children back to A. and M. for this higher education.

OF COMMERCE

Morrill hall, home of the Division of Commerce, is the place where commerce students "set up housekeeping" from the beginning of their college careers. Organized as two separate schools—the School of Commerce and the School of Intensive Business—the division prepares students for careers in business, but stresses courses designed not merely to teach the student to make money, but to teach him how to live.

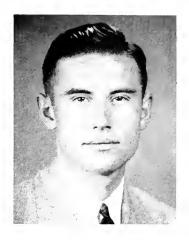

INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL

The Interfraternity council is composed of the president an dan appointee from each of the fraternities at Oklahoma A. and M. College. The president is chosen by rotation of the fraternities according to their date of founding on the campus, as is the vice-president. The secretary-treasurer is elected by the members of the council from their group. This year's officers were: Ray Adler, Lambda Chi Alpha, president; Wayne Weaver, Kappa Alpha, vice-president, and Hal Hazelrigg, Sigma Phi Epsilon, secretary-treasurer.

With the first full year of operation since the demobilization of fraternities in 1943 facing it, the Interfraternity council opened for business with the beginning of rush week before school. Rush was carried out as per schedule and following the rules of procedure laid down by the council at the end of the spring semester, 1946.

With the majority of the fraternity houses redecorated and refurnished by their owners, rush week was a colorful success, buzzing with reminiscences of prewar activities.

The Interfraternity council, cooperating with the Women's Panhellenic council on the selection of a date, sponsored a highly successful and fully entertaining ribbon dance in honor of all new pledges, fraternity and sorority. I. F. C.-s p o n-sored events for the year included: pledging and initiation business being perpetrated successfully . . . the readmission of two oldtimers, Pi Kappa Alpha and Acacia . . . the welcoming of two newcomers, Phi Delta Theta and

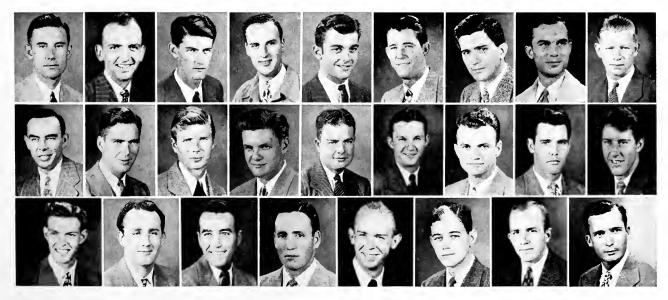

RAY ADLER, President

Tau Kappa Epsilon . . . the reactivation and guidance of the Interfraternity Pledge council . . . the operation of the annual interfraternity athletic program with cups and plaques being awarded the victorious fraternities . . . the exchange of desserts between fraternities and sororities . . . and the planning of the annual interfraternity sing at the end of the spring semester.

It is the purpose of this body to foster a spirit of friendliness and cooperative helpfulness among all fraternities on the campus; to provide an agency by means of which fraternities can cooperate in matters of common concern.

ALPHA GAMMA RHO

Alpha Gamma Rho is a national social fraternity chartered on the Oklahoma A. and M. College campus during the year 1921. The order was founded at Ohio State university, April 4, 1908. Its membership, consisting of men in agriculture and closely related fields, exceeds 12,000 and its 33 active chapters are distributed throughout the various states.

The fraternity insists that the active members and pledges maintain a high degree of scholarship. During the past 18 years, Alpha Gamma Rho has, on the average, ranked fourth in scholarship among the 59 to 66 national fraternities rated by the National Interfraternity conference.

Scholastic achievement, however, has not been their only accomplishment, as members of Alpha Gamma Rho have always taken an active part in campus organizations. They are represented in Blue Key, Phi Kappa Phi, Alpha Zeta, Phi Eta Sigma, and Sigma Delta Chi, in addition to various departmental clubs in the School of Agriculture.

Pi chapter is a strong contender in intramural athletics, having had outstanding football, basketball, and softball teams during the past season. The AGR's take pride in their trophy case which has an array of cups won by their athletic teams over a period of years.

A well-rounded series of social events, conducted by the organization throughout the year, were highlighted by the annual 'Barn Dance.' An annual Founders' day banquet is held each April, in honor of the founding of the fraternity. This banquet is for members, pledges and alumni only, and is spent in reminiscing over old times, viewing again the history of the order, and creating a closer union between the active members, pledges and the alumni.

BETA THETA PI

The first fraternity to be organized west of the Allegheny mountains, Beta Theta Pi, has continued to demonstrate leadership and pioneering spirit since its inception.

It was founded on August 8, 1839, at Miami university in Oxford, Ohio, by John Reilly Knox and seven associates. The first college fraternity magazine, "Beta Theta Pi," was founded in 1872 by Charles Duy Walker and has been used as a model for the framing of other national fraternal publications.

Starting with a membership of eight, Beta Theta Pi has taken its place among the leaders of college fraternities with a roll of 55,000 members in 90 collegiate active chapters.

Gamma Lambda chapter of Beta Theta Pi was established through the efforts of Delta Sigma, a local fraternity which was organized on the Oklahoma A. and M. College campus in 1908. The same qualities of character and initiative which have earned the fraternity its recognized national standing among the top few are in evidence in the local chapter.

Inactive during the war, the chapter was reactivated in the spring of 1946 by a nucleus of returning members who laid the groundwork for the most successful fall rush in the chapter's history. Always famous for the quality of its social functions, the chapter lived up to the precedents of prewar years with the "Kid Party," "Turkey Pull," spring formal and numerous informal affairs. At the Miami Triad spring dance the chapters of Beta Theta Pi and Sigma Chi welcomed the establishment of Phi Delta Theta chapter which completed the famous Miami Triad group on this campus.

The Beta Theta Pi boys are represented in nearly every campus organization and activity at A. and M. Its members are actively engaged in football, basketball, wrestling, track, Phi Eta Sig-

Nationally famous members of Beta Theta Pi fraternity are Owen D. Young, president of General Electric; past Senator William E. Borah, W. O. Douglas, past member of the United States supreme court, and Bob LaFollette.

FARM HOUSE

Farm House is a semi-professional fraternity organized for the purpose of fostering fellowship, scholarship, and high principles of moral character among students in agriculture. It was founded in 1905 at the University of Missouri by a small group of students who were interested in providing a home with invigorating environment for worthy students in agriculture.

The name Farm House was chosen because the founders wished to emulate the farm home and its life. They desired to select a name that was distinctive of their profession and symbolic of the ideals of their brotherhood, as the colonial farm house of 300 years ago became the foundation of our present social, moral, and intellectual ideals of the fraternity and its members.

The local chapter of Farm House was installed in May, 1928, and is now one of the outstanding chapters in the nation. The Oklahoma chapter has consistently been at the top scholastically on the A. and M. campus because of careful selection of members. Membership is limited to agricultural students.

This fall Farm House had an excellent representation on the campus. Three members were on the meats judging team which placed first at the American Royal in Kansas City. Three members were on the livestock judging team which won first place at the American Royal in Kansas City. In addition one member won the Danforth award for the outstanding junior in the School of Agriculture.

Social functions for the year include a fall hayrack ride, formal dance, Christmas party, spring party, and numerous house parties.

The campus organizations in which Farm House members are represented are: Alpha Zeta, Aggie society, Collegiate 4-H club, Aggie-X society, Dairy club, Block and Bridle, Future Farmers of America, Agronomy club, En-

This year's Farm House officers are as follows: president, Edward Gregory; vice-president, William J. VanArsdell; secretary, Estel Cobb; treasurer, Chauncey Schaller, and pledge master, Don Rader.

KAPPA ALPHA

The Kappa Alpha Order had its original fraternity organized by students at Washington and Lee university, Lexington, Virginia, in December, 1865, soon after General Robert E. Lee became president of that institution. Under the sponsorship of General Lee, four young men banded together to form an organization to preserve the principles of southern chivalry and hospitality. It first was called Phi Kappa Chi. These men were threatened by the chaos following the Civil war. The ideas and aims of the founders were inspired largely by the circumstances of the time and place, and it was their happy fortune to take as the foundation of their structure, principles which must ever command the support of all honest hearts.

Kappa Alpha, the remaining fraternity of the many founded with avowed southern intention, now counts 67 chapters on leading campuses throughout Dixieland, ranking 10th in membership among national fraternities. These chapters are under the supervision of 10 geographic province councils with the knight commander acting as administrative head of the entire order.

The fraternity's magazine is the ''Kappa Alpha Journal,'' published quarterly, and an illustrated manual is published annually. The colors having a special meaning to K. A.'s are crimson and old gold. The Kappa Alpha flowers are the crimson rose and the magnolia blossom.

Beta Xi chapter of Kappa Alpha Order came into being on March 18, 1920, the second national fraternity to be established on the Oklahoma A. and M. campus. Inactive during the war years, K. A.'s have returned in force to the old plantation on Hester street to resume their place of leadership in campus activities.

Highlight of the social calendar is the annual Kappa Alpha Dixie ball, one of the outstanding dances of the year at A. and M. On this occasion the southern gentlemen step out in grand style in traditional southern costumes. A hayride, a Christmas dinner and dance, a spring picnic, and a spring sports dance which promised to be very unique, are also included in the social plans.

Present officers are: Bill Fisher, president; Bill Hines, vice-president; Don Stanfield, secretary; Fred Dillard, treasurer; Bill Kirkberger, social chairman, and Hugh Warden, historian.

KAPPA SIGMA

Resuming its position of leadership on the campus, Gamma Psi chapter of Kappa Sigma fraternity captured many honors and achievements in all fields during the past college year.

Incorporated are the principles and ideals employed in the original fraternity founded in 1400 A. D. at the University of Bologna, Italy. The Gamma Psi chapter was chartered on May 10, 1920, at Stillwater, and is one of the 114 active chapters in America. Kappa Sigma's total membership exceeds 50,000.

Among the most prominent Kappa Sigmas of the A. and M. chapter are Wayne Thorndyke, who was named most outstanding agricultural freshman in the nation before the war; past agricultural senator, Blue Key, member of meats judging team winning first at International exposition, and Alpha Zeta.

Paul Stewart is president of the Student Senate, business manager of the 1947 "Redskin", editor of the 1946 "Redskin", vice-president of Blue Key, Sigma Tau, and Who's Who, 1946.

O. J. Finley is president of the Baptist Student Union; Who's Who, and Pi Tau Sigma. Duane Geis is president of Beta Alpha Psi, in Who's Who, Phi Kappa Phi, Blue Key, and is business manager of the "Aggievator".

Sam Regier is secretary-treasurer of the "O" club, secretary-treasurer of Sigma Tau, and a member of Blue Key.

Don Stewart was director of the Varsitonians, campus dance band. Bill Seal and Bill Hinkle were members of Blue Key and Pat Murphy was in Who's Who in 1946.

Representing Kappa Sigma in athletics were Sam Regier in track; Bob DeMoss, football; Paul McDaniels, holder of '43 NAAU wrestling championship, and Bob Todd in wrestling.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

Lambda Chi Alpha, the oldest social fraternity on the A. and M. campus, began its history as a local chapter in January, 1917, at which time it petitioned the national fraternity and became Alpha Eta Zeta of Lambda Chi Alpha.

The national fraternity was founded November 2, 1909, at Boston university. Today, Lambda Chi Alpha has 115 chapters, two being in Canada. Three other chapters are located in Oklahoma, at Oklahoma university, Tulsa university, and Oklahoma City university.

Seven times during the school year, each member and the alumni receive a copy of the "Cross and Crescent," the publication of the fraternity. The fraternity has a national convention every two years, the last (1946) was attended by Ray Adler and Bob Harrison from this chapter. The southwestern district conclave was held this spring at Tulsa university.

The hobo dance, rose festival dance, Founder's day banquet, Mother's day program, Christmas dansant, and Thanksgiving, Christmas, and senior dinners are among the leading events on the fraternity's social calendar.

Lambda Chi won first place this year for its float entry in the beauty division of the homecoming parade. The fraternity also placed second in scholastic rating during 1945-46.

Faculty members now on the campus who are members of Lambda Chi are: Henry P. Iba, Paul

Adams, Edward C. Burris, A. Frank Martin, Morris Blair, Frank Cross, Frank Hladky, Dewitt Hunt and D. Terry Martin. The chapter is also proud to list Dr. L. L. Lewis, deceased, former president of A. and M. college. Two of the outstanding men in their particular fields of endeavor from this chapter are Chester Gould, author and creator of Dick Tracy, and Leroy McGuirk, national wrestling champion. President Harry S. Truman

The chapter's officers are Ray Adler, president; Bob Harrison, vice-president; J. W. Parrott, secretary; Bob Edwards, treasurer; Bill Wyatt, social chairman; Gordon Tucker, ritualist, and Orel Irby, correspondent.

Lambda Chi Alpha has representation in all campus organizations and holds important offices in the majority of them.

PHI DELTA THETA

The Phi Delta Theta fraternity was founded at Miami university, Oxford, Ohio, in 1848, making it one of the earliest men's social fraternities west of the Alleghenies. And therefore, it has been an inspiration to men and a well-rounded institution by which they can further their development in their scholastic and social education. Phi Delta Theta started with a membership of six and has grown steadily to reach 108 active chapters with a membership of approximately 55,000.

Because of the rapid expansion after the Civil war, the fraternity has 62 chapters over 50 years old, more than any other fraternity.

The election of 1888 was the first in which the president, Benjamin Harrison, Phi Delta Theta '52, was an active fraternity man and in which such connections played a part in the campaign. Phi Delta Theta was the first fraternity to adopt a day for celebration throughout the country.

Since Benjamin Harrison's time, there have been leading Phi Delts in every walk of life. Some of the most outstanding are: Adlai E. Stevenson, vice-president of the United States; Robert P. Patterson, secretary of war; Fred M. Vinson, chief justice of the supreme court; Harold L. Ickes, former secretary of the interior; William Allen White, Ray Stannard Baker, Louis Bromfield, Grantland Rice, Lou Gehrig, Tom Harmon, and George M. Trautman.

February I, 1946, Zeta Chi, a local fraternity which later became Phi Delta Theta, was organized the Oklahoma A, and M, cam-on the Oklahoma A. and M. campus. Sixteen men who constantly strived to bring to the campus the fraternity which would most benefit not only Oklahoma A. and M. but also the Greek world banded together. The granting of the charter on September 8, 1946, which brought Phi Delta Theta to this campus, completed the Miami Triad and was one of the first steps taken in the postwar expansion program of the Greek world

In addition to the 42 charter

In addition to the 42 charter members, three Phi Delta Thetas who have affiliated with the charter chapter took the lead in the installation of the chapter.

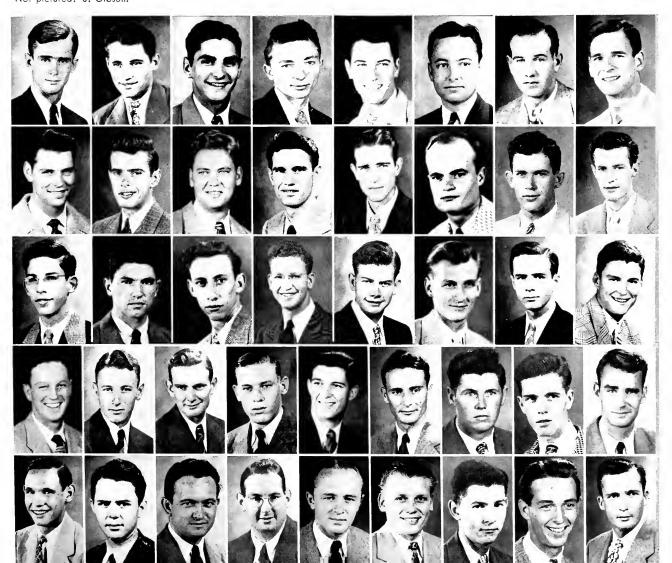

This year's officers are: Walter Woolley, president; Bob Biestel, vice-president; Marlen Davis, secretary; James Shouse, treasurer; Joe Gibson, social chairman; Richard Crow, alumni secretary, and Harold Hughes, historian.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

In 1868 five young men from Virginia who had been lifelong friends and had fought side by side in the Civil war for the Confederacy, along with a newly found friend from the north, bound themselves together to form a fraternity that would live through the years and perpetuate the bond of friendship which they held for each other.

Gamma Chi chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha, after being absent during the war years, is again on the A. and M. campus upholding the high ideals, promoting fellowship and brotherhood that has come down to us through the years.

This year the members and pledges chose as their Dream Girl, Reba Estes, who was crowned at the annual fall dance, the Pi K. A. Pow Wow, by Jack Tubb, fraternity president. This dance is becoming a more popular campus feature each year.

The officers elected for the first semester were Jack Tubb, president; Hurley Lane, vice-president; Ken Henderson, secretary, and Evan Karnes, treasurer. Second semester officers are Bill Norton, president; Bruce Wilson, vice-president; Edward Johnston, secretary, and Evan Karnes, treasurer.

Pi Kappa Alpha is represented in the honorary organizations on the campus with Jimmie Baker being selected for "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges."

Pi Kappa Alpha now has 81 chapters scattered over the United States, with at least one chapter in each state. The "Shield and Diamond" is the peer of fraternity magazines, being published five times during the college year. It keeps the many Pi Kappa Alphas up to date on the doings of their fraternity and fraternity brothers.

The council charters chapters, supervises all publications, adopts the annual budget, decides the time and place of national conventions, fixes the amounts of the national initiation and yearly dues, and may suspend chapters and suspend and expel members and reinstate former members. Headquarters offices of the fraternity are in Atlanta, Georgia.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was founded on the campus of the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa, on March 9, 1856. Originally consisting of eight members, the fraternity has grown until it now includes a total of 115 active chapters. Its property valuation is over $5,000,000.

Originally Chi Beta, a campus local, Oklahoma Mu chapter was granted a charter and installed February 14, 1931. From its beginning as a local to the present, Oklahoma Mu has ranked not only high on the campus, but throughout the nation.

As are other chapters of national fraternities on the campus, Oklahoma Mu is going through a difficult reconversion period. However, SAE has continued to maintain her high postwar position.

This is due, to a great degree, to the participation of members of the fraternity who attended A. and M. before the war. These members have been able to add to the enthusiasm of the men who have become members of the fraternity since reactivation in January, 1946. The combination of experience and enthusiasm has proved to be invaluable.

SAE has continued to stress scholarship as well as the social aspect of college life. It has continued to be near the top insofar as grade averages are concerned.

Socially, SAE carried out five social functions during the school year. The first semester was high-lighted by a hayrack ride and the revival of their traditional sailor dance. During the second semester three functions—the annual formal dance, revival of the plantation party, and a spring picnic—were held. Another tradition, the Christmas serenade, was once again held.

Once again, as in years past, Sig Alphs were active in most of the campus activities. Sports, organizations and publications saw many active members taking leading roles. In sports John Carey and Jim Parmer were outstanding in football; Blake Williams and Larry Hayes were outstanding in basketball. Leadership in organizations included the president of Blue Key, the president of Press club, editor of the "Redskin", and president of Phi Eta Sigma.

SIGMA CHI

Founded at Miami university, Oxford, Ohio, on June 28, 1855, by seven men who rebelled from another organization because of underhanded practices, Sigma Chi was the 19th college fraternity and was a member of the famous Miami Triad with Beta Theta Pi and Phi Delta Theta.

Gamma Delta chapter of Sigma Chi was established on the A. and M. campus December 15, 1922. During the war, along with the other fraternities, the chapter was inactive. It reactivated January 1, 1946, and formally pledged one of the largest pledge classes in its history. However, this number was exceeded in the fall of 1946, as were pledge classes of other fraternities on the campus.

Sigma Chi participated in one of the most outstanding social functions on the campus—the Miami Triad dance. Sigs, as well as members of the other two participating fraternities, expect this to be the first of many such successful dances to come.

One of the most outstanding social functions on the Aggie campus—whether in the house or held in the Old Gym—was the formal house dance. Corsages were orchids and dates of members and guests were presented with silver signet rings.

A semiformal dance was held in the Old Gym in the fall in addition to the house dance. Other social events such as picnics and hayrack rides were held.

Sigma Chi is active on the campus in sports, organizations and publications. Roy Binger and "Bo" Watson are outstanding in baseball and were the spark-plugs of the Sig touch football and basketball teams in interfraternity sports. In the publications, Jim

RUFUS KIRK, President

Critchfield was assistant editor of the "Aggievator", copy editor of the REDSKIN and was formerly managing editor of the "O'Colly."

Officers for the first semester were: Rufus Kirk, president; Charles Simons, vice-president; Bob Blankenburg, secretary; Paul Teel, treasurer; and Bill Sutton, social chairman.

SIGMA NU

Sigma Nu was founded at Virginia Military institute in 1869 by James Hopkins, James Riley, and Greenfield Quarles and was known as the Legion of Honor. From this nucleus sprang the 98 active chapters in 46 states which form the national structure of Sigma Nu. October 18, 1920, stands as a milestone in this chapter's history for it became Epsilon Epsilon, number 97, of Sigma Nu fraternity.

The purpose of Sigma Nu is first of all the attainment of fellowship which makes men true comrades. In order to attain true friendship the ideals of honor, scholastic achievement, character, and loyalty are the tenets upon which the fraternity rests. Through guidance and cooperation the members hope to instill into the novices these ideals that they may become better men. Above all the idea of Sigma Nu is to inculcate loyalty to Oklahoma A. and M. College.

The white star of Sigma Nu, whose image can be seen shining from the chapter roof, is the emblem of Sigma Nu fraternalism. It consists of five arms which hold a coiled serpent in the center and inscribed on each arm are the Greek letters, Sigma, Nu, Epsilon, Tau, Tau. The official flower is the white rose and the colors of Sigma Nu are black, white, and gold.

As a social fraternity Sigma Nu is very active, with many informal parties which included the house redecoration party, the sweater party, and the harvest party. Later in the year came the dance of dances, the white star formal. In the spring the annual frontier ball was held for the first time since the fraternity was closed.

One of our most notable wearers of the white star on the A. and M. campus is Bob Fenimore, Cowboy All-American and one of the greatest football products in the school's history. Other football greats are Neil Armstrong and Nate Watson who, with Fenimore, were selected by "Who's Who" for American colleges for last year. Other members of the Aggie football team who are due to make history in the coming years are Harvey Griffin and Frank Sprueill. Other Sigma Nu's are members of the basketball and track teams.

The officers for this year are: James Jones, commander; Lee Murray, lieutenant commander; Milton Emmons, treasurer, and Edgar Dayton, recorder.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

Sigma Phi Epsilon was founded at the University of Richmond in October, 1901, and has now grown to be the 12th largest among the nation's fraternities, with 75 chapters and 26,000 members. In the year 1920, Sigma Phi Epsilon was established upon the Oklahoma A. and M. campus. Sigma Tau, a strong local, affiliated with the progressive and comparatively young fraternity.

The internal organization of the local chapter follows the policies and aims of the national headquarters to the fullest extent. The ableness of this guidance has been proved by the large number of leadership positions which Sig Eps hold in student honorary, military, professional, athletic, and pep organizations on this campus.

This year three members of the fraternity were honored by being chosen for "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." This group included Steve Synar, senator from the School of Agriculture; Hal Hazelrigg, editor of the "Aggievator" and former president of the Press Club, and Walter Florence, president of the Engineering society.

The social highlights of the year for Sigma Phi Epsilon are the annual Sig Ep "Bowery Brawl" and the "Golden Heart Formal", along with numerous house dances, hay rides, and many informal parties.

The chapter is backed by strong alumni chapters in Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Muskogee, and Stillwater, which each year conduct the summer activities for members of Sigma Phi Epsilon in the state of Oklahoma.

Sigma Phi Epsilon is one of four national fraternities which owns its own house. The national setup has a student loan and fellowship fund for the aid of undergraduate members. A Sig Ep endowment fund aids chapters in buying their homes. The famed Sig Ep plan of finance, formerly known as the Purdue plan, has been widely copied by other national fraternities and sororities. Although a young fraternity, Sigma Phi Epsilon has always been a pioneer in the fraternity field.

Officers of Sigma Phi Epsilon are: S. M. Hart, president; Jerry F. Boutwell, vice-president; Bill R. Seikel, controller; Hal Hazelrigg, secretary, and Ed Synar, historian.

THETA KAPPA PHI

The founders of Theta Kappa Phi, an organization for Catholic men, were a group of undergraduate students at Lehigh university, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, who were granted permission to found the order by Cardinal Dennis J. Dougherty, Archbishop of Philadelphia. Cardinal Dougherty became the chaplain of the fraternity and sailed for Rome to secure the Papal blessing for Theta Kappa Phi. The fraternity itself was founded October 1, 1914.

Theta Kappa Phi expanded with surprising rapidity, spreading its chapters nation-wide, strengthening the backbone of college life, fraternalism. The number of the chapters has now reached 14.

Nu chapter of Theta Kappa Phi has followed the footsteps of its mother, rising from the Beta chapter of the Friars to its installation as Nu chapter in the spring of 1937.

Striving to maintain an active and progressive chapter, the chapter has emphasized scholarship and participation in campus affairs. Members of the chapter represent the chapter in many campus organizations and have consistently maintained one of the better scholastic averages.

Participation in social life is another not-to-be-forgotten phase of Nu chapter. The high spot of its social season is the "Woodchoppers Ball" which, as its name suggests, carries with it the lumberjack atmosphere complete with logs and saws. Informal entertaining at the house, with a picnic and hayrack ride, complete their social calendar.

Theta Kappa Phi this year pledged one of the largest groups in its history.

A C A C I A

After a war-time absence of four years, the Oklahoma A. and M. chapter of Acacia fraternity has been reactivated and is again functioning as one of the leading fraternities on this campus.

Acacia was founded at the University of Michigan, May 12, 1904—the result of the ambition of students to improve the general standards of fraternities. In 1923 the local Square and Compass fraternity petitioned the Acacia fraternity and received its charter as the Oklahoma A. and M. chapter on May 12 of the same year.

Freemasonry is commonly accepted as the parent of all secret fraternal societies as they exist today. Practically every modern fraternity has chosen the ideals of Freemasonry in one form or another as the basis of its order. Originally membership in Acacia was limited to Masons or sons of Masons, but in 1933 requirements were made less severe by admitting any person recommended by two Masons.

The name "Acacia" is not a Greek-letter word, but the Greek name of an eastern evergreen, the evergreen symbolizing immortality. Acacia is a name that is easily remembered and has a distinctiveness which sets it apart from the often-confusing Greek-letter names of other fraternities.

The Acacia fraternity is a "university fraternity" consisting of 25 chapters and 15,000 members, the chapters being located at the larger universities and colleges throughout the nation and being named for the schools at which they are located. Nationally, Acacia stands in first place among the fraternities in scholarship.

Membership pin is a threefour-five right triangle of gold with a jeweled border. Within this triangle in a field of black are outlined in gold three smaller triangles. The pledge button is a gold right triangle set in a round black disc.

Outstanding college authorities who hold membership in the Acacia fraternity are Boh Makovsky, Ren G. Saxton, Raymond Bivert, J. A. Lothers, V. G. Heller, S. L. Reed, and C. P. Thompson.

TAU KAPPA EPSILON

Beta Gamma, the 51st chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity, was originated on the campus of Oklahoma A. and M. College as a recognized colony of the national organization on October 16, 1946, and was installed January 31, 1947.

Tau Kappa Epsilon as a national organization is not new. It originated at Illinois Wesleyan university on January 10, 1899.

On February 15, 1909, a new constitution was adopted which declared establishment of the fraternity on a national basis, provided for the election of seven national officers, and set up a method for inspecting and chartering additional chapters.

The fraternity adopted the equilateral triangle as its chief geometric symbol. It is significant that the first three chapters are so geographically located so as to form the species of such a triangle.

The membership badge is a scroll, surmounted by an equilateral triangle with beveled edges, displaying a skull and cross bones on a black enamel surface covering the inner portion of the triangle. In the angles of the triangle, white pearls are set, and on the scroll, in black enamel, are the letters,

"TKE". The pledge button is an equilateral triangle, the sides of which are three-eighths of an inch in length, the outside edges beveled and covered with gray enamel. The center of the triangle is covered with cherry enamel.

The flower is the red carnation; the jewel is the white pearl; the colors are cherry and gray; motto, the Greek letters Pi, Alpha, Omega, Epsilon, Alpha; the crest consists of a peeis helmet, a death's head, three quarter profile proper; mantling, gules, and double argent.

The officers are Ray Mendenhall, president; Donald M. McKay, vice-president; Tom L. Bryant, secretary; Ralph A. Brenneman, treasurer; Bob Sappington, historian; W. Sam Schneider, chaplain; Hugh Duncan, pledge master; Gerald Alexander, sergeant-atarms.

The first formal initiation of Tau Kappa Epsilon on the A. and M. campus was held in January.

ALPHA DELTA PI

The blue and white colors of Alpha Delta Pi have been in the spotlight in Greek organizations since its founding May 15, 1851, at Wesleyan College for Women in Macon, Georgia. Alpha Omicron chapter was installed at Oklahoma A. and M. College in 1921.

Standards of the sorority, its colors, the violet flower, and diamond-shaped pin, have remained virtually unchanged throughout its 96 years of existence.

Alpha Delta Pi has 65 chapters in the United States and Canada, including two in Oklahoma—one at A. and M. and the other at the University of Oklahoma.

Four national funds of prominence are maintained by Alpha Delta Pi, including the Adelphean Endowment fund for the perpetuation of the quarterly magazine, the Building and Loan fund, the Abigail Davis Student loan fund, and the 1851 Memorial Fellowship fund. The latest recipient of Alpha Delta Pi's Memorial Fellowship fund is Louise Fuleihan of Beirut, Lebanon, for study at the University of Chicago on the problem of Palestine.

With its open motto of "We Live for Each Other," Alpha Delts through the years have been striving to carry it out in every way.

Alpha Omicron chapter is led by Mary Jo McEntire, president; Barbara Harrison, vice-president; Atha McCuiston and Caroline Benson, secretaries, and Evelyn Fielder, treasurer.

Alpha Delta Pi has been active socially and athletically. Helen McCoy won the golf championship, Doris Lee Rooney won the singles in ping pong, and Mary Lou Rogers and Laverne Stephens won the table tennis doubles. The bowling team placed first in sorority competition and was high in badminton playoffs in the first semester. Alpha Delta will remember the informal listening party when Georgia played A. and M.,

CHI OMEGA

The cardinal and straw ribbons of Chi Omega were first seen on the Oklahoma A. and M. College campus in 1920. Members of Tau Beta chapter now are a part of the 38,000 active members of the fraternity's 98 chapters in the United States.

Since 1930, the National Achievement award, sponsored by Chi Omega, has been designated the highest ranking medal for women in the United States. Presented annually to a woman of notable accomplishments in the fields of public affairs, art, the professions, business and finance, education and literature, this gold medal has been won by such famous women as Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, Katherine Cornell and Margaret Mead.

A Greek theater presented in 1930 by the fraternity to the University of Arkansas stands as a symbol of Chi Omega's appreciation of its founding there in 1895.

Annually, a prize is awarded by the chapter to the senior woman student with a major in either economics or sociology who is judged by a faculty committee from the School of Commerce to have the best record among women students in the field of her major.

Orange and Black Quill. Mary Wilbanks was president of Mortar Board and president of Theta Sigma Phi. Pat White, senior with a four-point grade average, is secretary of Mortar Board and president of Sigma Tau Delta.

Other Chi O's holding offices include Dorinda Means, treasurer of Peppers; Helen Hartley, vice-president of Pi Gamma Mu; Mary Ellen Kurland, board of publications, and Joann Reid, drum majorette of girl's band.

Orange and Black Quillers from the chapter are Marguerite Walde and Beth Harrington; Juanita Barrow is a member of Orange Quill.

DELTA ZETA

Delta Zeta was founded at Miami university, Oxford, Ohio, October 25, 1902, when six girls away from home felt the need of strong ties of friendship. Guided and encouraged by their college president, they had several meetings and chose the diamond as their jewel, the kilarney rose as their flower, and vieux green and old rose as their colors.

Founded on these traditions of pioneer days, Delta Zeta has grown rapidly, particularly this past year when, on August 10, the sorority accepted into membership Phi Omega Pi. Among its internationally known members, Delta Zeta counts Princess Martha of Norway and her lady-in-waiting. Other wellknown personalities are Clarebil Steinberg of the supreme court, Gail Patrick, Leslie Ford, Mrs. Gerald P. Nye, and Major Marion Boyd Dryden.

Delta Zeta's pin, a Roman lamp with four pearls at the base and a diamond in the flame, is a tangible symbol of the fraternity standing for a high aim of friendship, service, and loyalty to the great ideals of womanhood.

A national council of five members, which may hold meetings during the interim of biennial conventions, administers the government of the sorority. The chapters are grouped into seven provinces with a president over each. Each chapter has an alumna advisor who is responsible to the national council. A province convention where the active and alumnae chapters of each province meet is held when there is not a national convention. A central office is maintained in Indianapolis.

The local chapter has been active in college activities. Ruth Ellen Lewis was president of Junior Panhellenic; Margaret Melka served as secretary of Women's Panhellenic; Louise Cain and Barbara Martin were members of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet and Elinor Roach was on the A. W. S. cabinet. Delta Zeta also has members in Orange and Black Quill and Spirits soared higher and higher with numerous social events on the sorority's calendar, including the Halloween "Cobweb Hobble", the annual "Western Barbeque", the Christmas "Star Dance", and the traditional "Spring Rose Formal".

Officers of the local chapter are Bobby Jean Webb, president; Louise Cain, vice-president; Elinor Roach, secretary, and Betty Jo Greenwood, treasurer.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

"Theta lips are smiling, Theta eyes are too—"

Kappa Alpha Theta was founded January 27, 1870, at DePauw university, Greencastle, Indiana, as the first Greek letter fraternity known among women. During its 76 years of growth, Kappa Alpha Theta has remained one of the foremost of national women's fraternities.

The colors chosen for the fraternity were black and gold, symbolized by the black pansy. The emblem is the Theta kite.

The basic principle of the fraternity is to be an incentive to social, intellectual, and moral growth; through scholarship, fellowship and friendship. A scholarship fund assists worthy members to complete their education.

The Beta Zeta chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta was installed at Stillwater on July 3, 1919. It has maintained not only superior scholarship but also high ideals as well. The officers who have been instrumental to our success this year are: Suzanne Settle, president; Savilla Simons, vice-president; Betty June Crowder, secretary, and Louise Ruark, treasurer.

The Thetas are proud of their members who have been outstanding since January, 1946. They are Edwinna Leonard, who was Sugar bowl queen of 1946; Kitty Orth, First Lady of Commerce; Pat Burns, sweetheart of the San Mateo merchant marine base, and Carol Lahman and Joan Vassar Seal who were listed in "Who's Who Among American Colleges and Universities." Theta continued her tradition of winning the Folk Dance festival, having done so every year since the origination of it three years ago. Our pledges upheld our scholarship standards by having the highest average among the various pledge classes on the campus.

prises in which the local chapter takes part with all the other chapters, besides the scholarship fund, are the DePauw memorial library, friendship fund, magazine agency, and chapter libraries.

In the future, as in the past, Theta will continue to uphold her high ideals and the traditions of A. and M. college.

KAPPA DELTA

Kappa Delta, founded October 23, 1897, at Virginia State College for Women, has been the first national sorority on more campuses than any other women's fraternity. Included in this list of "first chapters" is Nu chapter at Oklahoma A. and M. College, the first national panhellenic sorority on the campus.

On this campus the girls who show partiality to the diamond shield and the olive green and white have long been active in campus affairs. This year Betty Mays is a member of the Commerce Student council, Peppers council, and WAA; Janice Tilley is a member of Newman club, Players club, Pan-American Student forum, Xi Mu, Peppers, Speakers club, and secretary of International Relations club.

Alice Lorraine Heard is a member of Orange Quill, legislative board of AWS, YWCA cabinet, WAA cabinet, "O'Collegian" news editor, and a member of Peppers and the REDSKIN and "Aggievator" staffs. Clara Ann Bartlett is president of Phi Chi Delta and a member of Alpha Pi Mu, Pi Zeta Kappa, WAA, and the YWCA cabinet, and a member of the Panhellenic council.

Donna Rising, a member of Peppers, Omicron Nu, and the Home Economics club, was awarded the Borden scholarship in the School of Home Economics, and the Oklahoma A. and M. College Home Economics scholarship given annually to the most outstanding senior in that field. Louise Brooks was elected president of the Tau Beta Sigma pledge class, and Joan Hull is secretary of the Girls' band.

Jean Adams is secretary of Speakers club.

Dorothy Mann is a member of Student Federalists, YWCA, WAA, "Aggievator" and "O'Collegian" staffs, and is assistant copy editor of the REDSKIN. Barbara Schott is secretary-treasurer of Theta Sigma Phi, assistant editor of the "Aggievator," copy editor of the REDSKIN, vice-president of the Student Federalists, social chairman of the Newman club.

CLARA ANN BARTLETT, President

Kappa Deltas have membership in many other campus organizations, including Kappa Phi, WAA, YWCA, Sigma Alphalota, Terpsichorean, Pi Zeta Kappa, Peppers, Dairy club, Aggie society, Rifle club, and the Fencing club.

Officers for this year were Clara Ann Bartlett, president; Mary Jo Whillock, vice-president; Janice Tilley, secretary, and Ruth Motter, treasurer.

PI BETA PHI

Pi Beta Phi was founded at Monmouth college, Monmouth, Illinois, on April 28, 1867. It was the first organization of college women established as a national college fraternity. There are now 90 active chapters and approximately 32,000 members. Oklahoma Beta chapter of Pi Beta Phi was established on the A. and M. campus in 1919.

The easily recognized Pi Beta Phi pin is a slender golden arrow and linked chain with a pearl encrusted shaft, having the Greek letters at its base.

Pi Beta Phi has as its ideal something more than to be a mere social fraternity. In 1922, a settlement school was founded at Gatlinburg, Tennessee, which was the first altruistic work of its kind and it stands as a memorial to the founders of the fraternity.

Officers of Oklahoma Beta are Jo Ann Mullendore, president; Doris Jean Townsell, vice-president; Patricia Nichols, secretary, and Carol Merrifield Giles, treasurer.

Pauline Dilts was selected one of 25 girls in the United States to attend a special course at Merrill-Palmer school in Detroit.

The engineering queen's crown sat gracefully on the head of Maggie Parks, once again fulfilling the tradition that the Pi Phi house is a house of queens. Charlene Greer was chosen Lambda Chi sweetheart, and Rosalee Deardorff reigned as queen of the annual Beaux Arts ball.

Carol Merrifield Giles, well-known on the campus for her achievements, chalked up more honors this year. She was tapped for Mortar Board and acted as sponsor of Orange and Black Quill. She was also vice-president of Pi Alpha Theta and received the highest honor given on this campus, that of selection for Phi Kappa Phi.

Doris Jean Townsell, Mary Jo Botkin, Mary Martin, Gloria Berry,

Patsy Mitchell and Betty Clifton served with Jo Ann Mullendore on the YWCA cabinet. Jean Marie Kerns was tapped for Mortar Board and was elected vice-president of that organization. Mary Martin was president of Orange and Black Quill and Virginia Vandergrift was president of Orange Quill. The Pi Phis won first place with their homecoming house decoration.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

Zeta Tau Alpha was officially founded October 15, 1898, at the Virginia State Normal school, Farmville, Virginia, although first meetings toward organization were held in 1897. The colors of the fraternity are turquoise blue and steel gray. The flower is the white violet. Alpha Upsilon chapter was chartered on the Oklahoma A. and M. campus in 1923.

Zeta Tau Alpha, one of the six women's fraternities that pioneered the south, maintains four altruistic projects. These are the scholarship loan fund, the Maude Jones Horner scholarship fund, the Hopkins fund, and the National Philanthropic fund. The object of the fraternity is the intensifying of friendship, the fostering of the spirit of love, the creating of such sentiments, and the molding of such opinions as will be conducive to building a nobler and purer womanhood.

Zeta Tau Alpha has 81 active college chapters and is one of the few international fraternities having an active chapter in Canada.

The chapter officers are Joy Johnson, president; Charlotte Sharer, vice-president; Delores Woodruff, secretary, and Celeste Shinkle, treasurer.

Zeta Tau Alpha has been very active socially and athletically. The social calendar began with openhouse, Kappa Kappa Gamma and Alpha Chi Omega welcome teas, a hayrack ride, Founder's day banquet, homecoming dinner, Parents day dinner, Christmas formal, Valentine dansant, and the spring formal.

Fall initiation and banquet were held in November at the chapter house. Spring initiation was held early in March. Mrs. L. G. Dooley, second vice-president of Zeta Tau Alpha, was one of the many alumnae present at both initiations.

The pledges of Zeta Tau Alpha gave the members their annual Halloween party and later in the year a formal dance. The traditional harem tea was given by the pledge class this year for the other Greek pledges on the A. and M. campus.

Just before the Christmas holidays, Zeta Tau Alpha gave its annual party for the children of the ZTA alumnae, at which the houseboys presided as Santa Claus. After the party for the children, the members and pledges exchanged gifts and took part in holiday games.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Alpha Chi Omega, one of the 10 organizers of National Panhellenic congress, was founded at DePauw university, October 15, 1885, and since that time, 70 active chapters have been installed. Its purpose, like that of others, was the advancement of the intellectual, social, and moral culture of the members and in addition to these aims included the furtherance of and cultivation of the fine arts, especially to ally liberal arts with work in the musical world.

Alpha Chi Omega's newest philanthropic project is the nursery schools which were begun for the children of war-workers, and are still being carried on. Three of them are located in Milwaukee, and one is in Detroit. They also have a star studio at McDowell, New Hampshire, which is open during the summer months for those persons interested in working in fine arts. A scholarship fund is maintained for both members of Alpha Chi Omega and other women in fine arts.

The lyre, the official badge of Alpha Chi Omega, is of gold, having three twisted strings spanned diagonally by a raised and slightly rounded scroll of black enamel which bears the Greek letters A X O in gold. The pin is jeweled with diamonds, pearls, or a combination of both.

The pledge pin is diamond-shaped, half of scarlet, half of olive green enamel, bearing in the center an inlaid golden lyre. The ribbons of scarlet and olive green made their first appearance on the A. and M. campus when colonization was started in September of 1946. In the spring of 1947 the chapter was installed, and those first pledges knew the thrill of being charter members of this chapter, and the first to wear the golden lyre on the A. and M. campus.

Among those initiated were Naomi John White, Mrs. Paul Klingstedt, Mrs. O. A. Hilton and Mrs. Marsden Bellatti. Dorothy Parker, noted columnist and writer, is one of the many outstanding Alpha Chi alumnae.

The Alpha Chis have membership in many of the campus activities. The Alpha Chi Omega trio selected as one of the organization acts in the Varsity Revue is gaining wide popularity on the campus this year. The trio is composed of Betty Anne Murphy, Alice Gene Stratton, and Ruth Meyer.

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA

The dark and light blue pledge ribbons of Kappa Kappa Gamma appeared on the Oklahoma A. and M. College campus for the first time this year. Fifteen girls were pledged by the new sorority, forming the first pledge class of the Delta Sigma chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

The chapter was active in social activities throughout the year. A hayrack ride, Christmas party, spring formal, the first annual fleur-de-lis dance, and teas in honor of national officers and alumnae were a few of the events given by the sorority.

The Kappas, as they are often called, placed second with their float in the homecoming parade. The float, judged for its originality and uniqueness, used the Kappa key on a musical scale to symbolize the notes of the Alma Mater hymn of Oklahoma A. and M. College.

Shirley Kyle, Kappa pledge, was selected by Jon Whitcomb, nationally known artist and illustrator, as one of the five top beauties on the campus.

At the close of the first semester, the group announced the purchase of three lots in the 1100 block of College avenue. Construction of a $150,000 chapter house is to begin as soon as building materials are available. The house will follow the design of the Kappa house at the University of Oklahoma.

Kappa Kappa Gamma was founded October 13, 1870, at Monmouth college, Monmouth, Ill., when six girls decided to form a Greek letter fraternity to strengthen the bonds of friendship. They chose the key as their symbol, the fleur-de-lis as their flower, and dark and light blue as their colors.

Delta Sigma chapter was formally installed into Kappa Kappa Gamma in the early spring. National officers attended the ceremony and installation of the chapter. The chapter at Oklahoma university acted in an advisory capacity.

Colonizers of the Delta Sigma chapter are Marjorie Cross, graduate counselor from the University of Colorado; Stuart Smith, Washington University at St. Louis; Melba Errebo, Monmouth college, and Jessa Dean De Foliart, University of Arkansas.

WOMEN'S PANHELLENIC COUNCIL

JUNE SMITH, President

The Women's Panhellenic council is comprised of the president and one delegate from each of the nine national panhellenic women's fraternities on the Oklahoma A. and M. College campus and works directly with the office of the dean of women. This year the panhellenic council welcomed Kappa Kappa Gamma and Alpha Chi Omega, new sorority groups colonizing this year on the campus.

The purpose of the organization is: "To maintain on a high plane fraternity life and interfraternity relationships and to cooperate with the college authorities in their effort to maintain high social and scholastic standards throughout the whole college and fraternity world."

Panhellenic sponsors seven projects during the school year. This year Zeta Tau Alpha was in charge of the panhellenic workshop which was designed to take the place of the annual panhellenic regional conventions.

Delta Zeta sponsored Junior Panhellenic council, a panhellenic training program for pledges. This organization, similar to the Women's Panhellenic council, is composed of the pledge president, a regular delegate, and an alternate of each of the nine panhellenic women's fraternities on the campus.

Chi Omega was in charge of the Christmas project, an annual campus drive to raise money to be given to the Stillwater Mission to provide medicines and drugs for the underprivileged of Stillwater.

Kappa Delta was in charge of the panhellenic yearbook while other projects and sponsors were: Panhellenic dance, Pi Beta Phi; rush booklets, Kappa Alpha Theta; spring reception, Alpha Delta Pi; and the altruistic program, Junior Panhellenic council.

Officers of panhellenic are elected by a rotation process. The president, the secretary, and the treasurer are elevated in order of installation of their sororities on the Oklahoma A. and M. campus.

GRAND COUNCIL

Grand council is an organization which acts as a governing agent in all student affairs for Willard, Murray, and North Murray residence halls for women. A feeling of unity for all halls is accomplished through the Grand Council which is composed of the president, secretary, and social chairman of each hall. The floor presidents of each hall are also members.

Dean Stout acts as the sponsor of the governing body and attends all meetings whenever possible.

Gloria Tanner served as president of Grand council this year. The vice-president's post was held by Donna Howard. Bess Kay Ray served as secretary-treasurer.

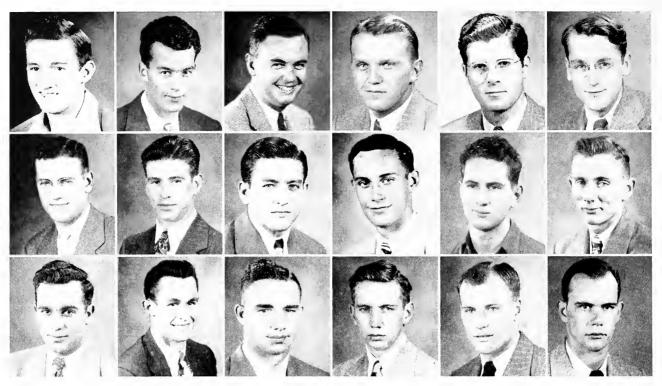

When the residence hall women students moved from Murray hall in June, 1943, to live in 11 of the fraternity houses called victory halls, a Grand council was organized to head the V-halls. When the girls moved back into the residence halls, it was decided that the Grand council would continue to function as it had in the past few years.

Members of Grand council meet once each month in order for the representatives to not only discuss questions and problems pertaining to each of the halls, but also of participation in any coming event whereby the halls can cooperate. In this manner a closer friendship and unity is maintained among the halls, through the work of their able representatives chosen annually.

At the monthly meeting of the Grand council, such things are discussed as study habits, and how they can be made better, modified, or made so as to fit the individual needs of the girls; and social activities, such as the dances, teas, and open houses of the various women's dormitories.

Among the many contributions of the dormitories through the Grand council was the offering at Christmas, through the Women's Panhellenic council, to the Stillwater Mission.

HANNER HALL

Hanner hall, quietly located near the center of the campus, was named for and dedicated to the memory of Captain Carter C. Hanner, World War I hero who was killed in action. This year, for the first full year, Hanner hall reassumes its duties of furnishing a home for college students by welcoming back many men who called it their home prior to departure to enter the army, others back from the service who lived elsewhere when they were at OAMC before, and some who are newcomers to the campus.

Since about 85 per cent of the men in Hanner are athletes, one might well call it "Athletic hall". This is the first time since Crutchfield hall was used to house athletes that the college has designated a dormitory for use of athletes, and now in Hanner hall are found members of the football, basketball, baseball, wrestling, track, golf, and swimming teams.

The following officers have served the hall this year: Dean Brewer, president; Bob Fenimore, honorary president; Tom Hammill, vice-president; Evan Hopkins, secretary-treasurer, and Gene Riggs, social chairman. Mrs. Elnore Gassaway has been hostess at Hanner hall since it was released by the army, and in that capacity has served the hall wonderfully.

THATCHER HALL

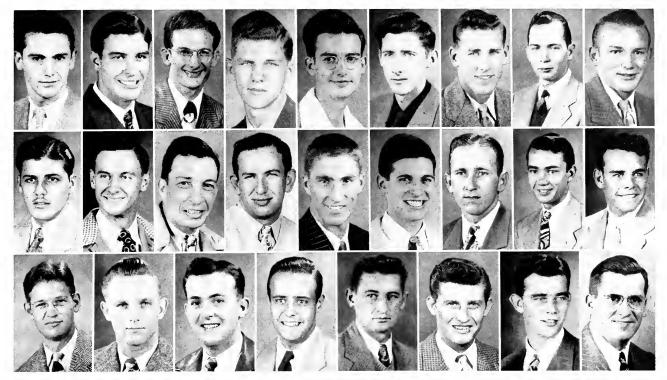

Jesse Thatcher hall was named in honor of Jesse Thatcher Bost, the first woman graduate of Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College. The hall was completed in 1925 and used as a girls' dormitory.

During the years of the war, Thatcher hall was occupied by the navy as administrative offices and class rooms for their Japanese language school. The dormitory was returned to the college during the summer of 1946. The hall was opened to college men students at the beginning of the fall term.

Charles Spillman, president of Thatcher hall for the fall term, is quite an admirer of Jesse

The other officers for the fall term were Glen Wilkins, secretary-treasurer, and Flint Berlin, social chairman. Flint is also freshman class president for the school year 1946-47.

The residents of Thatcher hall are proud that several of the men who were members of Thatcher hall prior to entering the service have returned to their former college college home.

The boys are all very proud of their housemother, Mrs. Clare Williams. "Mom" has become very dear to them as she has taken a strong maternal interest in each and everyone of them.

CORDELL HALL

The largest men's residence hall on the Aggie campus is Cordell hall, named in honor of the late Harry B. Cordell, former president of the state board of agriculture. The hall, first occupied in September, 1939, was constructed and equipped at an approximate cost of $660,000.

Normally, Cordell hall furnishes living accommodations for 500 students, but due to the present housing shortage, the hall now accommodates 760 men. Cordell hall is one of the outstanding achievements of President Henry G. Bennett in the long-needed program of housing the students. The Division of Engineering, represented by Dean Philip Donnell, cooperated in the construction of this magnificent structure.

Built in a modified Georgian design, Cordell hall is a four-story fireproof dormitory of three units. The north and south units are similar in floor plan and general structure. Entrance to both units from the central unit is provided in closed, heated passageways on the ground floor. The basement contains the large Cordell hall food unit with its dining hall of near 400 capacity.

On the first floor of the central unit are two guest rooms with connecting bath, the dietitian's lounge, the suite for the host and hostess, the administrative office, the housemother's room, the post office, the cabinet's council room, the library which is also used for study and auxiliary lounge, a small parlor, and a spacious living room furnished with leather upholstered chairs, a grand piano, and beautiful hardwood furniture. The floor of the living room is of light colored, crosslaid hardwood.

During the war years Cordell hall housed naval radio technicians who were receiving their training at A. and M. Later, the hall housed navy personnel who were enrolled in the navy's Japanese language school.

Every resident is a member of the student organization known as the Cordell Hall Residence club, operating under its own constitution and governed by the Cordell cabinet of 19 members.

These men form the council that formulates the policies of the organization, and its members help in presenting them at the house meetings. They also take charge of the annual "Fall Formal Dance", "Spring Formal", "Spring Picnic", and informal "House Dances".

This year's first annual activity was the "Fall Formal Dance". The "Indian Summer" theme was developed into a masterpiece of decoration.

Graduate students and instructors compose a counseling staff which assumes leadership in the guidance program of the hall. This year the counselors are: Berthold Christian, Carroll Yeats,

The residents of the hall participate in intramural sports at the college. Softball, touch football, tennis, and basketball are some of the athletic activities in which teams compete. This year Ted Stephens is the athletic chairman of the hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell are the host and hostess of Cordell hall and are in charge of the supervision of the office and residents. They are assisted by the housemother, Mrs. Hazel Jarrell, and Gus Allen, night host. In their capacity, they supervise the general welfare of the residents and promote harmony and efficiency in the hall.

The management of the housekeeping is under the supervision of R. B. Hughes, custodian. In appreciation of the father of Sadie Hawkins, Judge Hawkins, and the tradition which exists because of his initiative, the Cordell men held an open house on February 9, 1947, the day before Sadie Hawkins week began. The open house and the nightly dance hour of the following week were well attended. The dance hour

Wartime demands upon Willard hall were nothing compared with the fall housing problem which a record number of coeds laid on its doorstep. With an assignment, a pillow, a prayer, and a clothes hook, several hundred extras set up light housekeeping within its walls. Sidelights:

the bunk bed will never really be popular; the birth of the current phrase—"as welcome as a third roomate"; muffled sounds, as Frances E. turned over in her grave. C'est la paix!

Maidenly foundations tremoring, Willard absorbed all and emerged with no deeper internal injuries than makeshift closets, swing-shift furniture, and staggering dinner lines. "Senior heaven", or fourth floor, alone remained uncrowded.

Mrs. Pope and her staff of Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Tidwell, and Mrs. Stringfield counted noses each night, and did their best to keep them clean. During the year Mrs. Pope, a kind and understanding woman, has ably fulfilled her position as hostess of the hall. She has created a gracious, friendly atmosphere which means much to the girls who live there.

The boys, bless 'em, replaced the girl residents in Willard during the 1946 summer session. Masculine touches, however, were soon erased in the feminine flurry that followed the return of the girls to Willard that fall, and although eager coeds searched high and low in all nooks and crannies, not a forgotten man was found in any corner.

Dance hour nightly remained attractive to all lower classmen who couldn't stay out till 10:30. For others, it was a convenient place from which to start.

A campus saying of many years' standing, quoted with apologies to Murray, is that the "best looking girls always live at Willard". Truth, fiction, or just superior propaganda will never be known, but where else are the doors broken in and porches jammed with eds whenever something "big" breaks? Halloween devilry lands with explosive fury in our front yard. Willard has weathered many such storms and will continue to do so, as long as those on the inside are as eager to get out as those on the outside are to get in.

Willard hall made its debut on the Oklahoma A. and M. College campus in 1939. To the designer, it is an architectural triumph, combining the rare elements of artistic beauty, modern efficiency, and comfort. To the girls who call it their home, it is symbolic of lasting friendships and the spirit of democracy.

The exterior is of modified Georgian architecture, while the interior reflects modernistic treatment of 18th century furnishings accentuated by two small living rooms done in Early American and Chinese Chippendale styles. The individual rooms are furnished with twin maple suites. Efficient modern conveniences throughout the building are one of its chief assets, and its 18th century decorative motifs have captured the gracious charm so typical of that particular period.

The government of the hall is vested in a house settle many important problems which give headaches to well seasoned diplomats and government officials.

The end of the year might be a good time for confession. Here are things we did and we're glad we did them:

Shirley Angle admits to stealing the elevator times innumerable, buzzing rooms during study hour and kidnapping queen candidates. Joyce Ogden is bashful about putting the cat in Mrs. Pope's bathtub on Halloween, but "Pete" Kemph makes no bones that it was she and Joy Estes who painted one of the outdoor lights red.

Audrey Kiker, Jo Johnson and Betty Redhair tried to explain the havoc of a water fight as the "sink overflowing". Mrs. Tidwell knows better. "Red" Lindsey is the only one who knows how to stick and unstick the elevators.

And then there are others . . . but!

When the time came to place the hall in the college catalog, the matter of a name came to the attention of the officials, and under the guidance of the W. C. T. U., another memorial was erected to Francis E. Willard.

An oil painting of her was presented to the dormitory. This portrait now hangs in the main living room. The crest of Willard hall includes the basic ideals and principles for which this great woman strived during her life.

Murray hall and adjacent North Murray hall were named in honor of William H. Murray, gov-

Along social lines, Murray is very active. The first social event of the year was the open house held in the fall for the new students. House parties were held throughout the year for the purpose of fellowship among the girls, which helped a great deal in acquainting the girls with each other.

One of the main social events of the year was the Christmas formal, held in the dining room at Murray. "Winter Wonderland" decorations were the theme of the dance. Murray also sponsored a "New Year's dance", January 3, to make the girls' return from Christmas vacation more pleasant and inviting.

Each girl from Murray contributes to the honor of the hall in which she lives. "Murrayites" hold their own as leaders in various organizations and in honor societies on the campus; they are members of the scholastic honor societies and fraternities. Individually and collectively they work for

WILLIAMS HALL

OF EDUCATION

Perhaps the most outstanding service rendered by the School of Education is the program of in-service training of teachers. By this method of "practice teaching" students learn the travails of teaching before they are graduated. Housed in Morrill hall, the staff of the School of Education is adequately equipped to give helpful professional advice to students who are considering entrance into the profession of teaching.

Henry Iba

Henry P. Iba, director of athletics at Oklahoma A. and M., who also doubles as basketball coach, rounded out his 13th year at A. and M. in 1947.

Under his predominating leadership, the Aggies of the past three years have produced two national champions in basketball; two bowl champions in football; an undefeated wrestling team, national champs for the 14th time; an outstanding track contender; a standout baseball team in the southwest; plus better than usual teams in the minor sports.

Iba has been the one big factor that has brought the Aggies out of the "minors" into the national sports spotlight. He formerly coached at Classen high school and Maryville Teachers after graduating from Westminster college in Missouri.

"Jim" Lookabaugh

E. M. "Jim" Lookabaugh, one of the nation's foremost gridiron coaches, has handled the A. and M. football coaching chores since coming here in 1939.

Lookabaugh has had phenomenal success in the coaching game, and has one of the finest won-lost percentages in the sport. His teams of 1944 and 1945 captured the Cotton and Sugar bowl championships, ran a winning streak to 20 until broken this year. An unprecedented streak of injuries, which at one time benched 14 top-running players, and the loss of several close games, which might have spelled the difference between a good season and a poor one in 1946, gave Lookabaugh his first losing season in 20 years of coaching.

He is an A. and M. graduate, having starred in both football and basketball as an Aggie in the middle 1920's.

The COACHING STAFF

Retreating from the heights attained by two consecutive bowl championships, the Oklahoma Aggie football season of 1946 proved to be one of sweeping disappointments. The arduous autumn produced three victories, one tie in 11 games as the harassed Aggies, weekly seeking to reknit their grid forces and make a stand, sustained the most unusual and trying plague of injuries in the memory of A. and M. and southwestern football.

Facing a schedule that called for the best the Cowboys had to offer, the Pokes were never at full strength, or even near it. Collapse of A. and M. hopes was inevitable. That the Aggies rose to victory over Texas Christian, Drake and Denver and played other rivals within a hair's breadth of victory was surprising under the circumstances. The schedule could truly have been called "Suicide Row", but Lookabaugh, at full strength, with 44 lettermen answering the first call for practice, might have handled it had his Aggies kept at full strength.

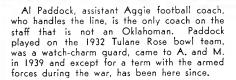

All-American recognition for Neill Armstrong, great senior end and the nation's leading pass-catcher for the second year, was the most pleasing development of the year.

Coach Ralph Higgins, Aggie track and field coach, has had a successful career as Oklahoma A. and M. track coach since coming here some 14 years ago. Higgins consistently has one of the finest teams in this section of the country. He is a former Aggie three-sport star, having played basketball, football and participated in track.

Toby Greene, another assistant coach who came here in 1939 with Lookabaugh, works with the line, particularly the ends. In addition, he doubles as chief football scout, and as head baseball coach. Greene was formerly head grid coach at Oklahoma City U., came to A. and M. first as freshman coach, took over line duties during Paddock's service with the navy.

Jack Baker, A. and M. backfield coach and assistant to Lookabaugh, is the third assistant added to the grid squad in 1939. Baker was one of the Aggies' all-time great fullbacks back in the early 1930's, when he led the Aggies to victory under Coach Lynn Waldorf. He then coached in high schools until coming to A. and M. with Lookabaugh. He has been here since.

A. and M. 40, Denver 7

Bob Fenimore scored twice to lead the Cowboys to their first victory of the season—their 20th in succession over college opponents. It was a Joe Thomas-sparked second varsity, replacing the first team after Denver opened the scoring in the first period, that finally broke the ice for the Pokes and drove across for two quick touchdowns within eight minutes, with Merlin London scoring on a Thomas pass and Bob Meinert, 19-year old sophomore fullback, who in later games was to become the Aggies' most dependable ground gainer, scoring the second on a 22-yard line buck.

Fenimore scored twice in the second period, once behind sweeping interference for 67 yards on a punt return. Armstrong scored on a 77-yard pass play from Billy Joe Aldridge and full-back Blair Brown tore up center for the final Poke counter.

Aggies 21, Arkansas 21

Arkansas came next. A. and M. swept to 21 first downs and held Arkansas to one, yet the score was 21 to 21. The plague hit that afternoon. From the field came All-American Bob Fenimore, injured, together with Jim Parmer and J. D. Cheek. Fenimore never recovered from that setback, and neither did the Aggies, although the big blond took part in five later games, generally for only a few moments of hobbling effort. It was only the beginning of a scourge of injuries that riddled the squad throughout the campaign.

A small but hustling, underrated Porker team keyed to a high pitch, played Fenimore scored two touchdowns in the game, the only one of the season in which he was physically capable of going at full power. for the breaks and played to score, and went back to old Arkansas U. with the tie that snapped the Cowboys' 20-game winning streak. The game was destined to be the first of four games played by the Aggies which were to be decided by the try-for-point after touchdown.

Texas 54, A. and M. 6

The Aggies didn't live up to their part in what was supposed to be the "game of the week" in the nation, a battle between two southwestern powers striving for national honors. It ended 54-6 in favor of Texas, down at Austin, after all the Aggie offensive power had been sidelined with injuries.

As in the last defeat absorbed by the Aggies—the 55-6 shellacking by Tulsa in 1943—it was the Aggies' Bob Fenimore who, although injured, accounted for the lone Cowboy touchdown. Fenimore was a ball of fire in the first quarter, during which he kept the Pokes on pretty even terms with the nation's top-ranking eleven of the week, before he was carried from the field injured. Fenimore set up the only Poke touchdown with an interception, then scored on a line plunge. The Aggies weren't in the game after Fenimore left and Lookabaugh substituted freely, playing over 40 boys. Fenimore, Nate Watson, and Joe Matthews were all hurt and the Cowboys' injury-stricken club was left bare. J. D. Cheek, Jim Parmer, and Merlin London had all been hurt the week before. Neill Armstrong was outstanding that afternoon, proving himself an All-American.

NATE WATSON

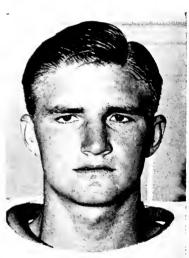

The

Here's a head linesman's view of two of the toughest lines in the southwest. Arkansas' Razorbacks, with a small but hard-hitting line that won the Southwestern conference, came from behind to tie the Pokes, 21–21, after the Aggies had rolled up a 21–1 first down advantage.

Fenimore, Thomas, Parmer, London, Aldridge and Watson—a sextet of backs that might well have turned the tide in favor of A. and M.'s luckless Pokes—the Cowboys, with Ralph Tate and John Carey carrying the brunt of the load, never got started, bogging down on expensive fumbles and two blocked punts, one of which went far to cost Bill Long the nation's punting title, a race which he was leading up to that game.

Johnny Carey, the Poke's 155-pound sophomore number five tailback, was the only man Lookabaugh had to relieve Tate, but the Guthrie lad took over the responsibilities like a tried veteran and passed the Pokes 73 yards down the field in the final period, finally connecting with Billy Houck for the lone touchdown, after the Aggies trailed 15-0.

Georgia 33, A. and M. 13

The Sugar bowl champions, the Georgia Bulldogs, swept over the Cowboys, 33-13, for the Pokes' third straight defeat, but not until after the Cowboys, on the arm of the injured Fenimore, came from the short end of a 19-0 count at the end of the first quarter, and pulled up to 19-13 as the half ended.

The Bulldogs scored three times in the opening II minutes and the Aggies, had they been without Fenimore, might well have given up, but with the crippled ace seeming to defy them to play their best, the Cowboys made a good game out of what appeared at first to be a downright massacre. Fenimore and Meinert scored on line plunges for the Pokes. It was a moral win for the hapless Aggies.

JOE THOMAS

AGGIE SEASON

Halfback Joe Golding, O. U. all-American, is hit hard here by two Aggies, while Frankie Spruiell (34), hard-working little Poke halfback, comes in fast. This was one of the few times Golding was stopped as the Sooners rolled to a 73-12 victory over the injury-ridden Cowboys. Jim Tyree (56), Sooner end, and Wayne Burrow (40), bulldog Aggie guard, are shown in the background. The Sooners brought one of the toughest lines in the nation to Stillwater for the traditional game.

A. and M. 7, Texas Christian 6

The Aggies finally gained their second win after a tough tussle with Texas Christian in Oklahoma City's Taft stadium.

A Fenimore-to-Meinert lateral was good for 27 yards and the Cowboys' lone touchdown midway through the final stanza of play, and with Armstrong's conversion good, the Aggies led 7-0, with T. C. U. scoring six points on the kick-off return.

Fullback Bob Meinert was the star of the game for the Lookabaughmen, smacking for 110 yards into the center and also scoring the touchdown. Fenimore went all the way despite a bad limp.

Kansas 14, A. and M. 13

A rarely used "too much time" penalty called against the Aggies on the final try for extra point cancelled the point which would have tied the game and which gave the Jays the narrow margin of victory.

Kansas scored twice in the first period before the Aggie line stiffened. The Pokes scored right before the intermission on a Carey-to-Spruiell pass for 10 yards. Jim Sbavital took a 13-yard aerial from Fenimore for the second touchdown with two minutes left in the game. Armstrong's final kick was cancelled by the penalty.

During the next week of practice, Fenimore, who had kept going against terrific opposition and murderous tackling by Aggie opponents for four years, went down under the tackle of a 150-pound scrub halfback, as he was participating in scrimmage in the week before the Tulsa game. He didn't get up again. Fenimore was expected to be the Pokes' only hope against the strong Tulsa lineup, after leading the Cowboys to 46-40 and 12-6 wins the two previous years.

But on that muddy practice field, in a slightly drizzling rain, scrimmaging against a "meatball" squad, Fenimore—the nation's leading ground-gainer and rushing king for two consecutive years—finally went down for the count with a twisted knee.

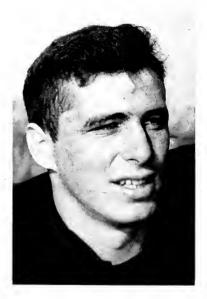

Tulsa 20, Aggies 18

With Fenimore riding a pair of crutches, Lookabaugh's down and all-but-out Aggies invaded the powerful Tulsa camp with no way to go but up; and up they went in a big way, limiting the Tulsans to a very dissatisfying two-point victory, with many people feeling that Tulsa was definitely the lucky team in the contest.

Bill Long, doing his first real duties as a pass-catching end, after ranking among the nation's leading punters, gathered in three passes for touchdowns, thrown by his classmate, John Carey, who did a great job at tailback, after stepping into the breach left by Fenimore and Thomas.

But Long was not by any means the only end on the field. Neill Armstrong was the talk of the town as he caught eight Carey-slung passes for 125 yards, perhaps the greatest pass-receiving performance in the nation. Armstrong, recognized by Tulsa writers as one of the greatest ends to ever play on Skelly field (he caught two touchdown passes in 1944 and one in 1943), was in his prime as he played one of the greatest games of his career, carrying on for his great friend and fellow-senior, Fenimore.

A driving rain, which poured into Skelly field, could not drive away any of the 18,000 fans, no more than it could stop young Carey's great passing and the receiving of his two great ends. The Pokes were poised on the 11-yard line as the game ended.

AGGIE SEASON

Nate Watson (54), quarterback, and Leo Pratt (64), guard, close in on a Drake back just as he takes a lateral during the second period of the Missouri Valley game. The win was the third of the season for the Aggies and the 59-6 score was the largest ever run up by an A. and M. eleven in some 30 years. Ralph Tate, in for injured Bob Fenimore, and Joe Thomas, at tailback, took over the offensive duties for the Pokes, and were helped by Billy Aldridge, Jim Parmer, Jim Sbavital, Bob Meinert, and Wilson Wagoner, who scored.

Texas Tech 14, Aggies 7

The Aggies went to Lubbock, Texas, next and dropped their sixth game to Texas Tech's Red Raiders. The Cowboys played one of their better games but the Poke forwards couldn't keep up with the savage line play of the Raiders.

After trailing 14-0, with a minute to go, the Pokes came through with a brother act, Billy to Ben Aldridge, on a 55-yard pass play after a recovered fumble that kept the Aggies from being shut out. The Poke offense was dull without Fenimore and the Aggies were held to little gain.

Aggies 59, Drake 6

Back on Lewis field for the first time in eight long weeks, Aggieland's Cowboys just couldn't miss against a hapless Drake Bulldog eleven, and rambled, 59-6, before 17,000 homecoming fans.

Everybody scored and everybody starred, but it was Ralph Tate who kept the points a-pilin' for the Pokes. The tailback pitched touchdown tosses to Tom Turvey and Ken Roof, ran an interception back 31 yards, kicked two extra points and set up a fourth touchdown. The rest of the Aggies' nine touchdowns were made by Wilson Wagner, who scored twice on end-arounds, and by Jim Sbavital, Bob Meinert, Jim Parmer, Billy Aldridge and Ralph Brown, who tallied once each.

Oklahoma 73, A. and M. 12

Even as the Pokes had sent Drake down to defeat the week before by the biggest score the Aggies had counted in 30 years, Oklahoma's powerhouse Sooners knocked the Aggies back down in the final game, 73-12—the worst defeat suffered by A. and M. in 42 years of football. Billy Aldridge, on touchdown passes to Bud Miller and Ken Roof in the final quarter, kept the Pokes from being blanked.

BLAKE WILLIAMS

The Oklahoma A. and M. 1946-47 basketball aggregation won't go down in cage history as the best team in Aggie history, nor will it get recognition as having the best won-lost record; it didn't set any records; it didn't produce a really outstanding player.

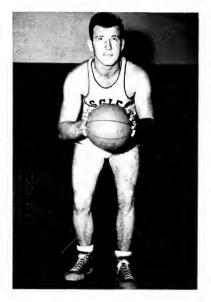

But you can lay your money on the fact that the nation sat up and took notice of a team that was supposed to finish low in the nation, but a team that provided the whole nation one of the biggest surprises in the court game in a long time.

Even as the Aggie football team of 1946 was a disappointment, in its surprise, Coach Hank Iba's '47 team was a joy to the student body. Iba's superb job of coaching melted a freshman, three sophomores and three juniors into one of the finest court teams and the best job of coaching in Iba's career.

It was a team—a team that played, and lived and won on the warmth of teamwork that was kindled within them. Each player was a star in his own right; each made the Cowboys go; and each helped the other for the good of the team.

With four regulars lost from the 1946 NCAA champions, including all-American Bob Kurland and all-conference players Weldon Kern, J. L. Parks and Sam Aubrey, the Aggies expected to have nothing better than an average team and Iba even expressed his hope that the team would break even in the won-lost column.

But at the end of the season the record stood—24 won, eight lost; Oklahoma City all-college tournament champions; Sugar bowl champions and winner over the Big Six champion, the Southwestern conference champion and runner-up, the Texas college champion, and the southern conference champion.

BASKETBALL

Joe Halbert (hidden behind St. Mary's 8) jumps at center to open the second half of the St. Mary's-Aggie game in Gallagher hall, when the Aggies came from behind some nine points, to edge out the western coast team, 34–33, during the Christmas holidays. Bennett, at right, and Halbert, in center, prepare to leap for the tipoff. Man jumping at center for St. Mary's went into AAU ball the second semester, made one of the all-AAU teams after the national tournament.

Getting off at a terrific pace early in the season, the Ibamen upset foe after foe, toppling seven teams from the unbeaten ranks.

Iba wanted it known that the 1946-47 year was just a "building" year so far as he was concerned. The team wasn't expected to have enough experience, scoring punch, defensive ability, or "know-how" of the game to even be on the same court with such star-studded teams as Kentucky, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Temple, Arkansas, DePaul and many others. Yet the Aggies beat each of them.

The Pokes' terrific defense was almost impregnable and the Cowboys held their opponents to an average of 34 points a game.

The Cowboys got off in early December against two foes at home, Texas Wesleyan, sparked by the nation's leading scorer, Cliff McNeeley, and Texas Tech, led by a great long-shot artist, Garland Head. The Aggies came from behind at halftime in both cases to win, 35-30 against Wesleyan, and 39-33 against Tech.

Iba then went on his annual eastern swing, with only three of the 14-man squad who had made the trip the year before, well expecting to lose all three games. Canisius fell, 40-32, at Buffalo, but Long Island—with Jackie Goldsmith hitting 23 points—eked the Aggies out, 47-46. The Pokes then upset Temple, 43-34.

The Aggies stopped at Kansas City on their way to Stillwater and pulled another big upset in knocking off Kansas' famed scoring trio—Black, Snellbacher and Evans—47-37. Then during the Christmas holidays, the Aggies came from eight points behind to nose out St. Mary's of California, 34-33.

Thence to the all-college tournament in Oklahoma City with Rice the first team up, and the first down, 61-39. Texas, Southwestern conference champs, undefeated in regular season play, dropped a tight 40-39 game in the semifinals to the A. and M. giant-killers. Kansas went down for the second time, 42-39, in the finals after Snellbacher had scored 17 points.

Then for the biggest basketball upset of the year, the Aggies' 37-31 thrilling victory in the Sugar bowl over Kentucky, kingpins of the south, National Invitational winner of 1946, and runner-up in 1947. Kentucky averaged 69 points a game during the season, but got only 31 against the defensive-minded Pokes. The two teams had been matched for the Sugar bowl at the end of the 1945-46 season after the Aggies had won the NCAA and Kentucky had won the Invitational.

Two weeks later came another upset, just as startling, only not in favor of the Aggies, when the Pokes sat on ice all night and scored only 20 points while St. Louis was getting 38—a victory that sent the Billikens on to the Missouri Valley championship. It was the sixth loss in 111 home games for the Aggies. The Pokes beat Washington, 46-31, the next night, and Wichita, 47-38, a week later for their first conference wins.

Then came a pair with the Southwestern conference runner-up, Arkansas, first at Little Rock where the Aggies won, 42-38, and then at Oklahoma City when the Aggies repeated in overtime, 49-44.

Four nights later against a great Oklahoma team at Norman, the Aggies took a five-point victory in overtime, 47-42, over the Big Six champs and NCAA runner-up.

BASKETBALL

A. L. Bennett fires one from his favorite spot, to the right of the basket, against Washington university in the Aggies' first Missouri Valley win. Bennett led the Aggies in scoring, dropping 328 points during the year, which was a new record (not counting Kurland) for an individual Aggie scorer. Bennett was an all-conference forward, was known for his coolness, great defensive play, and most of all for his ball-handling and ability to keep the team moving when the going got tough.

From there it was up to Chicago and the Chicago invitational where the Aggies beat a good DePaul team, 44-37, but lost the next night to Loyola, 34-31, the first of three straight losses.

In Des Moines, Drake won, 42-34, and the Aggies, still cold, lost the next night in Omaha to Creighton, 40-31, after trailing 25-9 at the half.

Back in Stillwater for the much awaited game with Kansas, the Aggies came from behind, 15-20 at the half, to win, 33-31.

Winning 57-28 at Wichita, the Aggies moved to St. Louis with blood in their eyes, but still couldn't hit and lost to St. Louis again, 31-29, for their fourth Valley loss against three victories.

They then proceeded to even it up against Washington, winning, 34-23, then rolled over Texas Christian in Oklahoma City, 70-26.

In Lawrence, Kansas, for the final out-of-state game, the Aggies couldn't pull it out of the fire as Charlie Black hit 19 points to help the Jays win, 37-34.

The Aggies then proceeded to put the remainder of the conference teams away by big scores, but it was too late to get anything but a second place tie with Drake in the conference.

The Aggies won, 52-24, over Creighton; 50-35, over Drake; 55-20 and 57-31 over Tulsa.

Coach Art Griffith gives heavyweight Harold Simeroth and 175pounder George Dorsch some early season tips.

As far as outsiders were concerned, 1947 was a poor year for the Aggies, for the perennial national champions only took third in the nation this year. Only three times have the Aggies failed to win first in the 17 times the meet has been held, although they have managed to place every year.

But to those who knew the Aggies and to those who knew wrestling, it was another superb job of coaching on the part of Art Griffith, who coached his fourth Aggie team, and a year of hard work and great spirit on the part of the almost entirely freshman mat squad.

Richard Hutton, Aggie heavyweight from Tulsa, who enrolled in the second semester, won the national heavyweight crown in his freshman year, after an all-victorious dual meet season. Also, Bill Jernigan and Nate Bauer, both Tulsa freshmen, took seconds, and Paul McDaniel scored fourth in the NCAA meet held at Champaign, Illinois.

Coach Griffith came here in 1940, coached the 1941, 1942, and 1946 teams to the national championship, winning 24 consecutive dual victories to run the present A. and M. winning streak to 51, believed to be the longest winning streak in major sports today. All in all the Aggies have won 162 victories in the face of five losses in the history of the sport here.

It was really the first year of dual competition since the war, although the Aggies did compete in two dual matches in 1946. The Aggies took on their heaviest schedule in history, winning all II of their dual meets. Griffith's one big goal is to pass the 70 consecutive wins rung up by Edward C. Gallagher's Aggie wrestlers of the 1921-32 era.

Bill Jernigan, Aggie 121-pounder, led the Aggie scoring with 33 points over the season, followed by Leon Tedder, 165, with 31, and Hutton with 25. A total of 20 boys wrestled during the season, from the largest squad in the history of the mat sport here.

The freshman team, No. 2 varsity, won the state AAU handily while the varsity was in Colorado on a dual meet trip.

The Aggies who made the trip to the national tournament included Jernigan; McDaniel, 128; Bauer, 136; Elias George, 145; Jack St. Clair, 155; Tedder; Jim Gregson, 175, and Hutton. Of these, Jernigan, Bauer, Tedder, Gregson and Hutton were freshmen.

TRACK

Coach Ralph Higgins was highly optimistic as to the spring track season, despite the fact that 13 meets faced the Aggies on successive weekends.

The Aggies had a successful season in 1946, with all-American Ralph Tate leading the Cowboys to good showings in several relay meets, including the Texas and Penn relays, and to dual victories over Army, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

Two of the nation's finest hurdlers in 1946, Ralph Tate, left, and Neill Armstrong. Tate was not back for the 1947 season, and Armstrong was impeded during the early season with muscle injuries.

Freshman J. R. Teakell was one of the section's outstanding middle-distance runners, and other freshmen such as Harold Simeroth, discus; Cliff Dean, pole vaulter; Ralph Ashworth and Ed Jarvis, javelin, were instrumental in making a fine season in 1946.

The 1947 season looked bright through the pre-season glasses.

J. R. Teakell and Frank Beyer prepare to start out in a fast half-mile or mile run. Both were top Aggie relay runners. Teakell was a sensation as a freshman in 1946, running behind Tate as the top Aggie scorer. He was one of the nation's top half-milers in both 1946 and 1947. Beyer ran all distances, ran legs on mile and two-mile relay teams.

AGGIE BASEBALL

One of the largest baseball squads in years, a group of almost 75 candidates, started out the 1947 Aggie baseball schedule seeking to repeat the successes of the 1946 season, when the Poke diamondmen won 15 of 17 games.

Coach Toby Greene was somewhat optimistic over his prospects with 13 lettermen returning from the 1946 and prewar seasons. At RED- SKIN press-time, 20 games had been scheduled.

A quick resume of the 1946 season shows that the Cowboys lost only to Oklahoma in the sport's first postwar comeback on the campus. The Pokes split a series of four games with the Sooners, defeated such teams as Southwestern Tech, Kansas State and Hutchinson air force, winning 15 of 17 games.

George Turvey and Charley Speice, top-running netmen in 1946, are shown working out preparing for a tough 1947 schedule. Both lettered in 1946 and were expected to be among the foremost candidates for the 1947 team.

AGGIE TENNIS and GOLF

Prospects for the golf team looked good in early spring with such standout par-seekers as Bo Wininger, Guthrie; Lawrence Glosser, Billy Maxwell and Dick Miller, Oklahoma City; Bill Brock, Dick Turner and Buddy Simmons, all of Stillwater; Loddie Kempa, Bartlesville, and Max Young, Ponca City, trying for the varsity golf positions.

It was an entirely different matter with tennis. Tryouts were held in the last part of March for the varsity tennis team, with wrestling coach Art Griffith handling the tennis coaching chores. An all-college tournament to determine the college's best players was the only method of selecting a team.

Golf Coach Labron Harris points out gripping technicalities to one of his star par-seekers, Lawrence Glosser. Loddie Kempa and Bo Wininger, at left, were also top Aggie golfers in 1947.

The coveted membership in the "O" club is open only to those who letter in inter-collegiate sports here at Oklahoma A. and M. Although this club is open to all lettering athletes, it is now a requirement that a week of pledging be performed by all athletes desiring membership.

The primary aims of the "O" club are to promote fellowship and good-will among the athletes and encourage and promote the activities that aid in the betterment of athletics and the athletic policy of Oklahoma A. and M. College.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

VELDA BLACKLEDGE, President

Claiming one of the largest memberships among campus coeds is the Women's Athletic association. this year functioning under the largest sports program for women on the A. and M. campus ever undertaken. Founded on the Aggie campus in 1920, the organization encourages a love of sportsmanship, interest in sports, and succeeds in making women groups on the campus better known to each other through a series of sports tournaments running throughout the entire year.

Requirement for membership in W. A. A. is participation in a minimum of two sports tournaments during the spring or fall semester. Once a girl has achieved membership in W. A. A., she has a chance yet for higher achievement by winning one of the honor awards presented each spring at the annual Honor awards banquet; an award is presented to the most outstanding senior girl in sports; the "O" award is given to all girls who have won three individual titles, played on three winning teams, or a combination of three of these.

The awards, however, that all coeds seek to win and prize most highly are those offered by W. A. A. to the independent dormitory and sorority having accumulated the highest number of points during the year from the tournaments. Points are awarded to first and second place winners in both of the leagues.

Velda Blackledge, senior in the School of Commerce, served as president of W. A. A. for 1946-47. Assisting her were Ruth Lindsey, vice-president; Frances Wood, business manager, Betty Clifton, secretary; Alice Lorraine Heard, publicity; Norma Shelton, independent sports leader; Lucille Sneed, sorority sports leader, and Theo Johnston and Freda Everett, members at large. Miss Valerie Colvin, health and physical education department, is faculty sponsor of the group.

Highlights of the W. A. A. activities during the year included a sports jamboree for all college women during October; participation in the A. and M. homecoming festivities by entering a float in the homecoming parade; initiation during January; a breakfast hike during the spring to Stillwater Fair park; the final Honor awards banquet at the close of school; and the annual weekend camping trip during the spring at a lake near Stillwater.

W. A. A. is the organization that tests each participant's attitude, tactfulness and spirit of cooperation. Through W. A. A.'s programs and tournaments it is hoped that a stronger, deeper understanding among women on the campus may be realized through fair play, good exercise, and clean entertainment.

Outstanding members of WAA are each year presented awards.

PEPPERS

DOROTHY MORRISON, President

Since 1921, the Peppers, first girls' pep organization of the Oklahoma A. and M. campus, has been active in maintaining school spirit and bringing pep to various athletic events on the campus. The prime objective of Peppers is to stimulate interest in athletic events sponsored by the college. Since its organization the group has always been active in college pep functions, in the winning years as well as in the losing years.

Originally the membership was made up of seven coeds from each sorority on the campus, and seven non-sorority girls. During World War II, when the other coed pep organization, the Aggiettes, became inactive, Peppers membership was opened to all coeds regularly enrolled at A. and M. who had an interest in athletic events.

When the Aggiettes were reactivated in the fall of 1945, Peppers once again put membership on a representative basis, with each sorority allowed a maximum of 12 members.

Row I: Hartley, McIntyre, Crowder, Metz, Mattimore, Morrison, Burkey, Walde, Bossard, Stingley, Hudson, McDonald, Sale.

Drummond, Thomas, Nuckolls, Means, Alexander, Moyse, De Foliart.

To aid in maintaining a high degree of school spirit among all students, the Peppers sponsored one of the leading pep rallies of the year. This pep rally resulted in bringing new fire into the spirit of the students which had been lost during several previous games. Other Pepper activities included active participation in events held during homecoming. The Pepper float in the homecoming parade was recognized as one of the best of the pep organizations. Varied social events throughout the year supplemented the pep activities of this organization.

During the fall semester, due to the articles of the constitution which call for rotation of officers, the Peppers selected the following officers to guide them in all of their activities for the school year of 1946-47: Dorothy Morrison, Alpha Delta Pi, was selected as president; Leah Kenny, Kappa Alpha Theta, vice-president; Dorinda Means, Chi Omega, secretary; Shirley Steads, Pi Beta Phi, treasurer; Betty Mays, Kappa Delta, social chairman; Betty Carol Nichols, Zeta Tau Alpha, sergeant-at-arms; Lew Cain, Delta Zeta, publicity chairman.

Phyllis Burkey, Chi Omega, was once again chosen to serve as cheer leader representing the Peppers. Phyllis also served on the college pep council and was one of the more active members. Sponsor of Peppers is Mrs. Meador of the Division of Home Economics.

PEPPERS

Since membership is selected by the sorority, Peppers have no pledging or hell week. The sorority membership is kept constant, with new members added each fall to give each group 12 Pepper representatives. Membership in Peppers was increased this year due to the colonization of two new sororities, Kappa Kappa Gamma and Alpha Chi Omega.

Sororities represented in the 1946-47 Peppers group include Alpha Delta Pi, Chi Omega, Kappa Delta, Kappa Alpha Theta, Delta Zeta, Alpha Chi Omega, Pi Beta Phi, Zeta Tau Alpha and Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Regular meetings for Peppers are held twice each month, on the first and third Monday at 5 p. m. in the Prairie Playhouse. Attendance at meetings, as is attendance at athletic functions, is checked by the council officer from each house. Excuses for absences are reported by the council member to the group at the first of the meeting.

Through the able functioning of the Pepper council, the group has established itself as an outstanding campus pep organization throughout the school year. Win or lose, the Aggie squads in football, basketball, and other varsity sports may be assured of a loyal, enthusiastic Peppers audience at college sports functions. Carrying school spirit to extensive degrees, Peppers braved early dawn and cold weather to see fellow students—members of the varsity squads—off to games far away from Aggieland.

Peppers, now as in the past, are dressed in black with orange Peppers identification and are a familiar sight at all athletic games, where generally a special section is reserved for them.

The Peppers are proud of their record as ardent supporters of the athletic teams of A. and M. and point with pride to the cooperative attitude of its members in regard to all of their activities.

AGGLETTES

MARY ROSS, President

"We, the members of the Aggiette pep organization of the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College, in order to form a women's pep order, establish friends, insure loyalty and spirit to the athletic teams of this college, to promote a general enthusiasm among the students, and to secure the goodwill of fellow students and faculty . . . "

The second year of reorganization for the Aggiettes has proved they are definitely behind the college athletic teams 100 percent. Decked out in their white sweaters and black shirts and pert orange hair ribbons, the organization this year has undertaken to live up to the standards established by the first Aggiettes in 1928. It was during these first years that many of the traditions used now were established. The club colors at first were orange and black, but later white was added and is now the predominating color.

This year was started with hundreds of applicants seeking admission, and only after careful and thorough deliberation were the 90 possible new members selected. After this was taken care of, the campus could be heard ringing with cow bells and, "Hear ye, hear ye, honorable Aggiette member approaches," as the pledges bowed their heads in reverence. One of the pledge duties required of each prospective member was that of having "coke" dates with some football or basketball player. It is at this point that members wished they were the ones wearing the required pigtails. Commemorating the cessation of hostilities was a surprise breakfast at which pledge ribbons were replaced by the right to wear the official Aggiette uniform.

Then again the club has shown its school spirit by giving its ardent support to the pep council. This council is one of A. and M.'s major attempts toward working together as one, thus insuring the teams of greater and more unified support. Each pep organization selects seven members to represent it at the council. At the meetings a roundtable discussion of the various fallacies in policy and workings of the clubs is held. The decisions and plans of the governing body are then presented to the members for ratification or refusal. In the event of the latter, the proposed question is considered before a joint meeting of the complete membership. In this way, students are able to participate in and become acquainted with some of the problems of group management.

The Aggiette representatives to this council are: Mary Ross, president; Leigh Sullivan, vice-president; Allice Allen, secretary; Margaret Ditmar, treasurer; Ruth Sizemore, reporter; Oleta Clinesmith and Viola Hansen. Along with the other club representatives, these members organize the pep rallies, manage cheering section seating arrangements at the games, discuss all problems that concern school spirit and, in general, help make the public Aggie conscious.

All activities, however, were not restricted to athletic functions. One of the most gala occasions of the year was the Aggiette - Ruf-Nex hayrack ride held in November. The hayride served a dual purpose—to acquaint the Aggiettes with their brother organization and to reward the members for their unsurpassed loyalty to their school. During the first semester the Aggiettes also sponsored a trip to Oklahoma City to attend the Aggie game with Texas Christian university.

Whether it was before, after, or during a game, the entire organization was working to help

A. and M. attain a higher rung on the ladder of accomplishment.

Since the spring of 1932, when the Aggiettes were first organized, they have been the most active pep organization on the campus. The organization limits its membership to enough girls to insure a large enough organization and yet have the cooperation of all to furnish the necessary enthusiasm befitting Aggiettes.

Each semester the girls are chosen on the basis of wholehearted support to the Aggiette social and scholastic activities, as well as to their interest and participation in all Aggie athletic events.

At whatever A. and M. sports events are attended, the Aggiettes can be seen in their flaming orange and black Aggiette symbol, cheering the Aggie varsity teams on to victory, win or lose.

Under able leadership of reorganization, the Aggiettes have had a successful year, through serving their college well.

HELL HOUNDS

ANDY ROYE, President

The Hell Hounds organization was started early in the fall of 1921, but it did not survive the next year and a few of the same men banded together in 1922 to form the present organization of Hell Hounds.

In January of 1927, Hell Hounds received a charter from the national chapter of Pi Epsilon Pi, which has chapters in the outstanding schools throughout the country. It is the purpose of the organization to foster a spirit of cooperation in organized pep at all athletic events. It also stimulated friendly rivalry in colorful stunts and organized cheering at such events.

At present the organization has over 200 members, which gives it and the school the distinction of possessing one of the largest pep organizations in the southwest.

Initiations are held twice yearly, at the beginning of the fall semester and again near the close of the spring semester. Membership in the organization is composed primarily of fraternity men, but there are about 50 members that are non-fraternity men.

During hell week, the "pups" (name given to the pledges) are required to wear orange shirts, a dog collar, and carry wooden paddles in the shape of a bone to class each day. Other duties were given the pledges during the week also.

Meetings were held regularly throughout the year, on every other Wednesday in Life Sciences 319. In the meetings, the plans for the creation of pep are discussed and the activities of the organization are decided upon.

The Hell Hounds made an appearance on this campus for the purpose of creating enthusiastic pep color at every athletic event, and in the past year the group has lived up to its purpose with attendance at the home games of football, basketball, and other athletic events.

HELL HOUNDS

This year the organization carried out one of the old customs by attending away-from-home athletic events in a body. During the basketball season, the Hell Hounds chartered a bus and a large number of the membership attended the Creighton-A. and M. game in Omaha.

The distinctive orange of the Hell Hounds has been the official insignia of the order since 1931. Previous to that time, the members had worn a bright orange shirt, but with the activities of the organization developing into year-round proportions, warmer attire was necessary. Hence, the orange corduroy jackets with the name "Hell Hounds" across the back.

Andy Hansen served as the Hell Hounds' representative among the varsity cheer leaders.

Officers that served during the past year were: President, Stanley McConnell, who resigned during the first semester and was replaced by Andy Roye; vice-president, Andy Roye, who automatically went to presidency when McConnell resigned, and Bob DeMoss was elected to serve the remaining term; secretary-treasurer, Hal Hazelrigg; social chairman, Jim Critchfield; publicity, Paul Stewart, the latter replaced by Jack Rector.

Hell Hounds sponsored during the year a very successful pep rally prior to one of the football games. Sonny Robertson's orchestra furnished music for the street dance which accompanied this pep rally.

During the basketball season, Pi Epsilon Pi (Hell Hounds) sponsored two victory dances. Music for these two dances, which were held in the Old Gymnasium, was furnished by Don Stewart and his Varsitonians.

Pi Epsilon Pi (Hell Hounds) will always be found to be boosting for the Aggie athletic teams at home or abroad and the bright orange and black jackets have been the source of confidence to teams playing on an opponent's court or field. Good clean pep and enthusiasm have helped to win many a sorely contested game, and the Hell Hounds are proud of the important part that they play in supporting Aggie athletic teams.

RUF-NEX

ROY DOBBS, President

The Ag-He-Ruf-Nex, men's pep organization, was established on the Oklahoma A. and M. campus in 1924 for the purpose of organizing true Aggie spirit. This pep order, known on the campus as the Ruf-Nex, is made up of "he-men" whose double purpose is to support old Aggie traditions and live up to the name of the club. The organization was founded when it became evident that an active men's pep order was needed to lead the school in the rallies and meetings that show appreciation for the school's great athletic teams.

The Ruf-Nex activities consist of conducting and sponsoring rallies on the campus and leading organized cheering of the student body at home and at out-of-town athletic events.

During the football season, the Ruf-Nex sponsored three of the largest and most successful pep rallies of the year. The members of the club also assisted in the preparation of two other rallies.

It is customary for the Ruf-Nex to make at least two trips to out-of-town athletic events during the school year. This year the organization attended the Tulsa university football game in Tulsa and the basketball game with the Oklahoma Sooners at Norman.

Also, it is traditional for the president of the club to place bets with the heads of the Tulsa university Wind Bags and the Oklahoma university Ruf Necs—pep clubs of the rival state schools—on the outcome of the football games with the two state foes. Due to a string of hard luck, the Cowboys were defeated in both games; consequently Chief-Hi Roy Dobbs' hair became somewhat shorter than usual. However, next year brings another game and Ruf-Nex members are busy sharpening up their razors and scissors.

The organization was guided through the year by Roy Dobbs, Chief-Hi; Lloyd Dobbs, Exalted-Hi; Bill Harrison, Feather-Nex, and Tom Lincoln, Bull-Nex. Bill Kirk was elected by club members to serve as cheer leader for the year. These men led the Ruf-Nex to one of their most successful seasons.

Each year, A. and M. students see the Ruf-Nex initiates, known as "scurves," dressed in their traditional uniform of straw hats, old clothes, rope and cowbells. These scurves are carefully selected for their good fellowship, school spirit and manliness.

Before a candidate may become a member, he must go through the three degrees of pledgeship and a seven day hell week. The scurve, during this week, will undergo some of the most rigorous and fantastic pledging seen on this or any other campus. The rope, cowbell and straw hat give the scurve the hobo-like appearance that is so familiar to the A. and M. campus. Each night, scurves gather at Swim's hangout for an evening session with the members.

Dean C. H. McElroy, the only active charter member of the Ruf-Nex on the campus, has been very influential in the club's rise to the top of A. and M. organizations. Annually, the club is authorized to take in at least one honorary member. Honorary members who are now active with the club are Coach, Henry P. Iba, Willis McBride, Pat Hedrick and Pat O'Bryan. Each year, McBride gives the club much needed aid during the hell week ceremonies.

This year, the Ruf-Nex revived an old custom of selecting a club mascot. Bernie Tibbs, the son of Ruf-Nex member Tibbs, was nominated to the position. He was fitted with a white sweater bearing the name "Ruf Nex" and sat in the club section at all athletic events.

In pre-war years, members of the Ruf-Nex could always be distinguished on or off the campus by their colorful orange and black jackets with the Ruf-Nex name in front. However, wartime shortages curtailed production of the material the jackets were made of, so consequently only a few of the members owned jackets. As soon as the material is again available, the jackets will be furnished.

The Ruf-Nex are especially active in A. and M. intramural events. Ruf-Nex teams are continually highlighted by their constant fine playing and good sportsmanship.

The primary purpose of the club is to boost the school as a whole, to promote sportsmanship and fair play in all campus life, and to support the Aggies in every way.

MUSTANGS

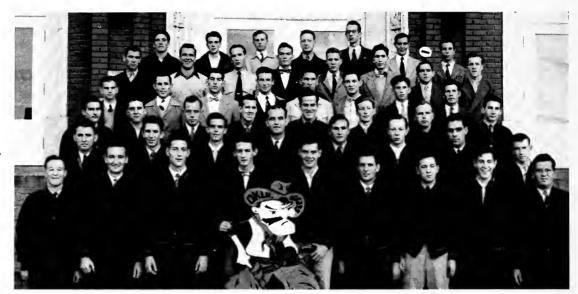

NORRIS ROGERS, President

On October 1, 1946, 16 fellows met in the lounge of Cordell hall and made the first plans for a new pep organization. These were the charter members of an organization soon to be recognized on the A. and M. campus as a truly "peppy" group. The need for a new pep organization was realized because of the vast post-war enrollment at Oklahoma A. and M. and the need for the return of the pre-war old "Aggie spirit".

At the new meeting a proposed draft of a constitution was introduced and after a few revisions was accepted as a basis for promoting and fostering the purpose of this organization. At this meeting it was decided to make the organization a really independent one by starting a new fraternity without affiliations with a national group. The chosen name, Mustang, was selected for its appropriateness with the traditional name ---COWBOYS.

Merliss, Fred Black, Cecil "Windy" Lamb, Glenn Thomas.

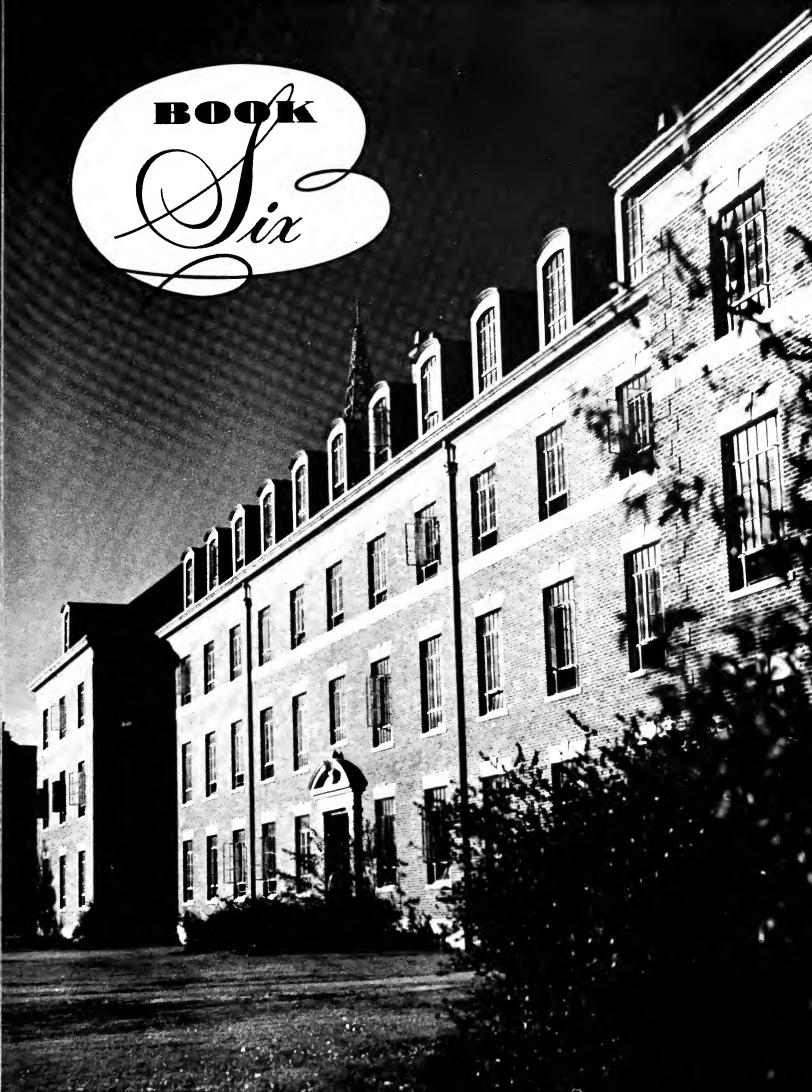

The charter for the organization was granted by the Student Senate on October 7, 1946.

Membership in this organization is only limited to men students in good standing, which reflects its democratic spirit. Prospective Mustangs are selected for membership on the basis of their being a good fellow and the idea of their being an asset to the organization.

During the semester there were two initiations. At these times the students of A. and M. were startled, amused, and delighted by some of the original pledge requirements for membership. During Mustang "Hell Week" pledges appeared dréssed one day in coveralls worn backwards with a horse collar carried across their back, carrying a laundry bag which contained various items.

Norris Rogers was elected president of the organization for the year; Frank Davis, vice-president; Carl Osborn, secretary-treasurer; Bill Hedges, pledgemaster, and Floyd Wilson, sergeant-at-arms.

Although a new and growing organization, the Mustangs participated in organized cheering for all A. and M. home sport events and pep rallies, entered a float for homecoming as well as the out of town organized cheering at the T. C. U. and Tulsa games.

OF ENGINEERING

Experience is the keynote of successful teaching in the Division of Engineering at Oklahoma A. and M. Since 1902, when three men were graduated in engineering, the division has expended its scope of activities to keep in step with the changing world of engineering. With this expansion has evolved the practice of employing only experienced men for the faculty of Oklahoma's chief school of engineering.

COMMANDANT and STAFF

The R. O. T. C. unit was established at Oklahoma A. and M. under the Morrill act. The military department, in a period of 55 years, has grown into one of the best cadet corps produced in the southwest. Proof of the department's efficiency in military training is shown by the large number of officers which it has supplied to the Organized Reserve corps and the U. S. army. Many of these officers served in the past World war. Before the war, a considerable number of the newly commissioned Aggie officers were called to the colors for active duty.

Heading the department on the campus this year is Colonel Pete T. Heffner, assisted by a staff of regular army officers acting as instructors. Major James P. Foster is executive officer, Major Melvin Fletcher is the adjutant, Major Perry Penn, Major George D. Gorman and Captain Donald W. Shanklin are air corps instructors. Major Kary C. Emerson is infantry instructor and Captain Harold N. Whitfield is signal corps instructor.

The climax of this year was one of the largest R. O. T. C. enrollments to ever participate in military on the A. and M. campus. In the advanced course, 226 took part and 531 were enrolled in elementary training. In the classrooms military strategy, map reading, theory, clerical work, and nomenclature of pieces were taught, while on the drill field the cadets were instructed in military drill, voice commands and instruction in various weapons.

Highlight of the year's training was an inspection by Major General Clarkson and Colonel George Forester, and a full dress review for presentation of medals to cadets who had earned them in World War II.

Colonel's staff: Major Foster, Colonel Heffner, Major Fletcher, Major Emerson.

Row 2: Major Gorman, Major Penn, Captain Shanklin, Captain Whitfield.

Non-com staff: Pvt. Nielson, First Sgt. Covel, M-Sgt. Meriwether, M-Sgt. Bless, First Sgt. Edwards.

Row 2: First Sgt. Hull, T-Sgt. McInturff, First Sgt. Callaway, M-Sqt. Cross, M-Sqt. Herrick, M-Sqt. Kerbow.

INFANTRY CADET STAFF

The expressed policy of the war department is to train students to be officers through the college facilities made available by the Reserve Officers Training corps. Limited as they are, these facilities are put into use to the best possible advantage by the R. O. T. C. infantry cadets in their training to prepare them to hold the responsible job of officers in the United States army.

The infantry unit of the Reserve Officers Training corps at this institution is organized and the training program is conducted in a manner which will, under the prevailing local conditions, best train each individual LT. COL. KENNETH K. KIRKPATRICK cadet in current infantry organization, policies, weapons, and methods of operation—both theoretical and practical.

Heading the infantry cadet staff this year was Bruce Crozier, acting as a cadet lieutenant colonel. Assisting him was Cadet Major Neal Connelley, executive officer; Cadet Captain William Crow, adjutant; Cadet Captain Vernon Bryant in charge of S-3, and Cadet 2nd Lieutenant Marion Griswold acting as sergeant major.

It is the intent of the R. O. T. C. cadet corps to prepare all military students physically, as well as mentally, for military service and to bring out, and develop in each individual, his leadership abilities to the highest possible point. The advanced infantry class not only receives instruction in its field, but also acts as instructors to the elementary students, teaching them what the men learned through practical experience while in the service during the last war.

COL. ROBERT D. SHEPPARD

REGIMENTAL CADET STAFF

The responsibility for conducting each drill during the past year has been given to the regimental cadet staff and supervised by personnel of the military department.

The drill which was held each Tuesday afternoon during the past year was delegated by the regimental cadet staff to other advanced R. O. T. C. cadets who acted as company commanders, executive officers, platoon leaders and cadre. The drill comprised such activities as platoon drill, company mass drill, manual of arms, and regimental reviews.

The regimental cadet staff was headed by Cadet Colonel Robert D. Sheppard. He was assisted by Cadet Lieutenant Colonel James E.

Bunch, executive officer; Cadet Major Meredith B. Salyer, S-I and adjutant; Cadet Major George E. Peck, S-2; Cadet Major Lawrence L. Bailey, S-3; Cadet Major William M. Preston, S-4; Cadet 2nd Lieutenant Elmer K. Lile, band officer, and Cadet 2nd Lieutenant James S. Martin, sergeant major.

The advanced cadets are required to attend a six weeks' summer camp between the first and second year of their advanced training. At the camp, which is conducted separately for each branch, the cadets receive specialized field training relating to their branch of the service. The development of cadets' leadership ability and the cadets' ability to cope with field situations are stressed at the camp.

Row 2: Major Salyer, Major Preston, Lt. Martin.

SPECIAL BATTALION STAFF

The two latest branches which the war department has added to the college R. O. T. C. unit are the signal corps and air corps.

Since the signal corps is a service as well as an arm, the R. O. T. C. signal corps cadet must be trained very well so that he is very versatile in the many duties that he might be called on to perform. The subjects taught to these cadets are field radio communication, field wire systems, message and signal center procedure, field radio communication, radio net systems, photography, and repair and handling of communications equipment.

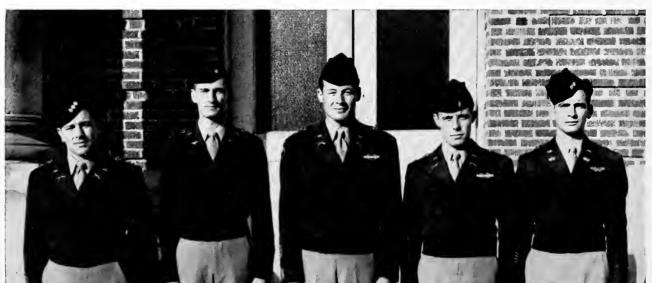

LT. COL. H. N. METCALF

The air corps R. O. T. C. unit which was added to Oklahoma A. and M. last fall consists of an indoctrination course for the advanced cadets during their first year of training and specialized training during their second year of instruction in A. A. F. supply, statistical control, personnel administration, armament, communications, meteorology, and aircraft maintenance engineering.

Cadet Lieutenant Colonel H. N. Metcalf was commander of the special battalion staff during the past year. His executive officer was Cadet Major Floyd M. Wilson; adjutant, Cadet Captain Virgil G. Dorsch; S-3, Cadet 1st Lieutenant Stanford G. Cain, and sergeant major, Cadet 2nd Lieutenant Joe Lippman.

The advanced battalion is composed of the signal corps company and the advanced company, which is made up of advanced R. O. T. C. air corps students.

LT. COL. GEORGE M. GEYER

ENGINEER CADET STAFF

The Engineering Reserve Officers Training corps unit is a counterpart of the newest combat engineer component of the engineering corps of the United States army.

It is often said that the engineering corps of the R. O. T. C. is the hardest of the whole program for these men must perfect their knowledge in all types of combat, bridge construction, road maintenance, demolitions and all other combat engineering duties. In studying these subjects, the men are trained in map making and interpretation, road and bridge inspections, inventories of supplies and materiel, and reports.

During the past year the corps was headed by Cadet Lieutenant Colonel George Geyer, assisted by Cadet Major James Shreve, executive officer; Cadet Captain Carl Bahm, adjutant; Cadet Captain Preston Cook, S-3, and Cadet 2nd Lieutenant Quenton Quigley, sergeant major.

The men of the advanced corps take charge of, and put into effect, all orders and drills of the elementary students. On the drill field full authority is given the advanced cadets and all parades and reviews are handled by them. In the classrooms the students are first instructed very thoroughly and then allowed to assist the regular army officers as assistant instructors in the elementary classes. After completion of two years of advanced work, the men receive the commission of second lieutenant in the engineering corps of the United States army.

OFFICERS

The Officers' club, open to all advanced R. O. T. C. students, is both a service and social organization. The organization was reorganized April 8, 1946, after disbanding during the war.

Under its president, George Peck, and sponsor, Major K. C. Emerson, the organization seeks to further the knowledge of the military and to bring about fellowship among its members.

Socially, the club sponsors smokers, picnics, stag parties and dances. Of the two dances sponsored by the organization, the military ball held in the spring is the main event of the year. This dance is traditionally held in honor of graduating seniors; however, there will be no graduating seniors until the end of the fall semester next year. Lending to a true militaristic atmosphere of the dance hall, the flags, mortars, machine guns, and sabers decorate the walls and entrance at the dance.

The most unmilitaristic activity, one in which none but the cadet officers participate, is the annual "tea party" and picnic. At this "little party" there is no pomp or ceremony displayed. All members come early and stay late—some never leave at all. The affair is held out in the open spaces where the boys can enjoy the wonderful workings of nature—and nature generally takes its course. Those who have "experienced" this affair will long remember it.

Officers of the Officers' club are James E. Bunch, president; W. M. Preston, vice-president; J. T. Elder, secretary, and J. A. Menefee, treasurer.

OF HOME ECONOMICS

From the Division of Home Economics each year are graduated young women who are well-schooled in the art of home-making, teaching, and decoration, or are fitted for such positions as fashion analysts, textile research workers, costume designers or dietitians. A familiar sight to students passing the Home Ec building is the playground where "little people" from the nursery school are observed and taught by students. White uniformed coeds whip up tasty dishes for their own delight in the well-equipped kitchens of the Home Ec building.

THE 1947 REDSKIN

LOWELL HARRIS, Editor

The 1947 REDSKIN, infinitely more work than anyone will realize when glancing through its contents, is not the result of individual labor but of well-coordinated group activity. Although it has been said that no sane person would work on the REDSKIN a second time, we feel that the associations, friendships, worries, and experiences encountered this year are invaluable.

Editing a yearbook requires cooperation with the photographer, printer and engraver, and it also requires the close harmony of nearly a score of fellow students. Paul Stewart, business manager, and Lowell Harris, editor, headed the two staffs which ultimately succeeded in getting the REDSKIN to press in time.

Staff members, many selected in the spring of 1946, returned to Stillwater early to make arrangements for student subscribers' pictures. Group pictures were taken of the organizations which had signed for space in the book, and feature pictures, always a headache, were made of most campus activities.

Credit for beginning organization work can be distributed among eager-journalist Harris (even an editor has to work occasionally), ex-organization editors Barbara Schott and Jim Critchfield, who lost many an early fall afternoon begging students to please have their pictures taken; feature editors Bill Johnson and Don Reynolds; and organization ed number three, Jack Rector, who ended up doing most of Schott's and Critchfield's work, and all of Johnson's and Reynolds'. Maybe he was working for Blue Key points.

Copy, an all-staff problem, worried practically all of the REDSKIN clan, particularly Dorothy Mann and Thorne Kelly, now substituting for editor-in-chief Harris, now copy editors Schott and Critchfield, and about 12 assistants who never found the office until the staff picture was made. (Schott and Critchfield never even got there for the picture.)

... Offical Yearbook

Beauty editor Jeanne Alexander, who would have been an excellent contestant herself, spent much time and agony trying to convince would-be campus beauties that there is such a thing as a deadline! Assistant editor Bob Hartley and Bob Basore sympathized with her, but left such a problem for the powder-puff side of the staff while they carried out tasks assigned by Editor Harris.

Lloyd Murphy hid his head and meekly wrote all sports, even football, while Rainey Heard spent multi-time in the office, writing some copy and doing a lot of talking about the basketball situation at A. and M. general adding to the appearance of the office.

Such people as Iris Widner and Lillian Hughey, extremely capable members of the business office force, will be thanked forever for getting class pictures off to the engravers on time, even though it meant giving up part of Christmas vacation.

And always, of course, there is Elmer Woodson, faculty business manager for all student publications, who usually gets in on the work of all departments. "Woody" sorts pictures, cuts copy, and early begins to remind the editors of what he knows to be an all-too-soon-arriving deadline.

Seated: Betty Mays, Paul Stewart, Dorothy Mann, Lew Cain.

Paul Stewart, an old hand at any kind of RED-SKIN business, quietly went about his task of being business manager, sometimes assisted by one or more of his side of the staff. Marvin Whisman was in charge of organization, while Gene Allen, Bob Dark, Gene Johnson, Charles Owens and Roy Hamilton peddled advertising.

Secretary-in-chief was Lew Cain, assisted by Betty Mays and Dorothy Mann.

Mary Ann Shepherd, Barbara Harrison, Elaine Staffelbach, Marge Bennett, Paula Robinson, and Virginia Parnell—all members of the editorial staff—were put to work periodically sorting pictures, checking copy, writing cutlines, and in

THE O'COLLEGIAN

BILL BYRD, Editor

The postwar reconversion program hit the 1946-47 "O'Collegian" full in the face this year as returned war veterans filled top spots on "The O'Collegian" staff as well as on the two other campus publications, the REDSKIN and the "Aggievator".

During the war years the "O'Colly" office was filled with scents of perfume and powder, and even after the lady occupants moved out this year, bent tubes of lipstick and scattered bobby pins littered the copy desks in grim testimony as to the power of the feminine sex.

beck, sports editor—all World War II combat veterans—staffed "The O'Collegian" during the first semester this year.

Another World War II veteran, Joe M. Bevis, served the entire year as advertising manager of 'The O'Collegian'. Bevis and Lola Word, assistant advertising manager, did a capable job selling advertising. Lola first joined the business staff in the fall of 1945 and served one semester as advertising manager. Joe started with the paper the summer of 1946.

Byrd, a long-time Independent, surprised most Greeks by retaining an impartial sheet. Towards the end of his editorship, Byrd was termed "not an independent—but just anti-Greek", by one of the supposedly big-shot frat boys. However, when the scores were counted, "The O'Collegian" was rated as a fairly impartial paper by all concerned.

As usual the "O'Colly" office was deluged with prospective reporters at the beginning of the school year. But the attrition was great, and only a few lasted throughout the year. Mainstays in this year's reportorial crop were Jim Reynolds, who wrote several No. I stories; Bob Jeffers, an efficient, hard-working lad; Nelle Welch, good steady gal at the society desk, and Pat Terrell, who usually came through with his sports stories on time.

Newsprint shortages dogged the student staff all year long. Some second semester issues were published in tabloid form on flat newsprint that was borrowed. It was mostly a hand-to-mouth existence in regard to obtaining paper supplies, but somehow "The O'Collegian", while in its 52nd year of publication, managed to limp along with its tri-weekly publication.

Byrd graduated at midterm with a B. A. sheepskin and headed back to the hills down Poteau way. Scott and Lehmbeck, together with backkle couldn't be termed a war veteran, but she stacked up with the rest of the staff by turning out reams and reams of copy.

On the sports desk, Reavis put Lloyd Murphy, who had once before been sports editor of the "O'Colly". Murphy was deluged by demands for his sports writing. He was sports editor of the REDSKIN and assisted Otis Wile, publicity director of the athletic department.

Rainey Heard, a holdover from the "powderpuff" days, was appointed news editor. A system of one of three persons being responsible for an issue of the paper brought in Mary Jo Botkin who most ably served as a second assistant.

shop man Bruce Heydenburk, started out on a new journalistic career by purchasing the Cimarron Valley Clipper newspaper at Coyle. Steph was appointed editor of "The O'Collegian" for the second semester, but after grade points were totalled, he became ineligible. Dick Reavis, ex-Aggie who returned to school for the second semester from a Sayre newspaper, was appointed in his stead. Reavis is a World War II veteran.

The only feminine member of the "O'Colly" staff, Wandalee Hinkle, remained to work as assistant editor during the second semester. Hin-

HAL HAZELRIGG, Editor

After fighting paper shortages, dull pencil sharpeners, and ill-spelling typewriters, the freshman issue of the "Aggievator" finally made its first appearance in mid-November. Still limited to the wartime restriction of four editions annually, the next three commemorated the new year, Sadie Hawkins and spring.

With advertising and subscriptions at a peak, 32 pages were allowed each issue in which the traditional practice of many pseudo-humorous stories was supplanted by the introduction of a more-features-less-fiction policy, complete with numerous pictures of familiar faces and places in Aggieland.

The staff was headed by Hal Hazelrigg, ably aided by the journalistic cohorts of Jim Critchfield, who wrote "This 'n' That" and fluently criticized the rest, and Barbara Schott, who handled a large part of the mechanics involved in putting the publication together. Duane Geis, assisted by Roy Hamilton, managed the business end very ably with outstanding advertising and subscription sales. T-Bone McDonald acted as sports scribe with a refreshingly new styling and Rainey Heard and Clyde Le Master faithfully authored assignment jobs.

Bill Byrd, the eminent "O'Collegian" ed for the year, contributed a fine story of a serio-satirical flavor and Mahlon Robertson snapped an abundance of pix for all issues. In the art department, Al "Ole Faithful" Stone, a prewar contributor, divided the cartooning honors with newcomers Clyde Le Master, Bob Jacobson and Kermit Bulla. Petite Bonnie Moore, secretary, consoled, reprimanded, and after the second issue, married the editor.

SIGMA DELTA CHI

Press club, local organization for men active in journalism, this year became affiliated with Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity.

Before becoming a Sigma Delta Chi chapter officially, Press club once more was sponsor of the annual Varsity Revue, this time in conjunction with Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism fraternity on the Aggie campus and the sponsor during the war.

The Revue once more upheld the idea of amateur talent and skits and each participant was allowed to use his own ideas.

Sigma Delta Chi members were active in each of the student publications. Lowell Harris, president of the organization, was editor of the REDSKIN; Bill Byrd was editor of "The O'Collegian"; Hal Hazelrigg was editor of the "Aggievator"; Tommy Steph and Jim Scott were assistant editors of the "O'Colly"; Barney Lehmbeck was sports editor of "The O'Collegian"; and Joe Hodges, who is a member of the board of publications, and Brad Carlisle are on the staff of "The O'Collegian".

Among its other activities on the campus, Sigma Delta Chi this year honored the man who in the opinion of the fraternity was the outstanding freshman in journalism. Professional meetings, at which outstanding men in the field of journalism were presented, were also among the

MARY WILBANKS, President

The Matrix Table of Theta Sigma Phi was introduced to the campus for the first time this year when the local chapter, Alpha Chi, presented Miss Malvina Stephenson, Washington press and radio correspondent, at a semi-formal banquet in December.

An outgrowth of the old Fourth Estate club, the Alpha Chi chapter was installed at A. and M. in 1942, becoming the 27th student chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, national professional and honorary fraternity for women in journalism.

A Theta Sigma Phi must be a junior or senior enrolled in professional journalism. She must have a grade average of B in journalism and a C-plus average in other courses before she is admitted to membership.

To recognize outstanding freshman women in journalism, the local chapter annually presents an award to the young journalist who has shown the most interest and talent on the various student publications. Last year's award was presented to Alice Lorraine Heard.

Part of the proceeds of the all-college Varsity Revue, sponsored annually by Theta Sig and Sigma Delta Chi (Press club), goes to Theta Sigma Phi's fund for financial aid to needy women journalists.

Miss Vera Gillespie is faculty advisor and Mrs. George Church is alumna advisor.

BOARD OF PUBLICATIONS

The direct supervision of Oklahoma A. and M. College's three major student publications—"The O'Collegian", REDSKIN and "Aggievator"—is the responsibility of the Board of Student Publications.

Comprised of four student and four faculty members, the publications board is one of the oldest student groups on the campus. Each spring two student members, of junior classification, are elected to replace the two graduating seniors.

In addition to the editorial and business supervision of the student newspaper, yearbook and Student members for the 1946-47 school year were Dorothy Clark, La Verne Stephens, Joe Hodges and Mary Ellen Kurland. Faculty representatives—all of whom have served on the board for several years—are Professor Clement E. Trout, Dean C. H. McElroy, Professor R. B. Thompson and Professor George H. White.

Trout, head of the college publications department, is chairman of the board, and Elmer Woodson, general manager and faculty advisor of student publications, is secretary.

humor magazine, the Board of Student Publications also has the duty of selecting the editors of each of the three publications.

An additional responsibility of the board is the "O'Collegian" printing plant, owned by The O'Collegian Publishing company, a non-profit corporation chartered under the laws of the state of Oklahoma, with the entire student body as stockholders. The corporation is under the directors of the corporation, who delegate operation of the printing plant to the Board of Student Publications.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers is a national technical society composed of members of the mechanical engineering profession. The objectives of the student branch are: To broaden the student's acquaintance with the practical side of the practice of mechanical engineering; to develop the student's initiative and ability to speak in public; to familiarize him with the parliamentary procedure and organization of learned societies; to enable the student to establish fraternal contact with his fellow students in engineering, both at his alma mater and at other colleges, and to meet graduate engineers engaged in the active practice of mechanical engineering.

Any student registered as a regular student in engineering or majoring in engineering leading to an engineering degree, graduate or undergraduate, in an accredited university or technical school, may file application as a student member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Such students who are enrolled in engineering courses scheduled either during the day or evening will be included in this category. Senior engineering students who receive their degrees are transferred to the grade of junior member of the parent society.

The Oklahoma A. and M. student branch was reactivated on the campus during the fall semester after a wartime lapse. Officers of the student branch are: honorary chairman, Professor Rollo E. Venn; chairman, Raymond A. Porter; vice-chairman, Leslie Baxter; secretary, Richard Pitcher, and treasurer, Leland Morton.

Activities of the student branch include technical meetings and discussions twice each month, a field trip to the spring meeting of the parent society held in Tulsa, and a student paper contest at which James R. Gates and Raymond A. Porter were selected to represent this school in the district competition.

Each year the parent organization gives to the most outstanding student in the chapter a certificate of award. This award was presented to James R. Gates as being the most deserving of it.

AGGIE-X CLUB

The Aggie-X club, chartered January, 1929, is one of the newest departmental clubs in the School of Agriculture. The club membership is comprised of students majoring in agricultural economics, that department in the School of Agriculture which deals with administrative and technical aspects of general agricultural policy and the unification of men, land and materials into efficient producing and marketing business units.

The objects of the club are: (I) to create interest and study in the economic problems of agriculture, (2) to promote and further a closer fellowship between the students, faculty and alumni members in agriculture, and (3) to acquaint employers with the background and training of majors in agricultural economics and to aid in placing students on jobs commensurate with their ability and desires.

A current file of students and graduates in agricultural economics is maintained. Each club member is asked to leave on file a picture, a record of his experience and college training. The graduate is asked to keep the club currently informed as to his present position and address. This information has proven helpful to employers who are contacting prospective employees.

The Aggie-X club programs include former members, out-of-town speakers, local businessmen and members of the faculty. Current problems relating to agriculture are discussed and each member may contribute to the discussion by asking questions or presenting his viewpoint of the problem.

Softball, touch football and basketball teams are sponsored by members. Before the war the club was organizing a farm-appraisal team with prospects of competing with students from other agricultural colleges.

The club also arranges the program and displays for openhouse and homecoming. The annual activities are climaxed by a spring picnic when the faculty and members gather for a day of fun and fellowship.

This year, more than ever before, the true spirit of the Aggie-X club was shown by the members in their outstanding contributions to Oklahoma A. and M.

FRED ROBERTSON, President

ASSOCIATION OF WOMEN STUDENTS

MARGARET BENNETT, President

Three major events sponsored by the Association for Women Students top each school year's calendar—the Coed Prom, the spring matinee tea, and the installation supper where new AWS officers are introduced to campus leaders.

This year's Coed Prom, held in October, was highlighted by progressive singing and relays in addition to the traditional student and costume competition.

At the beginning of the second semester AWS welcomes the women students just arriving on the campus at its matinee tea. Outstanding student artists on the campus are asked to appear on the program. The last event of the calendar year is the installation supper, at which officers for the coming year are installed. The outgoing and incoming presidents of all the women's organizations are honored at the supper.

Both old and new presidents of AWS attend national conventions of the Intercollegiate Association of Women Students each spring.

Membership in AWS is automatically extended to all women students enrolled at A. and M. AWS functions as a coordinating board for all women's organizations. Its purposes include regulating all matters pertaining to women students which do not fall under the jurisdiction of the faculty; encouraging cooperation among campus, fraternity and town groups; bringing about integration of women's organizations, and creating attitudes that will promote and maintain the highest standards of college life.

The administrative branches of AWS are divided into three distinct groups—the executive board, the judicial board and the legislative board.

The executive board is composed of the four elected officers: Margaret Bennett, president; Joan Wood Jones, vice-president; Betty June Rhodes, secretary, and Erma Lee Denny, treasurer. Other members of the executive board, by virtue of being presidents of their various organizations, are June Smith, panhellenic council; Gloria Tanner, grand council; Wanda Marshall, Tau Gamma; Mary Wilbanks, Mortar Board; Mary Jane Waldron, YWCA; Velda Blackledge, WAA, and Euteva Pugh, AWS judicial board.

ASSOCIATION OF WOMEN STUDENTS

The judicial board is composed of two senior members, two junior members, and one sophomore member, selected by the outgoing board. The legislative board includes representatives from each dormitory floor, each sorority, and each organized residence hall.

Miss Julia E. Stout, dean of women, serves as sponsor of the executive board; Mrs. Estelle Hammond, assistant to the dean of women, sponsors the legislative board, and Miss Vesta Etchison, YWCA secretary, is in charge of the judicial board.

Members of the AWS legislative board for the years 1946 and 1947 are: Dorothy Longino, first floor, Murray hall; Clara Mae Parker, second floor, Murray hall; Marge Bennett, third floor, Murray hall; Leigh Sullivan, fourth floor, Murray hall; Barbara Garrett, first and second floors, North Murray hall; Kathryn White, third and fourth floors, North Murray hall; Jean Smith, first floor, Willard hall; Betty Lou Larsen, second floor, Willard hall; Pat Carpenter, third floor, Willard hall; Mary Holten, fourth floor, Willard hall.

Members from the various sororities are: Virginia Stallings, Zeta Tau Alpha; Alice Lorraine Heard, Kappa Delta; Elinor Roach, Delta Zeta; Betty Lou Wainscott, Pi Beta Phi; Pat Headrick, Kappa Alpha Theta; Margery Zalebak, Chi Omega; Ruth Bradley, Alpha Delta Pi; and Bernadine Seeling, Mary White, Joan Throckmorton, and Mary Lee Todd, Tau Gamma.

Working for the maintenance and welfare of other campus organizations, the Association of Women Students has been instrumental in assisting them to pursue an active program in the interest of women students. A. W. S. has been a staunch supporter of the Y. W. C. A., and during periods of depression and need it has extended the organization financial aid.

Assistance rendered by A. W. S. enabled Tau Gamma, a local society of independent women, to organize and establish. It also played a prominent part in the establishment of Sigma Alpha lota, honor society for music students.

AGGIE SOCIETY

ED SYNAR, Vice-President

The School of Agriculture, with its 13 major departments, is characterized by a large number of organizations. It is in that school that Aggie society, the largest student organization on the campus, predominates.

Not only does the Aggie society go in for a large membership, but it prides itself in the total number of students who take an active part in its management. The primary purpose of the Aggie society is to promote wider acquaintance and better cooperation among the students in the School of Agriculture. It also gives the students an opportunity to learn to work together and take on the responsibility of governing and administering their personal affairs later in life; to promote interest in the various fields of agriculture, and to sponsor agricultural activities.

The Aggie society is once more returning to the size that it was before the war. With the return of many of the old students and new freshmen, the membership is again at about 600. It is one of the oldest organizations on the campus, having its beginning about 1900.

The Aggie society has long been known for its democratic spirit, as any student enrolled in the School of Agriculture is eligible for membership.

The monthly meetings of the Aggie society usually include talks by men who are well informed in the field of agriculture. Motion pictures of currently interesting topics are presented whenever possible.

The big events of the year for the Aggie society occur during the spring of the year. One event is the promotion and election of the Aggie princess, and the other is Aggie day. Aggie day takes place in the early part of the spring, and consists of a big school picnic in the afternoon, followed by the overall-apron dance in the evening. The Aggie princess is elected during the spring sometime before Aggie day, when she is crowned.

An innovation, the Aggie Society-Home Economics club pie supper and barn dance, was held early in the fall, and all had an enjoyable evening of fun and entertainment.

AGGIE SOCIETY

The members and officers of Aggie society made every effort to make May 9, 1947, the biggest and best Aggie day that it was. The annual picnic was held at Yost lake with boat riding, swimming, dancing, horseshoe pitching, softball and food for all. The day was climaxed by the dance in the Old Gym with music furnished by the Varsitonians.

The present Aggie society officers are: Frank Baker, president, senior in animal husbandry; Alfred Green, secretary, junior in animal husbandry; Jim Wolfe, treasurer, senior in animal husbandry; and Bill VanArsdell, reporter, senior in animal husbandry.

The Aggie council is the governing body of Aggie society, and is composed of the officers of the society and representatives of the following agricultural organizations: Aggie-X, Agronomy club, Alpha Zeta, Poultry club, Phi Sigma, Collegiate 4-H, Dairy club, Block and Bridle, Horticulture club, F. F. A., Aggie senator, and Aggie princess. The main function of the Aggie council is to arrange programs and promote the monthly meetings. These meetings are scheduled for the first Monday in every month.

In addition to sponsoring scholarship, the society fosters various displays of agricultural products and the latest scientific production methods and developments in this field.

Through the Aggie society and other student organizations interested in agriculture, the members of this school are able to unify their efforts toward postwar advancement for the department. The leaders of the society have successfully coordinated the interests and activities of the various organizations to come nearer their goal: the ultimate advancement of the Division of Agriculture.

It has been the purpose of the organization to give special attention in cooperation with the agricultural faculty and the experimental station of Oklahoma A. and M.

AGRONOMY CLUB

LAXTON MALCOM, President

The Oklahoma A. and M. chapter of the student section of the American Society of Agronomy was organized in 1922 and in 1934 it became affiliated with the national organization of the American Society of Agronomy.

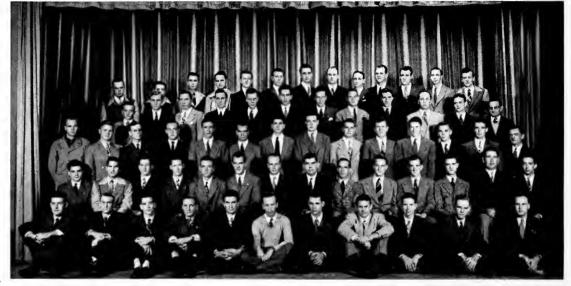

The club membership is comprised of students who are actively interested in either field crops or soils. The club was inactive during the war years. This year it was reorganized and its present membership is largely students who have returned from military service.

The club's purpose is to act as a service organization for the agronomy department. It helps to arouse interest in agronomic work and to provide an opportunity to broaden their knowledge in their chosen fields.

This year the club and the agronomy department have jointly erected a memorial honoring those agronomy graduates and faculty members who gave their lives in World War II. New displays, including one of the native pasture grasses of Oklahoma, were added to the Agronomy clubroom.

Each year the club sponsors a collegiate freshman and sophomore crops judging contest and an interscholastic crops judging contest for high school vocational agriculture students.

The major social event of the year is the annual spring picnic for members and their dates and the faculty members and their wives.

Officers of the Agronomy club are Laxton Malcolm, president; Winton Brubaker, vice-president; Lewis Neumeyer, secretary-treasurer; Rush Winters, parliamentarian; Orville White, critic; Patrick Wehling, chairman of membership committee, and Hugo Graumann, faculty advisor.

The Agronomy club has charge of the Interscholastic Freshman-Sophomore and the Junior-Senior crops judging contests and this year has added a new one, a soil texture determining contest. To encourage speaking and discussion on current topics, the club organized a speech club as an auxiliary to the main club. Social and recreational activities include a softball team, a number of parties and picnics, including a box supper with the Home Economics club.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI

After having been inactive since the spring of 1943, Alpha Kappa Psi, professional fraternity of the School of Commerce, was reactivated on the Oklahoma A. and M. College campus in September, 1946, by a group of 10 members, all veterans of World War II. Smokers, panel discussion programs and business meetings were planned for the coming year.

Alpha Kappa Psi, the first and oldest commerce fraternity, was founded in 1904 at New York university, New York. Since that date over 59 chapters have been installed on campuses of leading colleges and universities throughout the nation. Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity is a charter member of the Professional Interfraternity conference comprised of the leading professional fraternities in the various professional fields.

Tau chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi was granted a charter by the national office on April 19, 1920. Since then, except for the three years it was inactive, Alpha Kappa Psi has been recognized as an important part of the School of Commerce of Oklahoma A. and M. College, and has continued to promote professional activities that bring its members in contact with concrete problems of the business world.

BOB McMURTRAY, President

Through its years at A. and M., Tau chapter has seen several hundred of its members leave the portals of Morrill hall to take their countless positions in the varied lines of business.

The aims of Alpha Kappa Psi are to further the individual welfare of its members; to foster scientific research in the field of commerce, accounts and finance; to educate the public to appreciate and demand higher ideals therein, and to promote and advance in institutions of college rank, courses leading to degrees in business administration.

Since Tau chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity was founded on the Oklahoma A. and M. College campus in 1920, it has continued as an actice chapter, participating in the program of the School of Commerce.

Current articles pertinent to the various fields of commerce by authorities in their respective fields appear in the "Diary", the official magazine of the fraternity.

ALPHA PI MU

SIDNEY YAVERBAUM, President

The Alpha Theta chapter of Alpha Pi Mu, honorary premedical fraternity on the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College campus, was founded in the fall of 1931. The purpose of the fraternity is primarily to bring together the premedical students of this college and to give them a common basis for discussing medical science problems.

Alpha Pi Mu stresses the ideal of unselfish service to humanity, and it is comprised of those interested in, and studying to be, the medical technologists, doctors, dentists, and nurses of tomorrow. Prerequisites to the fraternity are a grade point average of 2.5 or above, enrollment in a premedical course, 28 hours of college credit, 14 of which must be obtained at this college, and approval by the members of the fraternity.

Alpha Pi Mu sponsors many activities of interest to those in the various fields of medical science, one of which is a trip to the medical school of the University of Oklahoma in Oklahoma City each year. It also offers an award to the freshman premedical student with the highest grade point average. This year the fraternity has sponsored lecturers from various parts of the state as well as some from our own campus faculty.

Dr. Sylvan R. Wood, of the chemistry department, and Dr. Harry W. Orr, of the bacteriology and physiology department, are the faculty sponsors and advisors of Alpha Pi Mu. The fraternity officers are: Sidney Yaverbaum, president; Beth Harrington, vice-president; Dona Mae Kirk, secretary; Bruce Crozier, treasurer, and Frank Hudson, pledgemaster.

ALPHA ZETA

Alpha Zeta is a national honorary agriculture fraternity. The Oklahoma A. and M. chapter was installed April 24, 1916. The total active and alumni membership is now over 540.

The purposes of Alpha Zeta are listed as to promote the profession of agriculture; to develop a spirit of fellowship among its members; and to bond together a group of outstanding technical men who have achieved distinction and are capable of honorary achievements in others.

Alpha Zeta does not invite for membership men of low standing scholastically. Nor on the other hand does it intend to choose men on the basis of scholarship alone. Members of Alpha Zeta should be the agricultural leaders of the future, and on that basis they are chosen. Scholarship, moral character and leadership are the major points of consideration.

Each year Alpha Zeta makes a number of awards such as: presentation of a plaque to the senior in agriculture having the highest four year grade point average; presentation of a plaque to the freshman in the School of Agriculture who has the highest grade point average, and presentation of medals to the three individuals who have the highest total score in all of the freshman-sophomore judging contests.

AQUATICS CLUB

GENE RIGGS, President

The Oklahoma A. and M. Aquatics club is a new organization on the campus. It began at the start of this school year, and is being successfully carried on by its members and sponsors.

The club tries to promote water safety at all times and to increase interest in competitive and recreational swimming. Development of personal ability and form is an aim of all members upon which they work continually. It also includes those people who have outstanding ability in any form of swimming or diving.

Eligibility for membership in the club includes an entrance test, which requires good form in 440 yards of straight swimming, the breast stroke, the elementary back stroke, the back crawl, the American crawl, the side stroke, the surface dive, underwater swimming, the plain front dive, knowledge of the trudgeon, and the skull.

One of its objectives each year is to present a water pageant. There have been pageants in the years before, but it is now a function of the swimming club alone. This year's pageant was held in May, and starred Mary Chapman, Gene Riggs, and Erma Oldham. Other members were featured in form and synchronized swimming, and floating formations.

Gene Riggs, well known for his swimming and diving ability, is president; vice-president is Pat Flikkema, and Mary Chapman is secretary-treasurer.

Other officers include Pete Tourtellotte and Erma Oldham, program chairmen; Wayne Ward and Joyce White, pageant chairmen, and Dorothy Clark, who is in charge of publicity.

The club has two faculty sponsors, Miss Kautz and Miss Miller, both of whom are new to the health and physical education department this year. Their enthusiasm and interest in seeing the club get ahead are large factors in the success of the swimming club.

JIMMIE BAKER and the COLLEGIANS

Baker's back and the Aggies got him!

The singing, tap-dancing, drum-playing maestro brought professional entertainment to A. and M. and all points east, west, north, and south throughout the 1946-47 school year with his nationally-famous Collegians, dubbed "America's finest college dance band" by Downbeat.

It was a return engagement for Jimmie, the personality-plus boy from Tulsa, and Okie City. His Collegians first burst upon the campus at a Sigma Nu dance in the fall of '40, and from then on the Baker boys had things their own way. The Collegians also played dances all over the state and the Continental hotel in Kansas City, Missouri.

Everything was great until the fall of 1942 when Uncle Sam decided Jimmie would look better in a private's uniform than in his A. and M. drum major's outfit. So, Maestro Baker joined the army air corps, the Collegians disbanded, and the campus settled down to four years of comparative peace and quiet.

Came 1946, and things like reconversion, and the Collegians showed up again—bigger and better than ever before! This time the Baker boys were almost entirely ex-G. I.'s—the ''Men of the Air'' who started Europe jumping when touring with the Mickey Rooney show overseas.

Another ex-G. I., Ed Gowans, left off his bigtime arranging for front-man Bobby Byrne and started scoring tunes for the Collegians, also serving as pianist.

The story doesn't end here—for as soon as Jimmie graduates this spring, the Collegians will head for Hollywood to make movie shorts.

Joe Webster and Sharyle Scott vocalize with the Collegians. Reeds are Tommy Pace, Joe Cerney, Bob Freeman, Bob Gilkeson, and Jimmy Hunt; trombones, Glen Brown, Tommy Baker, Jack Stewart, and Bill Cook; trumpets, Jimmy Markle, Jimmy Freeman, Dick Shadburne, and Charles Culp; drums, Dick Lermy and Buddy Stayton; bass, Gene Doss, and guitar, Buddy Faulconer.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION

IVA BIRMINGHAM. Secretary

The Baptist Student Union is the link between the Baptist students of A. and M. and the local Baptist Church, co-ordinating the religious activity of the more than 2,000 Baptist preference students on the campus and ministering to their spiritual needs. Any student who belongs to the local Baptist church or to any of the unit organizations represented on the B. S. U. council is a member of the Union.

The B. S. U. sponsors a vespers service at the student center each evening, Monday through Friday from 7:00 to 7:30, and a prayer and devotional service each morning from 7:25 to 7:45. One of the very popular features of the B. S. U. program is the weekly party on the ground floor of the First Baptist church. Another popular event is the "fellowship hour" following the Sunday evening worship. A newspaper, "The Gleam," is published each week and distributed to the students at one of the vesper services.

BEAUX ARTS SOCIETY

As a student organization in the school of architecture, the Beaux Arts society has progressed in its nine years, so that more than half the eligible students of architecture have joined the fraternal group in its activities this year.

For the 1946-47 year, James Marshall as president was aided by Maxine Carpenter, secretary, and J. Jones, treasurer. Professor D. E. Stevens of the department of architecture carries on as faculty advisor.

One of the high points of the social year for the society, that always meets with approval, is the Christmas party. And, their last proved to provide refreshments and entertainment, exchanging unique gifts, singing and playing cards made another afternoon not soon to be forgotten. These social activities have played a strong part in the preserving of good fellowship among the students in the department.

The communal fellowship that exists in the drafting room is given further impetus by the society in both recreation and opportunities to keep abreast of developments affecting the more serious work of a student architect. This and the "big brother" attitude toward the newer members prove the work of the society to those who experience these benefits.

The organization was organized nine years ago and since has grown into a progressive honorary fraternity. One of the purposes of the organization is to help architectural students keep informed of architectural advancements.

Members of Beaux Arts receive awards and prizes each year from the Beaux Arts Institute of Design in New York City. These awards, given to those entering in national competition, are to the outstanding design students.

The annual Beaux-Arts ball is a highlight in the social life of the architects. It is held in the spring and prizes are awarded at the dance for the most original costumes. These prizes encourage everyone to have a clever costume.

BETA ALPHA PSI

DUANE GEIS, President

Beta Alpha Psi, a national honorary and professional accounting fraternity, was founded February 12, 1919, at the University of Illinois. The purpose of Beta Alpha Psi is to encourage and foster the idea of service as the basis of the accounting profession; to promote the study of accounting with the view of securing the highest ideals; to act as a medium between professional men, instructors, students, and others who are interested in the development of the study or professional, and scholastic standards in its members and the members of the profession.

Membership is restricted to those students in the Division of Commerce who have completed not less than 12 hours of college work in accounting with a grade point average of 3.0, whose general average in all subjects is not less than 2.5, and who manifest an interest in the continued study of accounting and possess high qualities of character, personality and leadership.

COLLEGIATE F. F. A.

The collegiate chapter of the Future Farmers of America was organized on the campus of the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College March 3, 1932. Sponsored by the department of agricultural education, it is the oldest collegiate chapter in the United States.

The membership has members in every department in the School of Agriculture. The chapter was organized especially for students of agricultural education who are planning to be teachers of vocational agriculture in the secondary schools of the state.

The organization has as its objectives: to promote a spirit of cooperation and goodwill among high school and college students who are members of the Future Farmers of America organization; to provide training for leadership in the activities of the Future Farmers of America for young men at Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College who are planning to be leaders in the Oklahoma division of the organization; to promote vocational education in agriculture in the secondary schools of the state and to cooperate with the state and national organization in promoting the activities, purposes, and ideals for the Future Farmers of America.

There are two grades of membership in the collegiate Future Farmers of America chapter—the

The officers for the 1946-47 school year include: Raymond Anderson, president; Olen Labor, vice-president; Lloyd Parham, treasurer; James H. Slatten, secretary, and Bob Totusek, reporter. The faculty advisors of FFA are Professors Don M. Orr and Chris White.

The A. and M. FFA chapter remained active during the war in spite of a decreased membership due to the large number of men in the service, and it will continue to function on the college campus as one of the most outstanding agriculture organizations for the promotion and formation of better farmers throughout the nation.

BLOCK AND BRIDLE

BUD GRAVES, President

The Block and Bridle club will conclude this year by calling it one of the most successful years of its history on the A. and M. campus. This can not be attributed to one man, but to the whole group working together under the direction and supervision of Dr. H. M. Briggs and leadership of the president, Bud Graves.

The Block and Bridle club was founded in 1919 by members of the livestock judging teams from Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri and Iowa, while attending the International Livestock show at Chicago. The national organization has been inactive during the war but is reactivating this year.

The local chapter of Block and Bridle was organized in 1920 as the Hoof and Horn club. In 1922 it was accepted by the national Block and Bridle organization. The local club has had two national presidents, Dr. W. A. Craft, 1923-1926, and Dr. C. P. Thompson, 1932-1933.

The purpose of Block and Bridle is to maintain a bond of friendship between students and professors of animal husbandry and livestock breeders.

The club sponsors judging contests for freshman and sophomore students in agriculture and a judging contest for members and pledges of Block and Bridle. It also sponsors the Little International Livestock show and rodeo which was held last November with great success. The proceeds from these events are used to defray the expenses of the members of the livestock and meats judging teams to the American Royal at Kansas City and the International Livestock shows at Chicago. There the teams compete with teams from other colleges.

This year the meats judging team placed first at both contests, and the livestock team placed first at Kansas City and 11th at the Chicago show. This year the club assisted in sending a junior livestock and wool judging team to Denver for contests. The livestock team placed third, and the wool team placed second in the world premier wool judging contest.

The Block and Bridle consists of animal husbandry majors in the School of Agriculture.

Other purposes of the organization are to promote a high standard of scholarship among animal husbandry students, to promote understanding and fellowship between those engaged in the different phases of animal husbandry, and to encourage competition in intercollegiate judging contests.

Another livestock show and rodeo will be held this spring which will be most likely a turnaway crowd as the fall show was.

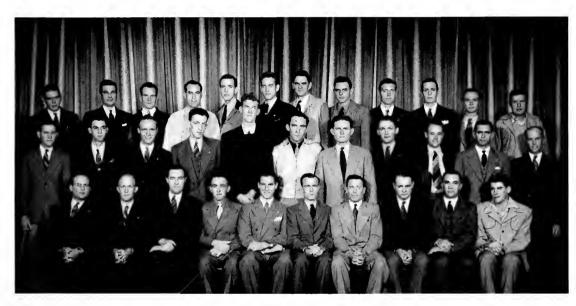

The meetings are held on the third Monday of each month in the Animal Husbandry building. A varied entertainment is furnished by guest speakers and collegiate entertainers.

A banquet is held after the judging contest between the club members each year. The winners are announced and this event is the highlight of the year.

This year the club sponsored the crowning of Royal Jupiter, a shorthorn steer fitted by the college and grand champion at the Chicago International Livestock show. Royal Jupiter was crowned "King Sirloin" of 1946, and after the ceremony he was taken to Pennsylvania to start a nationwide tour.

"King Sirloin" was crowned by Governor Kerr. Among the notables at the ceremony was Russell Firestone, president of the Firestone Rubber company, who bought the steer.

Any student in the School of Agriculture who has chosen animal husbandry for his major is eligible for membership in the Block and Bridle club.

Faculty advisors are Dr. H. M. Briggs, J. C. Hillier, Dr. C. P. Thompson, Glen Bratcher, Dwight Stephens, and Allen Heidebrecht.

Since the club has been reactivated, it is recognized as one of the outstanding organizations in the School of Agriculture, and all animal husbandry students are highly desirous of obtaining membership in the club. Due to the accomplishments of this outstanding organization, all Aggies from far and near deem it a privilege to be called a member.

BLUE KEY

LOWELL HARRIS, President

Blue Key sprang from a faith in the sincerity and ability of college men held by Major B. C. Riley. The fraternity had its foundation first in his idea that real American college and university student leaders are God-fearing, law-abiding young citizens who believe that worthwhile progress can best be made through the orderly processes of evolution and not revolution. Second, in his belief that students are men and must be treated as such, and that they are men willing to accept responsibility, willing to cooperate with faculty, willing to work with their fellow students, and capable of putting across ideas and ideals creating the right attitudes which will do much to improve student life and welfare.

Civic service is the central aim of the Blue Key national honor fraternity, and is symbolized by the oath each member takes when he is initiated into the organization.

Since its almost accidental beginning, Blue Key has grown into a national organization with 76 collegiate chapters distributed throughout the United States. From the beginning of the fraternity it has not lost sight of the vision of service held by its founder.

Blue Key had its beginning at Oklahoma A. and M. College May 18, 1932, when the local chapter was installed with 12 charter members. Chapters of Blue Key are located at Oklahoma City university, Oklahoma Southeastern Teachers college, University of Wichita, Kansas State college and the University of Arkansas.

Under present conditions it is believed that student leaders only need membership in about four organizations, including a social fraternity, a professional fraternity, a scholarship fraternity and a leadership fraternity. Just as Phi Kappa Phi stamps a man for scholarship, so Blue Key stamps him as one of all-around ability, good character, qualities for leadership, and the confidence of his fellow students.

On the Oklahoma A. and M. campus, Blue Key members are prominent leaders in the student association, active in specialized professional honorary societies in departments throughout the institution, officers and leaders in fraternities and dormitories, and rank high in scholastic leadership as well.

BLUE KEY

As the objective of Blue Key is service, it is the constant purpose of the A. and M. chapter to cooperate with the college administration and with the administration of the student association to coordinate student leadership from various divisions of the campus. In addition to this coordinating phase of Blue Key, which is usually guite unobtrusively accomplished, the organization maintains regular annual activities and from time to time takes the lead in some special service which is too broad in nature to be sponsored by any department or professional society on the campus.

This school year is the second year that Blue Key has sponsored the drive for funds to build a memorial chapel on the campus in honor of A. and M. students who lost their lives in both World War I and World War II. This chapel, which is to be used by the entire student body, will be located on the campus near Theta pond.

Membership this year was composed of both men who had gained their experience before and during the war. Veterans and non-veterans alike expended their talents and energy to a common cause —the building of a better Oklahoma A. and M. College.

A delegate was sent to the first national convention since the beginning of the war. The convention, held in St. Louis, reunited the membership once more in its primary aim, and was termed successful in that reactivation of chapters inactivated by the war was begun. The delegate was Marvin Fairchild.

Blue Key's annual fund-raising event, the Blue Key carnival, was again held. This year all proceeds of the carnival were added to the Memorial Chapel fund. Carnivals to be held in future have been designated as a method of continued addition to the fund.

Officers for the year were Lowell Harris, president; Paul Stewart, vice-president; Dale Hampton, secretary-treasurer, and Ted Horton, corresponding secretary.

COMMERCE STUDENT COUNCIL

PAUL DAVIS, Chairman

The Commerce Student council provides a means for students to express themselves on the policies of administration and on faculty-student relations. The purpose of the council is to advise and assist the dean of commerce and the faculty of the school in practically any and every way toward the betterment and advancement of the students in the School of Commerce.

It is the desire of the members of the council that any student in the School of Commerce feel free to offer suggestions concerning the commerce library, enrollment procedure, subjects offered, teaching methods and additional activities which the council might undertake. These subjects will be discussed by the council and if considered favorably will be passed on to the dean and the faculty.

The organization is limited to 35 members who are selected by a committee of faculty members and the previous year's council. Members are chosen to represent each class and each organization with a view to obtaining a cross section of the entire student body of the School of Commerce.

Commerce day is one of the annual projects sponsored by the council. This event begins with individual divisional conferences featuring successful businessmen who represent areas of interest in the School of Commerce. Another activity of the day is the selection of the "First Lady of Commerce." From a list of five nominees of representative commerce women, the students of the school choose by ballot the "First Lady."

One of the special interests of the council this year was the reactivation of commerce honorary and professional organizations which were inactive during the war.

Present officers of the Commerce Student council elected to serve during the 1946-47 school year are Paul Davis, chairman; Arthur Hiatt, vice-chairman, and Doris Woolery, secretary-treasurer.

Problems, proposals, and ideas relating to students, faculty and courses in the School of Commerce are discussed at the regular meetings of the council the first Thursday of each month.

NATIONAL DAIRY CLUB

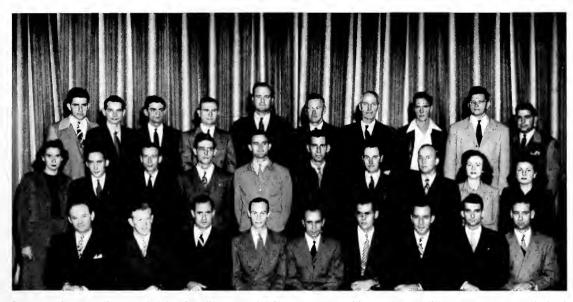

The National Dairy club was founded on the Oklahoma A. and M. campus in 1924 by a small group of ambitious students. The purpose of the National Dairy club is to draw the dairy students and faculty closer together in a bond of fellowship and to give vent to the group's potential energies in various activities.

The National Dairy club was reactivated in 1945, after being inactive for a period of three years, and started off with a very active part in campus activities. The first activity was the sponsoring of the annual dairy alumni breakfast. This brought many of the old grads together after they had been separated for several years.

After the second year of reactivation, the National Dairy club can boast a membership of some 40 members.

Other important functions sponsored by this club are the freshman-sophomore dairy judging contest, the high school interscholastic judging meet, the short course banquet, and the annual dairy picnic.

This year the organization functioned under the able direction of President Elmer McGlasson, Vice-President Harold Harp, Secretary Billy S. Parham, Treasurer Robert Meisner, Reporter Joe Watson, and Parliamentarian Lloyd Parham.

Both the major and minor purposes of the National Dairy club have been fulfilled to an unusually high degree.

With the splendid service rendered by the club members, led by the untiring efforts of the club's officers and faculty members, the group has experienced a most successful year.

Each member is given an opportunity to work for the welfare of the club and obtain experience in solving many common dairy problems through his associations with the activities of the club.

The membership has increased rapidly during the past year, and with its spirit of mutual goodwill among the students interested in the dairy industry, will go on advancing the general welfare of the dairy student.

DELTA SIGMA ALPHA

ED SYNAR, Vice-President

The Delta Sigma Alpha leadership organization was organized on the Oklahoma A. and M. campus in 1919. In 1924 it adopted the name of Collegiate 4-H club and held this name until 1942, when it assumed its original name of Delta Sigma Alpha.

The organization is comprised of a group of young men and women with a common interest who come together for the following reasons: To give further training in cooperation, fellowship, and leadership; to cooperate with county and state extension workers for a better rural life in this state; to keep in touch with the 4-H club movement and to continue friendships made with 4-H club members.

The only requirement for membership is one year of active 4-H club work. However, many of the members of Delta Sigma Alpha have long-time records as club members and a number of them were state and national winners in 4-H club work.

For the past several years, the organization has almost been an all-girl organization, due to the absence of men on the campus. Last year and this year, however, a large number of men who are former members of Delta Sigma Alpha returned to the campus and once again it began to seem like the organization it was before the war.

The organization has progressed this year under the leadership of the following officers: Frank Baker, president; Edmond Synar, vice-president; Bernice Friend, secretary; Betty June Rhodes, treasurer; Esther Winterfeldt, reporter, and Betty Faye Barnes, song leader. Mrs. Anna Stringfield is sponsor of the organization. Paul G. Adams, state 4-H club leader; Raiford Luker, associate state 4-H club leader, and Miss Alice Carlson, assistant state 4-H club leader, are advisors of the organization.

DELTA SIGMA THETA

Nu chapter of Delta Sigma Theta, national religious fraternity for men, was installed at Oklahoma A. and M. College in the spring of 1940. Though inactive during the war, it has resumed its role of service and influence and is this year witnessing its greatest progress since activation.

Delta Sigma Theta is the fraternity resulting from the merger of Phi Tau Theta, founded at the University of Nebraska in 1925, and Sigma Epsilon Theta, founded at the University of Indiana in 1936. The union of these two groups into Delta Sigma Theta was accomplished in Cedar Falls, Iowa, Nov. 30, 1941, shortly after the unification of Methodism.

Delta Sigma Theta is a national religious fraternity for Methodist men in colleges and universities. Its purposes are to create Christian fellowship, to develop leadership, to give religious training, to develop an understanding and appreciation of the Methodist church, and to promote wholesome social activities.

The desire of this organization is not to duplicate or to replace the church or any of the other groups subsidiary to the church, but rather to add those elements to and desired by a fraternal group.

So, appreciating the need of a closer Christian fellowship among men of Methodist preference, and believing that a fraternal organization can do much to stimulate the development of high moral standards and trusting that college or university men of Methodist preference, if so organized, will have a more effective influence upon student life and future leadership of the church, the men of Delta Sigma Theta have bound themselves together for the promotion of these ideals.

The officers of Delta Sigma Theta, elected to serve during the year 1946-47, include: Kenneth K. Kramer, president; Glen Brinson, vice-president; John C. Jander, recording secretary; Tommy Gray, corresponding secretary; Clair Koons, treasurer; Dale Bloyd, pledgemaster, and Dr. D. V. Benson, sponsor.

The officers and members of Delta Sigma Theta, dedicating themselves and their work to the furtherance of ideals and principles set up by the organization, plan to carry on their work in the future as effectively as always.

ENGINEERING SOCIETY

WALTER FLORENCE, President

In fulfilling its primary objectives, namely the promotion of good-will among student engineers of the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College, and immediate action and attention on all matters pertinent to the Division of Engineering, the Engineering society feels that it has had an unusually successful year.

As far as the history of this organization is concerned, there has been an Engineering society as long as there has been an engineering division of the college, the only changes being the membership, the personnel and projects it has undertaken. Probably the most worthwhile of these projects is the "Oklahoma State Engineer", the official magazine publication of the Division of Engineering. The staff of this magazine is recruited entirely from students in the various schools under the Division of Engineering, in order that those students may gain valuable experience in organization and administration. All activities of the society are under the direct surveillance of the faculty advisory board.

Membership in the society is composed of the entire division, including students from the schools of engineering, architecture and applied arts, technical training, and trades and industrial education. Each student is assessed 50 cents when enrolling, which goes into the treasury to defray any expenses that may be incurred by the society during the semester.

Meetings of the Engineering society were held regularly throughout the year, twice a month. Many interesting and entertaining meetings were held. Several out-of-town speakers were obtained for informative talks and lectures, including a representative from the Hollpane company who lectured on proper lighting. In his lecture, he described roughly the evolution of the human eye and its sensitivity to light. He further explained that the eye is divided into six distinct zones, each requiring a certain amount of light. Further, he explained how present day faults of lighting could be corrected by an exact method and not by a "hit or miss" method.

Other meetings included educational talks by faculty members and films on various subjects.

The Engineering society "went all out" for the homecoming parade. Many members of the society assisted in decorating the float for the group. Miss Maggie Parks, Pi Beta Phi, is the reigning engineering queen, and she, with several attendants, rode on the engineering float.

The highlight of the engineers' social calendar is the annual "St. Pat's ball". It was held March 15 in the Old Gymnasium, with elaborate decorations in green and white—engineering colors. At this writing, the engineers' queen for the reign of March 1947 to March 1948 had not been elected, but from years past, experience tells us that the contest will be a warm one with interest at the highest peak of the year. Whoever she may be, the queen will reign for the coming year, in all regal splendor, over 1200 engineers, in one of the most coveted positions to be had on the entire campus. Her coronation will take place at the annual St. Pat's dance, an affair that is looked forward to with great anticipation by all engineers, and constitutes their social highlight of the year.

The Engineering society is in charge and sponsors the Engineering society club room, which is located on the third floor of the new Engineering building. This room is set aside for relaxation, study and a general get-together of students during the day, their off-hours and between classes.

Officers for the society this year have been Walter Florence as president; Ludwig Isenberg as vice-president; Sherwood Anderson, secretary, and Maxine Carpenter, treasurer. Various students have acted as publicity chairmen for the society. Dr. Clark A. Dunn was our faculty advisor.

FIREMEN'S CLUB

EVERETT HUDIBURG, Chief

The Firemen's club was organized in the fall of 1939 by the late Chief J. Ray Pence to stimulate social fellowship, to promote the principles and practices of improved fire prevention and fire protection, and to instill in its members leadership in advancement of fire fighting methods. Members of this club receive technical instruction from the weekly drills and illustrated lectures conducted by the officers of the Stillwater Municipal fire department, and acquire practical experience working in actual emergencies.

Members are also privileged to attend the annual short course in first aid and life saving, presented by the United States bureau of mines, which is taught by the able J. B. Hynal. This course, which covers many phases of life saving and types of emergencies, is unbounded in its practical application.

These members reside in three station houses, first of which is the number one municipal station at East Ninth and Lewis streets. This building until 1938 housed the complete municipal fire department; it is now aged but comfortable.

Second is the attractive three-story structure at the corner of College avenue and Knoblock street, which was inhabited in the fall of 1938 and now serves as headquarters for the municipal department. This station, which was constructed by Oklahoma A. and M. College in conjunction with the city of Stillwater through the Works Project administration, is one of the finest stations in the state. Last, also least in size, is the Veterans Village fire station, the most recent addition to the Firemen's club residences.

FIREMEN'S CLUB

Life in these stations is never dull, and the instant response to a fire alarm is a sight to behold. Humorous situations are constantly arising, such as the woman who at 3 o'clock one morning turned in an emergency alarm and asked for the resuscitator (used in drowning cases) for her dog.

The Firemen's club, like many other campus organizations, has been greatly strengthened this year by the return of servicemen, many of whom have previous experience in this and other fire departments.

With the return of these men, the Firemen's Technical Training school has been reactivated under the supervision of R. G. Douglas, who taught the course prior to its abandonment during the war. The course was inaugurated in the fall of 1936, and has had a steadily increasing enrollment, with men coming from as widely separated areas as Philadelphia, Penn., and Los Angeles, California, to study this curriculum.

This course, as it was established, requires a two-year period for completion, but plans are now in progress for a full four-year course in the Division of Engineering, which would upon completion grant a degree in fire protection engineering. The "fields of the future" open for these men are limitless,

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

BETTY FAYE BARNES, President

Home Economics club is so much fun we wish every girl on the campus were eligible to belong. However, the tradition established by the nine founders here at A. and M. in 1910 is that only those regularly enrolled in the Division of Home Economics may become members.

This year of 1946-47 our 225 members have enjoyed a theme which is dear to every girl's heart—"The Hope Chest". Bimonthly meetings featured many specialists in countless valuable plans and ideas. The aims of the club are many: to serve as a bond to hold girls together while in school; to provide a broader view of the field of home economics; to participate in improvement in personal, home, and campus living, and to stimulate activities for achievement, cooperation and fellowship among the members. The ultimate purpose of the club is to perpetuate the idea of home as a girl's natural environment and to develop dignity and respect toward all of life's work.

Row 2: Leevera Pepin, Juanita Floyd, Louise Parsons, Patsy Mitchell, Mary Wylie, Ester Winterfeldt, Azalene Beasley, Donna Rising, Mary E. Leidigh, Bernice Friend.

Annual activities observed this year include: the sack supper, our freshman mixer; the Ellen H. Richards initiation banquet, honoring new members; the spring style show, in which members were models, coordinators, commentators and directors; the senior breakfast and the Home Economics day picnic.

New activities inaugurated this year were: the pie supper and barn dance, a joint affair held with the Aggie club; the formal sweetheart dance, and the Home Economics Career's day, which brought to the campus outstanding leaders in the field of home economics in America. Members took special pride in sending textbooks, colored food pictures and household hints to Captain Rachel Johnstone, former student and staff member, for use in helping rehabilitate the Japanese in Tokyo. Contributions were made to the "World Wide Christmas Festival" and the "Save the Children Federation".

The activities of the Home Economics club functioned with an executive committee of 13 committee chairmen and were directed by Betty Faye Barnes, president; Ebba Jensen, vice-president; Mary Wiley, secretary; Bernice Friend, treasurer; Miss Leevera Pepin, sponsor, and Miss Mary Leidigh, assistant sponsor.

KAPPA DELTA PI

Kappa Delta Pi, an honor society in education, was first incorporated as an honorary education fraternity at the University of Illinois, on June 8, 1911. There are, at present, 150 chapters in the colleges and universities of the United States, with a membership of nearly 50,000 men and women.

The purpose of Kappa Delta Pi is to promote high intellectual and scholastic standards in the field of teacher education, and to recognize outstanding contributions to education. It endeavors to maintain a high degree of professional growth by honoring achievement in educational work. It numbers among its membership the outstanding men and women in the teaching profession in the United States.

Kappa Delta Pi standards are high. Not only must a student have a high scholastic ranking, but he must possess high qualities of character, personality and leadership. To be eligible, students must have completed or have in the process of completion, at least 12 semester hours of professional courses in education; and they must plan to engage in the profession of teaching.

Lambda chapter of Kappa Delta Pi was established at Oklahoma A. and M. College on April 16, 1921. It elects its membership from the junior, senior, and graduate classes at Oklahoma A. and M. College who rank in the highest 25 per cent in scholarship.

Frequent meetings of the society serve to bind its members more closely in fellowship and to give them opportunities for mutual help and inspiration. A committee arranges monthly programs dealing with teacher training problems and the broader aspects of the teaching profession.

Officers for the present year are: president, Professor S. L. Reed; vice-president, Marcelyn Matthews; secretary, Mrs. Guy A. Lackey; treasurer, Professor Clarence M. Pruitt; historian-reporter, Miss Ilse Wolf; counsellor, Professor M. R. Chauncey.

Local membership of Kappa Delta Pi is composed of both students and faculty personages.

KEITH McPHEETERS, President

Kappa Kappa Psi, the only national honorary fraternity for college bandsmen in the United States, was founded on the Oklahoma A. and M. campus in 1919 by William A. Scroggs. Since that founding 28 years ago, the fraternity has grown to over 45 active chapters located in most of the 48 states.

The purpose of the organization is to promote more brotherhood among college bandsmen and to give recognition to outstanding bandsmen, both in college and in the professional field. For this purpose, the Alpha chapter presents each spring an award to the outstanding freshman band student in the A. and M. band.

Many famous band directors are honorary members of Alpha chapter, including John Philip Sousa, who was initiated shortly after the chapter was formed.

It is also the aim of the fraternity to provide a program for its members, so that they will be better prepared musically, whether their special work is music or not.

Alpha chapter also claims three national executives of the fraternity. Dr. Boh Makovsky, one of the founders, is a member of the grand council. Professor Max Mitchell, head of the A. and M. music department, is grand second vice-president and A. Frank Martin is executive secretary. The national shrine is located on the Aggie campus in Crutchfield hall, where the first meeting was held in 1919.

The Alpha chapter's activities were many throughout the 1946-47 school year, and ranged from sponsoring a dance in the Old Gym early during the first semester to serving coffee and doughnuts to the Oklahoma university band at the annual Aggie-Sooner game.

The chapter was host to the national convention, held on the A. and M. campus, March 6, 7, and 8, featuring the first all-collegiate band ever organized in the United States.

Officers of Kappa Kappa Psi are: president, Keith McPheeters; vice-president, Don Reynolds; secretary, Jim Critchfield; treasurer, Gene Allen.

The A. and M. college band holds a high school band clinic in December each year at which time the Kappa Psi members aid greatly in the entertainment of the visitors.

KAPPA TAU PI

Kappa Tau Pi is a national honorary religious fraternity composed of college religious leaders, from all churches, who have made 24 grade points each semester. The fraternity feels that scholarship and leadership are usually found in the same person, although not always. The fraternity feels that by uniting the leaders of the campus in a bond of friendship and brotherhood, it can accomplish those aims which it has set out to reach and for which it continually strives. These purposes for which the fraternity was founded are: (I) to promote cooperation between Christian institutions, (2) to promote Christian ideals and activity on the campus, and (3) to place a mark of honor upon the leaders of the different campus groups.

Of course, these aims have not fully materialized, but it is remarkable as to the amount of progress that has been made.

To become friends, there must be something in common if nothing more than the weather. Kappa Tau Pi with its unbiased stand on religion furnished this common ground by offering an organization where these leaders of the various church groups can work side by side. This not only creates Christian friendship, but results in an exchange of ideas which is very helpful.

Each Sunday morning at 8:30, Kappa Tau Pi met under the leadership of President Jim Johnson. Vice-president for the fraternity was Joe Owens, secretary-treasurer was Paul Stewart, and Earl Stratton was bailiff. Faculty advisor for the 1946-47 school year was Dr. Ray Six.

Kappa Tau Pi was founded at Oklahoma university in the year 1919 by six men deeply interested in correlation of the religious views and problems of varied denominations.

This religious organization has aided in sponsoring numerous activities on the campus, including participation in the college Vesper services on Sunday afternoon.

Sister organization for Kappa Tau Pi is Pi Zeta Kappa, an interdenominational religious sorority.

KAPPA PHI

VELDA BLACKLEDGE, President

Kappa Phi is a national organization for Methodist college girls. It was founded by Mrs. Gordon B. Thompson at Kansas University in 1916. Theta chapter on the Oklahoma A. and M. campus was installed May 21, 1920.

Kappa Phi was the answer to a challenge. That challenge, too full of portent and significance to be refused, lay before the Methodist church at Lawrence, when 300 young Methodist women gathered on the campus of Kansas State University with a need for emphasis and incentive in the matter of church affiliation. There was a need for comradeship not to end with college days but to continue in deeper and richer relations in the church of tomorrow. It was to meet this local need that Kappa Phi was organized.

the church of tomorrow" is the Kappa Phi aim. Besides providing a religious background, it promotes a wholesome social life and has as its motto, "Others".

Kappa Phi was organized to form a closer association among Methodist women students; to make their work more effective and sufficient; to maintain a more desirable organization; and to provide in a college woman's way, religious training, leadership, and wholesome social life that they may be stronger and more efficient women.

At the national council of chapters held in Northfield, Minnesota, last July, Theta chapter was awarded a silver candlestick holder for being one of five of the most efficient of the thirty chapters in the United States. Theta chapter was given many compliments by the national officers for its efficiency and outstanding achievements.

The theme for this year's work was "We must be the world we want." The program centered around different "We Must Be" topics; such as love, friendly, Christ-like, joyful, the home we want, the church we want, and other such topics which affect the world we want.

Friendship of the most lasting kind is one of the most valuable gifts that Kappa Phi has to offer. "To have a friend you must be one."

The officers for this year include Velda Blackledge, president; Miriam Oliver, vice-president; Rosemary Wright, recording secretary; Betty June Rhodes, corresponding secretary; Essie Ray, treasurer; Annedelle Fincher, historian, and Eloise Imel, chaplain.

Mrs. Edna Lewis was sponsor of the club and Mrs. E. F. Allen, Miss Mary Beth Carter, Mrs. Kenneth Copeland, Mrs. Kenneth Holderman, and Mrs. Hi Staten were patronesses during the year.

To further the achievements of Theta chapter, a Kappa Phi Mothers' club was organized in October of last year. Its purpose is to acquaint the mothers of Kappa Phi girls with the work of the club and to benefit Theta chapter in every way possible.

Outstanding among the many social activities of the year was the annual Kappa Phi Christmas banquet, the largest ever held on the A. and M. campus. The theme of the program was "We Must Be the Spirit"; Kappa Phi colors, blue green and white, were used to beautifully decorate the Methodist church dining room, where the program was presented to three hundred Kappa Phi members, pledges, and their dates.

Other outstanding events include the formal pledging initiation held in January, the meal in the Upper Room, the spring date party, and the big-little sister party.

This year the National officers include Juanita Latimer Robertson, a former Theta chapter president. Juanita also edits the national magazine, "The Candlebeam".

Kappa Phi members are among the most outstanding women on the A. and M. campus. Leaders in their church work, they are also leaders in campus organizations.

KAPPA PI EPSILON

FRANKIE TYSON, President

Kappa Pi Epsilon is the organization of students active in the program of the college department of the First Christian church. It was organized on February 22, 1946. The inauguration banquet and the installation of officers on that date marked the beginning of a program of religious and social activities for students who are members of, or indicate a preference for, the Christian church. Professor George H. White and Professor John Paul Duncan drew up the plans for the organization and prepared the ritual. Kappa Pi Epsilon began with a membership of 59. It now has a total membership of more than 300, and is expanding rapidly.

The first president of Kappa Pi Epsilon was Margie Stauffer. Frank Tyson succeeded her and held office until February 1, 1947. The present president is Allie Hixson.

The purpose of Kappa Pi Epsilon is to promote the optimum in Professor White is the teacher. On Sunday evenings from 6 to 7:30, members meet for a social hour followed by a varied program of discussion and music. The Kappa Pi Epsilon workshop is operated on Monday evenings. This is a meeting at which the various activities of the organization are integrated and the chairmen of committees make their reports.

The social activities of the group include a party every other week, and special entertainments at the beginning of each semester. There is also a banquet honoring new members at the end of the spring semester.

Kappa Pi Epsilon was represented at the December conference at Merom Institute in Indiana, where a national organization of college departments in the Christian church was effected. The local delegate at that conference was Melvin Northen. In February the Stillwater organization was host to

In December the Kappa Pi Epsilon Hymn was published. This was written by Mary Jean Brown and Professor White. Copies of the Hymn are being distributed to high school groups throughout the state as a means of interesting prospective A. and M. students.

Kappa Pi Epsilon is sending two delegates to a summer camp in Michigan, sponsored by the Danforth foundation. Delegates who will attend in the summer of 1947 are Cedric Smith and Glenna McElwain. Miss Ardyth Arbuckle of the department of home life has been active in promoting interest in this project. Another activity inaugurated during 1946-47 is the publication of the Kappa Pi Epsilon Quarterly. This periodical contains articles on religious and educational topics, records of the

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

FLINT BERLIN, President

After a war-time absence of six years, the Men's Glee club, under the direction of Professor L. N. Perkins, has been reactivated and is back on the A. and M. campus. This all-male singing group was discontinued in 1940 because of the shortage of manpower due to the war.

Last fall, Professor Perkins of the music department decided to reactivate the organization. Accordingly, the call was sent out for men who wished to sing in the group. Thirty-four boys were finally selected and rehearsals began in September. The Glee club planned to expand to forty members during the fall and in the spring semester.

The club's first appearance of the year came on December 12, when it appeared on a program with the Mixed Choral club at the state band clinic meeting on the A. and M. campus. The club sang "All Glory Laud and Honor", and various other songs on this program.

Other selections which were worked on during the year included

Donkey Serenade, The Lost Chord, Hallelujah, Amen, Sweet and Low, Battle Hymn of the Republic, and Sweethearts. The Glee club also sang at a concert in the spring.

Members of the club elected officers at the beginning of the year. Officers chosen were Flint Berlin, president; Max Godfrey, vice-president; George Bourns, secretary, and John Kline, librarian. Clover Rae Switzer, the only girl in the organization, is the accompanist.

In previous years, one member of the Glee club was annually selected to receive an award key for outstanding work. However, at the start of this year, members voted, at the suggestion of Professor Perkins, to award keys to all boys who remained in the Glee club during the entire first year, to commemorate the club's reactivation on the campus.

Activities for the Men's Glee club began in the fall of 1935, and despite its inactivity during the war years, the organization will continue to progress and foster its aim of a better feeling for glee club music.

MORTAR BOARD

With the impetus of a successful national convention held in the summer, Achafoa of Mortar Board swung into a full year of projects and activities carrying out its ideals of scholarship, leadership and service.

Membership in Mortar Board is the highest status attainable to a senior woman on any campus and one of the highlights of each spring semester is "tapping", when outgoing Mortar Boards awaken junior class girls with the greeting, "Mortar Board welcomes you."

The A. and M. chapter was first established as Achafoa in 1930. A dream of 10 years was realized, on November 16, 1940, when national Mortar Board granted Achafoa membership in the highest ranking women's honor group.

Honoring high scholarship in freshman and sophomore classes, Mortar Board sponsors Orange Quill and Orange and Black Quill. In the fall, a "Newsletter" is sent to each alumna telling about new things on the campus and introducing each new Mortar Board. In this news sheet is included an invitation to the annual homecoming breakfast for alumnae.

Mortar Board is currently supporting the War Memorial Chapel fund drive and has set aside a fund for a pulpit stand or stained glass window for the chapel.

Among its other activities Mortar Board counts the making and selling of vegetable corsages for the Sadie Hawkins dance, supervision of the AWS spring elections and is in charge of the program for the annual AWS spring tea.

This year's officers are Mary Wilbanks, president; Jean Marie Kerns, vice-president; Pauline Poteet, recording secretary; Pat Arnold White, corresponding secretary, and Ebba Jensen, treasurer.

Dean Julia Stout, Miss Bell Allen, and Miss Valerie Colvin were faculty advisors and Mrs. H. G. Thuesen was alumna advisor.

In addition to its other activities, Mortar Board sponsors leadership training schools, and study halls, as well as a personal honor recognition program.

NEWMAN CLUB

PETE CARTER, President

The Newman club, a national organization of Catholic college students, was founded on the Oklahoma A. and M. campus on March 17, 1932. All Catholic students and all Catholic preference students are eligible for membership.

The purpose of this group is to encourage cooperative religious activities of Catholic college students and to promote group social life among its members.

The Catholic club movement in state colleges and universities, of which the National Newman club is a part, has completed the first half century of its existence.

In October of 1893 the first national organization was founded, and named after John Henry Newman, the great English cardinal whose death had occurred three years previously.

The name chosen for this Catholic club was an appropriate one as Row I: Janice Tilley, Joan Kelley, Barbara Schott, Gladys Foris, Pete Carter, Martha Nickles, Betty Brady, Johnnie Chantiles, Dorothy Arndt.

Cardinal Newman was among the first to see the necessity of high spiritual ideals for university students.

Once a month the young people of this club receive communion as a group, and then attend a breakfast and business meeting in the Parish hall. A guest speaker is invited from the campus or from out-of-town to speak at the breakfast-meetings.

At least one social activity is scheduled by the group each month and social hours are held each Sunday evening in the Parish hall. This year hayrides, picnics and informal dances comprised the main events on the club social calendar.

This year the local chapter became affiliated with the South Central States Province of Newman clubs, an organization of all Newman clubs in Oklahoma, Texas, and Arkansas. Although this province is the youngest of the national provinces, such interest has been attained that the national convention has been scheduled for this province in 1947.

Officers of the Newman club are elected at the first January meeting and hold office for a calendar year. Pete Carter served capably as president during 1946.

OKLAHOMA STATE ENGINEER

The "Oklahoma State Engineer" is the official publication of the Division of Engineering of the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College. It is published quarterly in the months of October, December, March and May by a student staff under the supervision of a faculty board. The first issue of the magazine was published in December, 1935, and was a pioneer in Öklahoma in its field. Until March, 1941, it was the only college engineering publication in the state.

The magazine is financed by its share of the 50-cent engineering activities fee and by income from advertising sources. The engineering activities fee was adopted in March, 1940, primarily to insure proper financing of the magazine.

In October, 1939, the ''Oklahoma State Engineer'' was adopted by the Oklahoma chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers as its official publication.

This step added much to its national prestige and also was profitable financially.

The circulation this past year was approximately 2500, including all the students in the Division of Engineering and about 1000 registered professional engineers in the state of Oklahoma and several out of state.

Norton E. Fincher, Jack M. Bishop, Olin V. Holmes, Jr., Jack E. Bobek, Eugene Bailey, Richard J. Bennett, George B. Tims, Jr., A. Robert Sherman, Damon C. Ralph, Stanley K. Sheinbaum.

Editor for the past year's publication was Richard Bennett. George Tims was business manager. Associate editors were Eugene Bailey, Jack Bobeck, Norton Fincher, Olin Holmes, Louis Patterson, Stanley Sheinbaum, Damon Ralph, Jack St. Clair, Robert Sherman, and Paul Stewart.

The faculty advisory board was composed of Professor C. F. Cameron, chairman; Professors J. E. Lothers, M. R. Lohmann, and J. R. Norton.

Reprints from the ''Oklahoma State Engineer'' have appeared in the official publication of the Sigma Tau fraternity, trade magazines of General Electric and other firms, and varied other publications.

The "Oklahoma State Engineer" is associated with the Engineering College Magazine association.

OMICRON NU

BERNICE FRIEND, President

Although Omicron Nu was founded nationally in 1912, it was not until February in 1920 that Xi chapter was installed on the Oklahoma A. and M. campus.

The purpose of the organization is to recognize and promote scholarship, leadership, and research in the field of home economics. Qualifications for membership require that the student must be a junior or senior in the School of Home Economics. Membership is chosen on the basis of scholarship and leadership from the upper one-fourth of the senior class and the upper one-fifth of the junior class.

The literal meaning of Omicron Nu in Greek is to manage a house. Omicron is the first letter of the Greek word "Oikon", meaning a house, and Nu is the first letter of the Greek word "Nemein", meaning to manage. Thus the name of Omicron Nu is significant of a home economics organization. The official badge of the society is a key made of the two Row 2: Wilma Holloman, Margaret Bieberdorf, Joan Wood Jones, Margaret Bennett, Miriam Oliver.

Greek letters, Omicron and Nu, signifying membership in an organization maintaining honor standards.

The organization's most outstanding activities of this year have been fall and spring initiations, a silver exhibit and survey for senior students, and a scholarship award for the most outstanding freshman girl. The group has also been active in group discussions, panels and parties.

Mrs. Victor Cooper, instructor in household arts, is the organization's sponsor. Active members are: Bernice Friend, Mary K. Smith, Nellie Manning, Betty Sue Bruce, Ebba Jensen, Margaret Bieberdorf, Helen White, Miriam Oliver, Joan Wood Jones, Margaret Bennett, Catherine Littell, Wynona Harrison, Mary Jean Pope, Wilma Holloman, Inez Patton and Betty Faye Barnes.

Among the membership here on the A. and M. campus are many of the home economics faculty women who were active members of Omicron Nu at this college or at other colleges over the United States

Women who are members of Omicron Nu are found to be outstanding leaders over the entire campus.

OPERA CLUB

The Opera club is a club composed of students and alumni of A. and M. who sing and are interested in presenting an opera or an operata at least once during the school year.

Their objectives are to further the opera on the Oklahoma A. and M. campus, and to give those students who have the ability an opportunity to display their talents before the Stillwater public and the student body.

The Opera club was reorganized November 19, 1946, after many years of inactivity before and during the war. It was thought almost impossible to revive until L. N. Perkins assumed the responsibility of general director of the Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera, the "Mikado".

When the announcement of the tryouts for the "Mikado" opera was made, over 80 people came. Gradually, after rehearsals and many tryouts were held, the group was narrowed to 54 students. These 54 students automatically became the founders of the reorganized Opera club.

The performance of the "Mikado" was given November 14 and 15 in the college auditorium to a packed house. It was one of the most outstanding student presentations ever to be given at A. and M. It was a dish of excellent music, fine acting and good scenery, stirred in delicious dashes of comedy for spice, and students and faculty alike ate it up.

Those who know good music understood the hours of rehearsals necessary to present the two-hour opera, as many people were convinced from the start that the "Mikado" could never be prepared in the short time allotted before the opening night. However, it showed an unusual display of talent, not only in singing, but in acting. Under the able direction of Frank Hladky, picked members of the college symphony orchestra performed an outstanding job of accompanying the singers. Hladky deserves perhaps more credit than anyone else for his conducting of the orchestra and chorus, and cueing the soloists.

PHI CHI DELTA

CLARA ANN BARTLETT, President

Since its birth on the Oklahoma A. and M. campus in the fall of 1944, the local chapter of Phi Chi Delta, national Presbyterian sorority, has been active in religious and philanthropic activities.

The purpose of Phi Chi Delta, which is actively carried out by its 60 members, is to promote fellowship and growth in its membership among college women.

Starting the year with an invitation tea, Phi Chi Delta pinned the green and gold pledge ribbons of the sorority on 30 girls in October and on February 18, initiation was held at the annual rose dinner.

A mission party was the highlight of the Phi Chi Delta year. Members and pledges prepared Christmas gifts and a play program for approximately 40 children at the Stillwater Mission. Another important function of the year was the sending of deputations to nearby communities.

With the close of the year came our most impressive occasions as we held installation of officers, senior dedication and communion in the church sanctuary in cooperation with the deacons and pastors.

Phi Chi Delta officers for 1946-47 are: Clara Ann Barlett, president; Joyce Ann Swim, vice-president; Nellie June Manning, recording secretary; Louise Parsons, corresponding secretary; Bonnie Wolf, treasurer; Catherine Elliott, guide, and Wandalee Hinkle, reporter.

Sponsors for the Phi Chi Delta group are Mrs. L. H. Shonfelt and Mrs. Harold Marr.

As well as study of religious themes and work in that line, Phi Chi Delta members were active in community projects.

The Phi Chi Delta pin is trapezoid-shaped set in pearls and emeralds. On a black enamel background is the Maltese cross and the Greek letters of the sorority. The colors are green and gold and the flower is the yellow rose.

PHI ETA SIGMA

Phi Eta Sigma is a freshman men's honor society. The first chapter was established in 1923 by Dean Thomas Arkle Clark of the University of Illinois to encourage and reward high scholastic attainment among men members of the freshman class. Initiation into Phi Eta Sigma requires an average grade point of 3.5 or above in all subjects taken for the first semester or year in college.

At the present time there are 50 chapters located in the leading colleges and universities throughout the United States. Phi Eta Sigma is a member of the Association of College Honor Societies.

The Oklahoma A. and M. chapter of Phi Eta Sigma was established on the campus on February 19, 1931. Dean C. H. McElroy was a charter member and is, at present, the faculty advisor. The other officers for the school year 1946-47 are: president, William B. Belknap; vice-president, Marion T. Bryant; secretary, Sherwood Anderson; treasurer, Jimmie Bob Jones, historian, Frank Cross, and senior advisor, Walter Florence.

During the past school year Phi Eta Sigma organized and sponsored the operation of a tutoring system for the entire student body of Oklahoma A. and M. College. This service is operated by students for students and has been a very great success.

Another activity of Phi Eta Sigma is the distribution of the pamphlet, "Hints on How to Study," given to all freshmen during registration. Many freshmen have remarked to members of Phi Eta Sigma that this pamphlet has been of great help to them in making the necessary adjustments to college life.

To promote the high ideals of good scholarship among freshmen who are for the first time entering college, and to insure the maintaining of a high scholarship in all subjects during the course of their entire college work is the purpose of the organization Phi Eta Sigma.

During the past year approximately 50 men have been initiated into the Oklahoma A. and M. chapter. Phi Eta Sigma is undoubtedly filling a vital place in the American college system. BILL BELKNAP, President

PI EPSILON ALPHA

DONIS PARK, President

Pi Epsilon Alpha, interdenominational religious sorority, was founded on the Oklahoma A. and M. campus in 1925 by a group of young college women from the South Methodist church who felt the need of a close Christian fellowship. At the national convention in 1940, Pi Epsilon Alpha was made interdenominational.

The four-fold purpose of the sorority is to foster Christian fellowship among the girls, to train for Biblical research, to establish a more Christian atmosphere among girls and to train leaders in Christian work. The ideals of the sorority are expressed by three virtues—faith, hope, and love. The development of these virtues in the members is considered one of the chief aims of Pi Epsilon Alpha.

The program theme for the year centered upon Christian attributes. Individual members of the sorority presented various studies upon this theme while outside speakers presented programs of book reviews, eti-

Some highlights of the social activities of the year included the Halloween party given by the pledges, the Christmas party, the traditional Dixie banquet and the spring retreat at the Melton cabin at Yost lake. In addition to the social activities the members and alumnae contribute to a traditional Christmas gift fund for orphans.

Officers for the past year included Donis Park, president; Ebba Jensen, first vice-president; Mary Ellen Faulk, second vice-president; Jane Rundle, recording secretary; La Wanda Dotson, corresponding secretary, and Mildred Garrett, treasurer.

Members and alumnae of Pi Epsilon Alpha are deeply indebted to the efforts and inspiration of the sorority mother, Mrs. C. A. Melton, who has been instrumental in continuing these bonds of friendship through the years.

PI GAMMA MU

The purpose of Pi Gamma Mu is to recognize and foster scholarship and interest in the social sciences. The term "social science" is used in its widest sense, and students in the fields of anthropology, agricultural economics, geography, journalism, history, philosophy, political science, statistics, psychology, public affairs, and sociology usually will have enough social science to be eligible for membership in Pi Gamma Mu.

The minimum qualifications for membership in the case of undergraduates and graduate students are: junior standing or above; completion of 20 hours of social science; continued interest in the field; a grade average of at least B in the social sciences and not less than 2.75 in all subjects.

Social science faculty members or distinguished-service candidates may become members upon recommendation by members of the organization.

The Oklahoma Gamma chapter of Pi Gamma Mu was organized on the campus in 1929 and has, at present, a local membership of 89.

It is the policy of Pi Gamma Mu to bring to the campus leaders in the various fields of social science in order that the members may have an opportunity to broaden their knowledge of the field.

Dinner meetings are held once a semester, at which time new members are welcomed to the group, and initiation is held. Special speakers are invited to meet with the group, and to discuss current and outstanding events that are related to one of the many social sciences.

The candidates are submitted for membership twice yearly, and officers are elected from both the graduate and undergraduate students.

At the meetings, in which special speakers sometimes participate, Pi Gamma Mu has panel discussions, and discuss those things which are pertinent to the social sciences.

PI ZETA KAPPA

MARY JEAN BROWN, President

Pi Zeta Kappa, national interdenominational religious sorority, was founded on the campus of the University of Oklahoma. The workings of the group were begun on the A. and M. campus in 1920.

Now in its 26th year of activity on the Oklahoma A. and M. College campus, Pi Zeta Kappa has always cooperated with its brother fraternity, Kappa Tau Pi, an interdenominational religious fraternity for men on the Oklahoma A. and M. campus, in working for the well-being of not only themselves, but for all of the students with whom they come in contact.

Members in Pi Zeta Kappa are selected on the basis of their leadership in church activities, personal integrity and scholarship. A girl must attain a certain grade average and be active in some religious work before she is considered for membership. The character and personality of a girl are also considered before she is admitted to the sorority.

Kappa cross of rubies emblazoned on a black heart-shaped background. These young women meet weekly for closer fellowship with each other and the Master. They join in social activities and carry out social service projects throughout the year.

Three women who are vitally interested in Pi Zeta Kappa and who, whenever called upon, can give of their time for the benefit of the girls and organization, are chosen as patronesses for the sorority.

The sorority is growing rapidly throughout the nation and will continue to do so because of its wide range of membership.

Officers for the past year were: Mary Jean Brown, president; Bonnie Nicholson, vice-president; Jo Ann Mullendore, pledge mistress; Catherine Moffitt, treasurer; Margaret Ann Reiff, corresponding secretary; Mary Martin, recording secretary, and Mary Lee Moore, reporter.

Pi Zeta Kappa and Kappa Tau Pi have carried on social service projects throughout the year on the Oklahoma A. and M. campus and have endeavored to bring about a deeper understanding of the true Christian spirit in campus living.

"The wheels of progress turn," and once again in the spring of 1946, 10 pledges donned green shirts and white ties. They carried, in miniature, an emblem of progress, a wheel overlaid with the carnot cycle. This symbolizes man's first engineering feat, the invention of the wheel, and a Frenchman's theory of perfect expansion of gases, a process known by his name, the Carnot Cycle.

These men of the mechanical engineering department were chosen from the upper one-third of the senior class and upper one-fourth of the junior class. They excelled in the qualities of engineering ability, leadership, trustworthiness, industry, dependability and personality.

Pi Tau Sigma has been an active force on the campus from the time it was installed at Oklahoma A. and M. College as the Lambda chapter in the spring of 1931 until May, 1944, when it was forced to become inactive as a result of the war's insatiable demand for engineers.

In the fall of 1946, 25 pledges—a record number at Oklahoma A. and M.—reminded the underclassmen that everyone carrying an oil can, an eight-foot piece of pipe, and a wrench is not always on his way to repair a faulty engine or a leaky steamline. Pledge week brought plenty of laughs and before

The 1946 officers are Professor E. C. Baker, head of mechanical engineering department, faculty advisor; J. F. Boutwell, president; G. S. Winchell, vice-president; G. J. Hanggi, secretary-treasurer; Truman L. Franklin, corresponding secretary, and Mark L. Newmaster, guide. In addition to these officials, there are faculty members who are honorary members of the fraternity and who have, with the officers and members, maintained a policy of encouraging scholastic achievement among the underclassmen, offering each year a log-log slide rule or Marks' handbook to the highest ranking sophomore in mechanical engineering. One of the duties of the president is to place in the hands of each freshman a letter describing briefly the history and activity of the honor society.

CAPTAIN BOB CLINE

The R. O. T. C. rifle team of Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College is the defending National Intercollegiate champion of 1946. Several of last year's team members are back in school this year to help repeat last year's winnings, which included first place in the National Intercollegiate match, first place in the Eighth service command intercollegiate match, and second place in the Hearst national R. O. T. C. trophy.

The winnings to date are 18 matches with the leading universities and colleges throughout the United States without a defeat, which included first place in the 1947 Hearst national R. O. T. C. trophy—the first time since 1936 that Oklahoma A. and M. has won this coveted trophy.

VARSITY RIFLE TEAM

The Varsity rifle team was organized on the campus in the fall of 1946, the first time in the history of the school that such a team has been formed. Mahlon Robertson from Tulsa, Oklahoma, was elected student manager and secretary-treasurer. Leslie Stephenson of White Hall, Illinois, was selected team captain of this team.

The team is composed of former Oklahoma A. and M. R.O.T.C. rifle team members, service team members, and members of teams from other colleges and universities that are now enrolled here.

The varsity team, like the R. O. T. C. team, and the women's team, is affiliated with the National Rifle association. It is under the direction of Major K. C. Emerson, faculty advisor, and coached by 1st Sergeant Jack Hull. To date, this team has won 17 matches against leading universities and colleges throughout the United States with no losses. There will be eight members of this team in the National Intercollegiate rifle match.

CAPTAIN BILL HINKLE

WOMEN'S RIFLE TEAM

Due to the outstanding success and popularity of the men's rifle team, the Women's rifle team was organized this year. It has proven to be one of the most popular sports on the campus, and is composed of approximately 150 women receiving instruction in rifle marksmanship under the supervision of Major K. C. Emerson, manager, and 1st Sergeant Jack Hull, coach.

To date, this team has not lost a match, having beaten such outstanding girls' teams as Drexel Institute, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and George Washington university, Washington, D. C. The matches for these girls are scheduled with the leading universities and outstanding women's colleges throughout the country.

These girls also show a very decided promise of placing in the Girls' National Intercollegiate championship matches which will be fired in the early spring of 1947 under the direction of the National Intercollegiate Rifle association.

The Women's Rifle club team manager is Marcia Prue of Pawhuska, Oklahoma. The team captain is Sallie Fowler of Bartlesville, Oklahoma, and the student secretary-treasurer is Venita Hensley of Mooreland, Oklahoma.

Row 5: Lindsey, Ogden, Miller, Stewart, Kimberling, Hensley, Smith.

Colleen Moore, RoJean Travis, Sallie Fowler, Marcia Prue, Norma L. Strayer, Venita Hensley, and Betty Emerson have made perfect scores of 100 points out of a possible 100 points, which is unusual in women's competitive matches, especially for a team which has just begun.

This club, the brainchild of Major Emerson and Sergeant Hull, if it is as successful as expected, will be continued next year, with a hoped for increase in membership, and an eye toward bigger and better things.

SONNY ROBERTSON ORCHESTRA

September, 1946, found Aggieland musical circles back up to par after a war-time slump, and what a par it was! For the first time in A. and M. history three topflight bands were on hand to launch the ''open season on dancers.''

Although all the bands on the campus were new, the group headed by Sonny Robertson was the youngest, having been organized only about a month before school started.

The pint-sized vocalist and part-time drummer first received the band leading "bug" while playing with Marvin Whisman's orchestra at a Missouri resort. Combining his summer's savings and a knack for organization, Robertson bought out the Whisman group and used it as a basis for his band.

Whisman stayed on as musical director and several of the fellows in his previous band were also included in the new one. The U. S. navy released Dick Walker just in time for him to occupy the drummer's throne for Sonny, and Jim Anderson also got off a boat ready to take over the lead sax slot. Bill Burkett joined the band in Stillwater with his tenor sax to round out the section to its full five. Bob McCullough and Don Rubrecht came over from Oklahoma City to join the Robertson brass section and Tommy Coble took over the second trumpet chair. Sharon Oliver capably handled the vocals.

Saxophones:

Keith McPheeters, Junior Weaver, Jim Bill Anderson, Gil Schneider, Bill Burkett.

Trombones:

Bob McCullough, Gene Allen.

Trumpets: Don Rubrecht, Bob Fox, Tommy Cobel.

Rhythm: Marvin Whisman, Don Reynolds, Dick Walker.

Vocalist: Sharon Oliver.

Sonny Robertson and his orchestra were featured at many of the campus dances during the school year and at several of the well-known dance spots over the state.

At the beginning of the second semester, Sonny sold his band to Marvin Whisman, former pianist and arranger for the orchestra. The personnel remained unchanged except for the addition of two rhythm men, bass and guitar. This brought the complement of the orchestra to 16 pieces.

Whisman first banded with Earl Maples orchestra during his first year at A. and M. in 1943. During 1944-45 he played with the Varsitonians.

Whisman joined the Robertson orchestra this fall, and has arranged a large part of the band's music since then.

SACK 'N CHOW

I. HOWARD BROWN, President

The fall of 1946 marked the return of what was formerly the Hotel Administration club to the campus. Early in October there was a meeting of former members and other interested persons in the Home Economics building and it was there decided to re-establish the organization under the name of "Sack 'N Chow", Hotel and Restaurant Student Association of Oklahoma A. and M. College. Dr. D. I. Purdy, head of the departments of home economics research, household science and restaurant management as well as that of hotel administration, accepted the position of sponsor.

In the first election of officers to be held, the following posts were filled: president, I. Howard Brown; vice-president, Richard Lycan; secretary-treasurer, G. R. Livesay; assistant secretary, John England. Appointed as social and scholastic chairmen were Dick Powers and Bob Smith.

Standing: Bob Smith, Richard Wallen, Dick Powers.

The aims of the organization were listed as being those of promotion of the hotel administration course here, supplementing the course on the whole and to promote recognition and interest among the hotelmen of the area.

In accomplishing these aims the organization held weekly meetings at which guest speakers from the hotel field were present and established a close liaison with the Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Texas hotel associations and hotel greeters organizations.

Among the more important activities were the promotion of Stillwater as a site for the meeting of the Oklahoma Hotel Greeters association, attendance at various conventions, among these the Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma association convention in Tulsa and the meeting of the ninth region, hotel greeters convention, also held at Tulsa. Representatives of Sack 'N Chow were on the business program at both of these meetings as well as others. Future correspondence and remarks indicate that the mission of promotion of the A. and M. hotel course among the hotelmen of the sector has been well accomplished.

SIGMA ALPHA IOTA

Sigma Alpha lota is a national fraternity for professional and student women musicians. It was founded in 1903 at the University School of Music, Ann Arbor, Michigan, and at the present there are 75 chapters and approximately 13,500 active and alumnae members. Gladys Swarthout, Myra Hess, Lily Pons, Rose Bampton, and Kirsten Flagsted are among the 343 outstanding artists who have become honorary members of the organization.

The fundamental aims of Sigma Alpha lota are to further the development of music in America; to raise the standards of music education in colleges, universities, and schools of music; to lend encouragement and assistance to American composers, teachers of music, and performers; to give moral as well as material aid to its members, and to cooperate in the progressive program of the local chapter and the campus.

Sigma Alpha lota strives to develop in all her members responsibility and leadership. Members of lota Alpha chapter hold responsible positions in many organizations on the campus. Membership is governed by musicianship and constitutional requirements.

SIGMA TAU

MARLEN DAVIS, President

Memories of Sigma Tau to students not in the Division of Engineering bring to mind those "odd looking hats" that the pledges wear during "courtesy week". But to the students in the Division of Engineering, and to the faculty of Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College, those hats are symbolic of the ideals of the fraternity. The Sigma Tau monuments on the campus and the pledges' wooden hats are in the general shape of a pyramid and rail section. The rail section is approximately through the upper one-third of the pyramid.

The pyramid and rail section symbolizes those things that an engineer should strive to attain—stability in his projects and progress in his work.

On February 22, 1904, Sigma Tau was founded at the University of Nebraska. A group of upper classmen in the engineering college held a banquet and announced the organization of a new honor society in engineering. Thus Sigma Tau was formally introduced as the culmination of preparations extending over a period of more than a year.

The stability of the organization is illustrated by the fact that it spread with surprising rapidity to 26 other schools of the nation and has become one of the most progressive of the national honorary fraternities in the field of engineering.

The requirements for membership in Sigma Tau are scholarship, practicality, and sociability. These requirements were chosen on the basis that, aside from good health, the three qualities considered by employers as the most necessary to a successful engineer are first, character; second, judgment, and third, technical training.

Each member of Sigma Tau must rank scholastically in the upper third of the juniors and seniors in the Division of Engineering. Thus membership is practically limited to those engineers who have better than a 2.7 grade point average.

SIGMA TAU

The aims of Sigma Tau are to further engineering education by encouraging the students to greater effort and to promote fellowship among the men training for the engineering profession.

Sigma chapter, which was installed at Oklahoma A. and M. in 1923, has planned its program to follow these aims. In its membership are men who hold important offices in other organizations on the campus and who have not sacrificed scholarship in carrying out official duties.

Included in its activity list, through its members, is the office of secretary of Phi Delta Theta fraternity, secretary-treasurer of the "O" club, vice-president of Kappa Tau Pi, presidency of the Student Senate, presidency of Pi Tau Sigma, several "Who's Who" students, the "Redskin" editorship of 1944 and 1946 editions, editorship of the "Oklahoma State Engineer", the pianist for one of the campus dance bands, secretary-treasurer and vice-presidency of Blue Key leadership fraternity, and positions of importance in other campus activities and organizations.

Officers of Sigma Tau for this past year of 1946-47 are Marlen Davis, president; Roscoe Jones, vice-president; Sam Regier, treasurer; Preston Cook, secretary; Mark Newmaster, historian, and Truman Franklin, corresponding secretary.

Activities of Sigma Tau this past school year have been held within the Division of Engineering. Very active and colorful initiations and pledge weeks were had during the year. In the spring of the year Sigma Tau held several social events for members and their dates.

Many faculty members are honorary or alumni members of Sigma Tau. Professor Melvin R. Lohmann of the industrial engineering department is the faculty advisor.

Sigma Tau has endeavored in the past year, as every year, to bring the faculty and the students closer together and to train the student engineer in the three aspects of scholarship, sociability and practicability so that he may take his place in making the world a better place to live in through the field of engineering. SPUR AND COMB CLUB

ESKEL ESSARY, President

The Spur and Comb club was organized November 30, 1930, by the poultry majors and faculty members of the poultry department under the supervision of Professor R. B. Thompson, head of the department.

Only students majoring or planning to major in poultry husbandry are eligible to join the club. The purpose of the organization is to create an interest in poultry among students in the Division of Agriculture and to carry on such projects as sponsored by the poultry department.

Reactivation of the Spur and Comb club in the fall semester of 1946 followed three years of inactivity due to wartime conditions.

Four types of membership are open to prospective members. They are active, preliminary, pledge and associate.

Various social and scholastic activities are carried out by the club. Each year it sponsors the interscholastic judging contest and the freshman-sophomore poultry judging contest. This year, for the first time, the club sponsored the junior judging contest with teams competing from all Oklahoma agricultural junior colleges.

The club meetings were held the third Monday night of each month. Programs for the meeting consisted of discussions of the poultry industry by prominent out-of-state poultrymen and Oklahoma poultrymen, reports by club members, movies pertaining to the poultry industry, and entertainment.

The club paper is the "Loudspeaker", published every two months and edited by the club reporter. It carries news items from alumni, members, general campus news and special news pertaining to the poultry industry.

Highlights of the year's activity is an annual picnic held each spring at Yost lake. The main item on the menu is barbecued chicken. Alumni and college officials are honored guests.

TAU BETA SIGMA

Tau Beta Sigma, national honorary band sorority for college bandswomen, was founded at Lubbock, Texas, in 1939, and was later transferred to the Oklahoma A. and M. College. An official charter was granted to the Oklahoma A. and M. College Alpha chapter in March, 1946.

Since the charter for Tau Beta Sigma was granted by the state of Oklahoma, the Oklahoma A. and M. organization became the mother chapter, known as Alpha chapter. It assisted in installing the sorority on the following four campuses: Beta chapter at Texas Tech; Gamma, Colorado university; Delta, Oklahoma university; Epsilon, Butler university, Indianapolis, Indiana.

Still other colleges are in the process of organizing their band sororities. The second national convention was held in March, 1947, on the A. and M. campus. Serving as national officers were Frances Martin, national secretary, and Bernice Friend, national treasurer.

Charter members of the Alpha chapter are: Jean Anderson, LaWanda Chastain, Mary Beth Crist, Mary Ellen Faulk, Ruth Franklin, Bernice Friend, Donna Howard, Ebba Jensen, Jean Marcoux, Frances Martin, Donis Park, Mary Belle Reece, Margie Stauffer, and Rosemary Wright. Nine girls pledged during the first semester of this year included Ida Adams, Louise Brooks, Esther Gerard, Betty Groggan, Much of the credit for the successful organization of Tau Beta Sigma, sister organization to Kappa Kappa Psi, is due to the efforts of A. Frank Martin.

Officers of the Alpha chapter are: president, Rosemary Wright; vice-president, Donis Park; secretary, Mary Ellen Faulk; treasurer, Donna Howard, and historian, Jean Marcoux. Faculty advisor for the group is Hiram Henry. Honorary member of the Alpha chapter is Vesta Etchison. Sponsoring director is Max Mitchell and Dr. Bohumil Makovsky is a member of board of trustees.

The growing interest of college women in the field of band music encourages a bright outlook for the future of Tau Beta Sigma in its high purpose.

PAUL STEWART, President

The Student Senate was organized as the legislative branch of the Student association. Its purpose was the development of student government on the campus, and the drawing of the college administration and the student body closer together. In February, 1914, the senate was founded as the representative council with data gathered from other colleges and universities to serve as patterns. The present constitution went into effect in the spring of 1932. Many revisions and amendments have been made to the original constitution.

The student body is well represented in the senate. Delegation to the group is allowed by each school on the campus (excepting Graduate school) and by classes. Each school has one senator; senior class, three; junior class, two; sophomore class, one. The secretary-treasurer of the Student association is secretary-treasurer of the senate and has a vote, while the president of the association and the board of publication mem-

The first official project of the school year was the annual sale of frosh caps. Second big project of the year and one of magnificent undertaking was that of raising the social life of the student body to a higher and more refined plane. The senate sponsored a free dance at the beginning of school, the semi-formal coronation ball honoring the frosh queen, the "AMOU" dance after the A. and M.-O. U. football game, the Sadie Hawkins dance and others were among its social events. All were all-school events.

Other things that were accomplished during the year were the financial aid to the junior-senior prom committee, endorsing the Sunday afternoon Vespers, active endorsement of the dry-cleaning boycott in the fall of the year, donating money for a senior class memorial, interpretation of the constitution in a decision which arose with the board of publications and one of the members of the student body, and many other affairs.

The senate was headed this year by Paul Stewart of Durant; Bennett Basore, Oklahoma City, was secretary-treasurer; and president pro-tem of the senate was Roy Dobbs, who was also senior senator.

STUDENT SENATE

Other senior senators were Jane Boggs and Leigh Sullivan. Erma Lee Denny and Wayne Weaver were junior senators. Sophomore senator was Helen Moore. Gloria Tanner was A. & S. senator; Steve Synar replaced the Aggie senator who failed to return to school. Elizabeth Collier served as commerce senator; George Geyer, engineering; Margaret Bennett, home economics.

Ex-officio members of the senate included president of the student association, Bill Harrison of Ft. Supply, Oklahoma, and the board of publications members, Mary Ellen Kurland, Joe Hodges, LaVerne Stephens and Dorothy Clark.

The senate committees were composed of one senator as clerk and the remainder of the committee members were students interested in student affairs and activities. The committees were: PUB-LICITY: Don Reynolds, chairman; Helen Moore, clerk; Marge Bennett, Tommy Steph, Gene Allen, Shirley Angle. SYMPHONIC CHOIR

IDA MAE ADAMS, President

The Symphonic choir, its music long one of tradition on the A. and M. campus, this year climbed out of its forced wartime handicaps and emerged to present some of the best concerts in the choir's history.

With the return of more men to school, the choir's tenor, baritone and bass sections were once more raised to a prewar level. The unusual number of talented musicians enrolling this year also brought about a problem in limiting the organization's rolls. Professor Paul T. Klingstedt, A. and M.'s voice department head and director of the choir, held tryouts with 80 members making up the final group.

Carrying out the choir's tradition of singing not "just because we like to sing" but "because we like to sing good music", the repertoire included music from all schools of music literature from Palestrina to "The Peasant and His Oxen", modern Russian folk song.

Beginning the year with two appearances at the college vesper services, the choir appeared in its first concert for the annual Christmas program in the College auditorium. The singers traveled to Tulsa March 13, where they appeared in Kendell hall for the Southwest Music Educators' conference. A radio broadcast over station WNAD in Norman March 21 featured the choir in the Parade of Oklahoma Colleges program.

Appearing with the college symphony orchestra March 23, the group heard Stanley Chapple, outstanding British conductor, praise the singing and the choir director. The choir was featured April 22 on a program with Dr. Ralph W. Sockman of New York. Its last scheduled appearance on the campus will be at the spring baccalaureate, where the choir's singing is another of A. and M.'s traditions.

One of the choir's personal traditions is the singing of "Now the Day is Over" following each rehearsal. Meeting at 4 p. m. three times a week in the Prairie Playhouse, members of the choir find it fitting to end the day's work with the singing of their beloved hymn. Many call it the choir's "theme song" and it is not unusual for the choir to close a concert or program with the number.

The director, Professor Klingstedt, has gained national recognition for the writing of his book on

He was soloist in some of the leading churches of New York as well as Chicago and was also a member of the Arthur Dean Operatic quartet in Chicago, which appeared in large movie theaters. He has spent more than 25 years as a singer and teacher of voice.

His concert tours have taken him through most of the states in the union and parts of Canada. He has appeared in over 1000 concerts. He is a post-graduate of the Chicago Musical college and has a master of music degree from the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago.

TAU GAMMA

WANDA MARSHALL, President

Because of the growing demand for an organization for young college women living off the campus, Tau Gamma was organized at Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College, first as Townettes in the fall of 1939. In the spring of 1941, the present organization was formed and the name Tau Gamma was adopted.

Tau Gamma, Beta chapter, is not a national organization. It has only one sister sorority, that being at the University of Iowa. The purposes of Tau Gamma are to give the members a greater opportunity for participation in student government, to create a spirit of fellowship among the college women living "off-campus" and in private homes, and to create leadership among college women.

This year the program of Tau Gamma has consisted of bi-monthly social hours and informative business meetings. Social activities included the Halloween party, the Christmas party, and an informal coffee honoring the presidents of the various organizations on the campus, Dean Stout, and Miss Etchison. Also a Valentine dance and a breakfast honoring all senior members of Tau Gamma.

Tau Gamma has as its motto, "I Would Be True," and it is through following this motto that the organization fulfills its meaning to the members. The theme for this year is friendship.

Presiding over the organization this year are Wanda Marshall, president; Joan Throckmorton, vice-president; Bernadine Seeling, secretary, and Virginia Holliday, treasurer. Mrs. Estelle Hammond, assistant to the dean of women, is sponsor of the group. Through their enthusiastic participation in the activities of the organization, the members have made Tau Gamma one of the outstanding organizations on the campus.

Tau Gamma holds the link between the town and campus women and enables them to participate in all campus activities, through representatives or a group. Representing Tau Gamma in A. W. S. are Bernadine Seeling, Mary White, Joan Throckmorton, and Mary Lee Todd.

WESLEY FOUNDATION

Wesley Foundation is the fellowship of Methodist preference students on the campus of Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College, and correlates all the religious activity of Methodist students on the local campus with other Methodist organizations throughout the Oklahoma conferences and the general church.

Organized at the University of Illinois in 1913, the movement grew rapidly until now it is on the campuses of more than 100 colleges and universities all over the United States. The local chapter of Wesley Foundation at Oklahoma A. and M. was established in 1926.

The foundation strives to meet the spiritual needs of the students by encouraging attendance at the regular Sunday worship services of the local Methodist church, by providing such activities as Saturday night socials in the recreation room of the Methodist church, buffet suppers, Sunday morning discussions, worship services, forums, and meditations. Through these the Christian development and expression of a student's whole character and person is used as its goal.

Highlights of this year have been the freshman reception, the youth night dramatic vespers, the Christmas banquet, the Christmas and spring installation of officers.

Officers for the year were Erma Lee Denny, president; Mary Jane Waldron, vice-president; Dolores Walby, secretary; Eddie Pitcher, treasurer; C. E. Trout, advisor, and Lamar Cooper, director.

This year the Wesley Foundation held a fall retreat, Wesley players' presentation of "Ba-Than," Wesley choir's presentation of Maunder's "A Song of Thanksgiving," Christmas buffet supper, a state youth conference, the installation banquets, and the spring retreat.

THE COLLEGE BANDS

MAX MITCHELL, Director

The Oklahoma A. and M. College bands in 1946-47 were four in number: the Symphonic band, conducted by Max A. Mitchell; the Varsity and R.O.T.C. bands, conducted by Clem Hutchinson; and the Girls' band, conducted by Hiram Henry.

The Symphonic band of 95 pieces played for the annual Oklahoma band clinic, and gave regular semester concerts and an out-door spring concert. The Varsity band augmented the instrumentation of the Symphonic band, giving a 120-piece sideline band for football games. The R.O.T.C. band of 65 pieces functioned for the reviews and parades of the military department. The Girls' band of 75 pieces is the newest band on the campus and was formed during the fall of 1946. It is composed entirely of girls, and plans are being made for uniforms within the next year.

During 1946-47, the band traveled to Oklahoma City and to Tulsa for football games, as well as playing for all the home games. Pep bands and the Girls' band played for athletic events held in the fieldhouse. In November, the Varsity band traveled to Hugo where it participated in a celebration for that southeastern Oklahoma town. On this trip the band played street concerts and parades in Shawnee and Wewoka and stopped in Ada. In January the Symphonic band played for the coronation of Royal Jupiter.

It has been the purpose of the bands to serve the needs of the department of music, other departments on the campus, the administration of the college, and the state of Oklahoma. Such a purpose was instituted by Bohumil Makovsky, noted head of the department of music and director of the Symphonic band from 1915 to 1943. "Boh" occasionally conducts the Symphonic band in the reading of literature and as conductor emeritus on most concerts.

The bands contain two fraternal groups: Alpha chapter of Kappa Kappa Psi, national honorary band fraternity, and Alpha chapter of Tau Beta Sigma, national honorary band sorority for women. They are responsible for sponsoring social events for the bands.

THE COLLEGE BANDS

1946-47 was an outstanding year for the college bands. It was the first real postwar year and offered a contrast to the war years when only 40 to 50 were in the band program. This year, over 200 students were in the bands.

The instrumentation of the Symphonic band during 1946-47 was the best since before the war. In addition to a regular balance of woodwind, brass and percussion, the sarrousaphone, the English horn, the contra bass clarinet and the harp were used. The instrumentation of the R.O.T.C. band was good for its purposes by having several more trombones, cornets and percussion than the usual number. The Girls' band instrumentation was surprisingly well-balanced, considering that 1946-47 was its first year of organization.

The Batoneers, eight girl baton twirlers, added considerable style and color to the parades and halftime activities of the Varsity band. The Girls' band had four baton twirlers. Jimmie Baker was drum major for the Varsity band and Joann Reed for the Girls' band.

The 90-piece all-boys marching band did the best job of any Aggie band as a show band for the halftimes at football games.

Officers for the Symphonic band were: Theodore Horton, president; Jewel Lord, vice-president, and Jim Critchfield, publicity. Officers for the Girls' band were: Mary Esther Gerard, president; Wanda Simmons, vice-president; Joan Hull, secretary; Mary Ellen Faulk, socials, and Patricia Collins, historian.

XI M U

Xi Mu, honorary law fraternity, was founded on the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College campus in 1934 by Roland Reeves. Founder Reeves was killed in action on November 19, 1944.

Membership in Xi Mu is restricted to pre-law students. Since its founding on the campus, associate chapters have been started at Southern Methodist university, Texas Christian university, Washburn university and Oklahoma university.

C. H. McElroy, dean of men, has been made the honorary father of the organization since its beginning. Dr. B. B. Chapman is the sponsor. Among the honorary members of Xi Mu is M. C. Kratz, professor of law.

Activities in Xi Mu include pledging, formal initiation plus the initiation banquet at the beginning of each semester, numerous round table discussions led by prominent Stillwater lawyers and judges, attendance at court trials and the sponsoring of the annual college-wide spring debate which is included in the Student Lyceum series.

VARSITONIANS

Contrary to the fact that one campus band used the Varsitonians name for two years during the war, the first semester of the present school year marked the reappearance of the original Varsitonians on the Oklahoma A. and M. College campus. With several pre-war members to form a nucleus, the Varsitonians orchestra became active again in September to continue its career as the traditional dance band of Aggieland, keeping as its main goal the playing of the kind of dance music that college students want and appreciate.

Organized more than a decade ago as the first cooperative band at A. and M., the Varsitonians orchestra has been a favorite from the beginning. Specializing at first in fraternity and sorority formals, its activities have grown to include pep rallies, walkout dances, student senate dances and other such events that make up college life, as well as playing for statewide dances. The band's Christmas tour this year included Enid, Muskogee, McAlester, Shawnee and Bartlesville.

In keeping with sweet and low, smooth, danceable style of music, the Varsitonians featured new arrangements this year by three members of the band—H. R. Hickey, James Griggs and Coleman Smith—besides some original numbers by Hickey. Other features of the band are its singing saxes, the trombone quartet and the vocal quintet, the Varsitones. The solo vocal spots are ably handled by Patt Cash and Dean Hafner.

Being a cooperative organization, with all the members owning the equipment and music library collectively, as well as sharing the profits, the Varsitonians elected as leader for this year, Don Stewart, trombonist. Former Varsitonians who are back on the job this year are: Jim Blazer, bass; Bob Covert, trombone; Jimmie Reid, drums; Dean Hafner, trumpet; and James Griggs, H. R. Hickey, Bill Larrabee, and Kendall Lindsey, saxophones. New Varsitonians are Dale Barr and Howard Pryor, trumpets; Buddy Lindsey, saxophone; Coleman Smith, piano; Patt Cash, vocalist; and Stewart, trombone.

The Varsitonians, oldest band on the Oklahoma A. and M. campus, was organized in 1934.

Y. M. C. A.

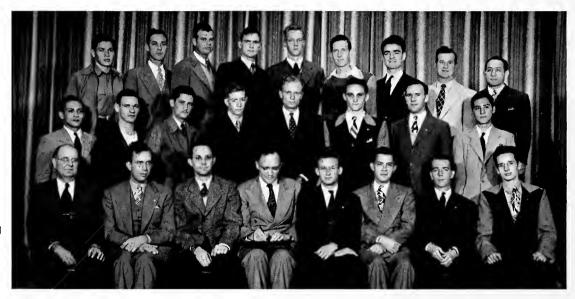

The Young Men's Christian association of the Oklahoma A. and M. College is an organization of young men who are very much interested in the advancement of Christian ideals, in order that the college may be a more religious and character building institution. Young men of all denominations are given an opportunity through the Y. M. C. A. work to receive excellent training as leaders and to establish fellowship among the membership on a Christian level.

The Y. M. C. A. is not a substitute for the activities of the various churches. Its purpose is to aid them by functioning as a campus organization which gives its membership an opportunity to work together as a student body. The purpose of the Y. M. C. A. is broad in its scope and appeals to all parts of a student's life and not to just a special interest. The three-fold purpose of the Y. M. C. A. is Christian living, Christian recreation, and education.

The Y. M. C. A. at Oklahoma A. and M. College has affiliations with the national student movement which is a part of the student Christian federation. As a part of its leadership training program members have an opportunity to attend regional, state, and national conventions, and to work with other student groups throughout the United States.

The affiliations and the program of the local campus organization offer members a chance to learn much of interest to them. The organization is, primarily, an action group rather than a discussion group.

With the return of many veterans to the campus it became necessary that a new constitution be adopted by the local association so as to broaden the activities of the organization and to give a greater field of service to its members. Meetings are held on Monday of each week at the Y. M. C. A. hut. The general meetings are held on the first and third Mondays of each month, alternating with cabinet meetings on the second and fourth Mondays.

The cabinet elective officers for the Y. M. C. A. are: Winston Patton, president; Glenn Brinson, vice-president; Dick Facker, treasurer; Thomas Burtscher, secretary. In addition to the elective members the cabinet members who are appointed to supervise the various activities are: Morris Gray, Bill Hubbard, Kenneth Kramer, Joe Dickey, Earl Stratton, Ralph Matlock, Tom Osborne, M. D. Groom, Jr., Harry Mills, Leonard Phelps, and John Downs.

The Y. M. C. A. maintains a full-time general secretary. This position is held by A. Frank Martin, who devotes his entire time to the advancement of Y. M. C. A. activities. The association is governed by an advisory council selected by the students and approved by the administration. Professor A. A. Arnold is chairman of the advisory council.

Some of the activities which are carried on by the Y. M. C. A. are the publication of the Student Directory, the publication of the Freshman Handbook in conjunction with the Y. W. C. A., the presentation of a vital topics discussion hour, religious activities with outstanding speakers, interdenominational associations, and a well-planned visitation of students in the infirmary and the caring for their needs. The association also sponsors forums on vital questions and presents programs to neighboring high schools for chapel services.

A student Vesper service is held each Sunday afternoon, which is sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., where religious programs are presented at the College auditorium for the student body.

The association is very active in state conventions. Representatives attended the training camp held at Hollister, Missouri, and delegates were sent to the national convention at Urbana, Illinois.

Bill Hubbard, Kenneth L. Kramer, Earl V. Stratton, B. B. Chapman, Thomas A. Burtscher, Winston C. Patton, Tom Osborne, Dick Facker, Joe Dickey, Morris Gray, Harry N. Mills, A. Frank Martin.

In the field of intramural sports the Y. M. C. A. team was very active participating in the contest with other campus groups.

The program of the Y. M. C. A. is comprehensive and varied. It includes activities for the members, the associate members, as well as any visitors who may attend the meetings on the campus. The organization maintains an office in the Y-hut where a nice chapel room has been set up for meeting places of all religious committees and groups on the campus, as well as groups of the various churches.

The Young Men's Christian association assists in many specific projects, such as the World Student Service fund drive, Homecoming, Fathers' and Mothers' day, editing and distributing the Freshman Handbook, intramurals and many others.

The membership strives to keep the Young Men's Christian association an indigenous, spiritual campus movement of students, who, under faculty supervision and the assistance and effort of A. Frank Martin, associate themselves with others to make the college more effective as a religious and character building agency.

CHORAL CLUB

JOHN F. SAGE, President

Composed of both men and women voices, the mixed Choral club is the largest musical organization on the A. and M. campus. Nearly 400 students blend voices at the weekly rehearsals under the direction of Professor L. N. Perkins, of the music department.

During the war years, this group was known simply as the women's chorus, because not enough men were in college to fill out the full male membership. But, this year, with returning veterans flooding the campus, enough men were found to restore the mixed Choral club to its former status.

The state band clinic, held in the A. and M. fieldhouse on December 12, was the occasion for the first performance of the group. Also on the program were the Men's Glee club and the college band. The Choral club sang "All Glory Laud and Honor" on this occasion.

Other songs the Choral club worked on during the year were "I Got

MARY JANE WALDRON, President

Monday night is Y. W. night at A. and M. Ever since its installation on the campus in 1910, the Young Women's Christian association has attracted women students of the campus to assist them in realizing a fuller life.

As college women go to their 7 p.m. YW meeting each Monday, they are helping to fulfill the pledge they took when they became members of the world-wide Christian organization—"We, the members of the Young Women's Christian association of Oklahoma A. and M. College, unite to build a fellowship of women and girls devoted to the task of realizing in our common life those ideals of personal and social living to which we are committed by our faith as Christians. In this endeavor we seek to understand Jesus, to share His love for all people, and to grow in the knowledge and love of God."

The programs varied from informative speeches and spiritual guidance to social good times and song fests. This year a plan was carried out whereby upper-class interest groups were formed and met three Mondays during the month. The freshmen were also arranged in groups where they underwent a campus orientation period, learning varied phases of campus life from upperclass YW leaders.

Once a month all groups met together for a combined general meeting. After the first semester and the recognition ceremony, the freshmen chose an upperclass interest group to join.

The six interest groups included worship under the leadership of Mary Lee Moore, Virginia Kerr and Leah Scott. It was this group that was responsible for the evening devotionals held each night in the dormitories and sorority houses.

Helen Hartley, Jean Lafferty and Clara Ann Bartlett led the world affairs group. Discussion and study of race relations was led by Juanita Clark and Mary Ellen Faulk. Campus affairs was the interest group led by Mary Ellen Kurland and Virginia Farmer.

Annedelle Fincher, Betty Jo Jordan and Jo McCullough led the fine arts group. Included in their activities was the reestablishing of the afternoon book reviews and the printing of a Y. W. C. A. paper prior to the recognition service.

Y. W. C. A.

It was under the guidance of June Smith, Sarah Jane Berry and Virginia Farmer that the first chapter at A. and M. of the League of Women Voters was organized.

Through their orientation groups, freshmen discussed such topics as use of leisure time, campus activities, the psychology of making grades, the place of religion in college life, personality and charm, and friendship and romance. Freshman leaders were Margie Stauffer, Mary Louise Cain, Barbara Martin, Pat Cadenhead, Gloria Berry, Doris Jean Townsell, Pat Headrick, Sara Orcutt, Patsy Mitchell, Mary Jo Botkin, Joan Mullendore, Alice Lorraine Heard, Elsibeth Botts, Nicki Pratt, Betty Clifton, Virginia Stallings, Virginia Powell, Pat Mattimore, Catherine Elliott and Rosemary Parks.

Undoubtedly the highlight of the year's activities for YW is the candlelight recognition service held in the College auditorium. This year 200 college women became members at the impressive ceremony.

A new project, begun this year under the joint sponsorship of YWCA and YMCA, was the Sunday vesper services held each Sunday afternoon during the first semester and the first Sunday of each month during the second semester. The program offered organ meditation, special music and inspirational messages from ministers of the various Stillwater churches and well known guest speakers from other towns.

For YW cabinet members, noon of the first Wednesday of each month held special significance this year, for it was then that they gathered in the YW rooms for a buffet style lunch and talked about future YW plans. With Miss Vesta Etchison, YWCA executive secretary for 14 years, giving her capable assistance, the cabinet led A. and M.'s YW through a successful year.

Mary Jane Waldron served as YW's president and "first lady" with Rosemary Wright as vice-president; Elsibeth Botts, secretary; Delma Flores, treasurer; Mary Ellen Faulk, student Christian Council representative; Catherine Moffett, historian, and Wandalee Hinkle, publicity manager.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

ROLAND WILCOXON
Business Manager

The Symphony orchestra is a major organization, usually about 75 musicians, and presents three or four formal concerts each school season, playing major symphonies and accompanying famous artists, faculty members, and advanced students in concerts and arias.

Recent artists who appeared as soloists with the orchestra were Alec Templeton, Maurice Isenberg and Yvonne Chouteau of the Ballet Russe. These artists were high in their praise of the symphony, stating that it is most unusual to find such a highly efficient organization in a college or university. Many former members are now playing in major symphony orchestras.

The Little Symphony accompanied the light opera "Mikado", and is used frequently for concerts and to provide orchestral setting for college plays.

Professor Frank Hladky, violinist and head of the string department, has been conductor of the symphony for many years.

The Okmulgee branch, Oklahoma A. and M. College, with nearly 100 buildings at Okmulgee, Oklahoma, offers two divisions of training to veteran students and others after GI needs have been met. The first division is designed for freshmen and sophomores who meet college requirements and who qualify under the GI bill of rights. Courses lead to graduation in the major schools of the college. The second division is the School of Technical Training, specializing in trade and industrial courses training students for immediate employment. Registration is open to out-of-state as well as state students.

First row: R. L. Dyke, Wayne Miller, T. P. Chapman, J. H. Zant, L. K. Covelle, J. C. Crawford, Mrs. Ellen Taylor, C. H. Beals.

Second row: Opal Adriaenssens, Clare Jean Watkins, Betty Haniotis, Eugenia McQuarie, G. W. Clack, C. T. Watts, Zella Morton, J. W. Foster.

Third row: G. W. Stanberry, D. C. Evans, G. E. McCollum, J. P. Pickard, S. A. Riley, J. L. Robinson, E. Eaton.

Fifth row: George Burris, Keith Moyer, J. W. Barr, Hugh Rouk, Paul England, L. L. Douglas, F. E. Tozer.

At the lunch hour hundreds of students gather at the College cafeteria which serves well balanced meals at a minimum cost. The Branch College maintains a snack bar where students gather between and at the close of class hours. The college is equipped to take care of over 1,500 students, which includes class routines, housing, and dining facilities. The "Roundup" is the name of the college's weekly publication.

Scene in the Diesel engine operation training laboratory in the Division of Technical Training. The class is conducted by C. P. Watts, extreme left. Similar practical courses are offered in radio repair, plumbing maintenance, body and fender work, woodwork, laundry, power plant operations, auto mechanics and other fields including foods, agriculture, commerce, building and construction.

This is the spacious and comfortable apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Anthis, of Guthrie. Anthis is a freshman student in engineering. Their quarters are typical of hundreds of others here for married GI's, for whom the Branch School was especially designed. These furnished steamheated quarters have broken the tension of crowded conditions for service men returning from post-war assignments to begin or complete their education.

Dormitory quarters for unmarried veterans are equally as commodious, with desks, lounge chairs and individual beds. With four men to a section and some six sections to a living unit these quarters have additional study room space. The minimum fees are bringing hundreds of veterans to the Branch College where they are finding accommodations of the highest order coordinated with the educational program of their choice. Recreation, entertainment, sports and college activities are synchronized to meet their specific needs.

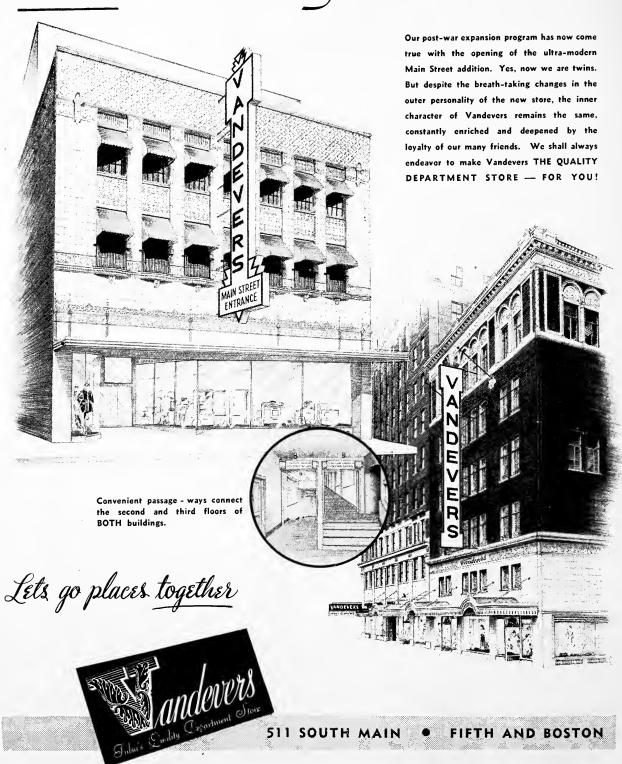

A reading nook in one corner of the library at the Branch College is shown here where students browse in research or complete class work assignments. The library shelves and stacks with thousands of volumes of all types, with tables and files of current magazines, newspapers and scientific periodicals are at their finger tips. For faculty and GI wives, The Hobby Shop is proving a popular spot on the campus. Here they are trying out weaving on one of the several looms provided for this purpose. Art facilities, needlecraft and other hobbies find full expression in this retreat. No detail for faculty or student pleasure has been overlooked to make this relaxing phase of the college outstanding in every way.

THIS IS A. & M.!

Yes, the year has been a noteworthy one. Posterity will be pleased to look back and see the many accomplishments that were provided during this era. A great number of students, including most of the Pi K.A.'s, were happy to see the price of whiskey fall from fifteen to seven. And, the earlier part of the year provided various boycotts which gave the AGR boys a somewhat legitimate excuse for wearing their jeans all year. The same pair, of course.

Then to add pep (?), there was formed a new organization to be called the Mustangs. This organization resorts to multitudinous sorts of juvenile and childish acts on their pledging, and seems to have quite a habit of impeaching their presidents. Evidence indicates that group is still together, but rather loosely so.

The Varsity Revue, even after paying Baker, made some money and was considered a good on Thursday morning, October 10, it was announced that 169 hens had died out of a group of 650 who were attending an egg-laying contest here. That tended to lower school morale, especially among the chickens.

Later in that month, "The O'Collegian" printed what is believed to be its first, and one and only, spot news story. That was when a fire broke out in Willard hall one night and appeared in the morning paper. Former writers and editors saddened as they saw the age-old straight news precedent broken.

Ye Olde Kappa Sigma, the Hester Street Boys who make a religion of wearing high socks, garters, and rubber bands strung from each button to the other, weathered the year in grand style. Except from living in conditions like that of a pack of frozen peas, the house was comfortable. Naturally they got a few of the good rushees, and a generous helping of some of the others, with convertibles, of course.

BETA THETA PI

The Betas struggled along dryly with the Greeks. Of course, it was boring to them, but their last "third party" failed to get the hilarious welcome as was predicted. No one seems to know how much money they have; it must be millions judging from the way they spend.

Lady Fortune has laid a favorable hand upon the destiny of Oklahoma. Since 1907 when she was admitted to the Union, Oklahoma has grown from wild Indian territory to the thriving enterprising state it is today.

Back in the early days before Oklahoma became a state, the only people using natural gas were those living close to sources of supply. This was largely due to lack of pipe line facilities.

Today, nearly everyone in Oklahoma enjoys good, efficient gas service to heat their homes in winter, to cook their meals 365 days in the year, and for dozens of other household uses.

FOOLS RUSH IN WHERE ANGELS FEAR TO TREAD — or, A YEAR IN PUBLICATIONS

Harsh, hasty words marked the publications this year. A change-over in editorial staffs of "The O'Collegian" at the end of the first semester was the loudest bang, but not the only one.

Industry and eagerness were the keynote of the "O'Colly" at the start of the year-long rat race. Bill Byrd, returned from the war. took over the campus newspaper with what everyone considered a capable and more than promising staff. Most of them were oldtimers in the college publications racket—Barney Lehmbeck on sports, Jim Scott and Tom Steph as chief relief men when the editor felt weary and Joe Hodges and Brad Carlisle as nonstaff morale builders.

Heaven gave Pi K A two things; a house close to Brooks and "Teeth" Baker. Aside from that it's anybody's guess.

SIGMA NU

Sigma Nu pledge ribbons bloomed largely for the first time. The white star still stood over their house and the boys are wondering who they will talk about when Fenimore is gone.

SIGMA CHI

Sig Chi Frat club, sometimes referred to as Sigma Chi fraternity, took an inventory and listed $4,000 worth of binoculars, six empty cases, three passing pledges, one Pi Fi laundry bag and Critchfield. The year was highlighted when the Sigs found out they had one celebrity in the clan, Patrick J. Hurley. He must be an honorary member from O. U.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

Lambda Chi spiraled to new heights as they won top honors in varied forms of leathercraft. Ray Adler displayed his tooth and made a statement to the press—"We are genuinely elated concerning this situation; as you know, our billfold department apprenticed in McAlester for 20 years."

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

Ask any freshman these two question, and the answers will always be "yes". "Do you breathe?" and "Are you a Sig Alph pledge?" This is true in all but chronic asthma cases. The house is so crowded that when the yearly census was taken it took the lady five days to write all the names, in shorthand. Lowell Harris spent a busy year cramming all their pictures into this lousy year-book.

Informed circles claim that Sig Ep bowery ball ended in September, but the whole damned outfit looks like they are still in costume. Anyway, Sig Ep has always been known as the over-flow group from AGR. T. Bone McDonald is about the only mental misfit in the clan as he can read and write.

TAU KAPPA EPSILON

Tau Kappa Epsilon got off to a fair start and quite a few disinterested members. Rickilein Keneipp and Roger Rondepierre acted as general managers and part-time bartenders.

CHI OMEGA

Time was when the Chi O's acted somewhat like natural girls in search of pleasure. Not to be left with their hair down, they also began to affect an air of superiority, all false, of course, possibly in an effort to contact a little of the Theta-Pi Fi type traffic. Evidence: a tremendous number of fluffs for no apparent reason.

KAPPA DELTA

Barbara Schott's little clan over on College avenue, by name of Kappa Delta, surprised hell out of everybody when they grabbed ahold of their bootstraps and came off the bottom of the grade lists. KD also turned out the Sweetheart of Sigma Chi—Amy Rolater, no less.

Byrd graduated at the end of the first semester leaving a messy situation and a free-for-all. Joe Hodges offered his resignation to the Board of Publications and filed; Jim Critchfield filed. The board considered both, refused to accept the resignation and to consider Critchfield, appointed Steph as acting editor until he could determine whether or not his grades would be sufficient. The rat race became too much for Steph, who suspected foul play and turned in his resignation. Dick Reavis, mainstay of the ''O'Colly'' during the erratic reign of Queen Shirley (Angle), returned to school and was appointed editor.

The hot-bed during the year was the cubbyhole in the back of the Publications building labeled "Aggievator".

Editor Hal Hazelrigg was presented with a rather doubtful heritage in the magazine. His first issue smelled to high heaven, the second greatly decreased the odor and the third was a little better. He committed his first and most serious error when he decided to get married. The editor's name in the masthead might well have been changed to Barbara Schott.

Hazelrigg let the "Aggievator" slide and lurch in the hands of Schott and a rather doubtful crew. In the tiny niche in the wall, hidden away from all but the most watchful eyes, the "Aggievator" managed to go into debt, and so far as is known, will continue to stay that way.

PI BETA PHI

Someone must have filched the good luck charm from Pi Fi; as the year wore on they kept fizzling. Not a decent battle was waged with Theta all year. The only thing they maintained was their habit of not speaking to anyone and their phobia of not going to the hairdresser.

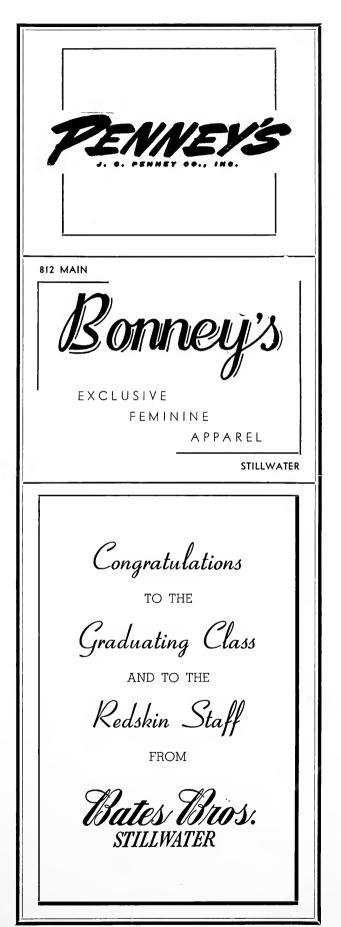

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

Theta is wondering who will take Norvetta White's place, and so is Harris, for that matter. The poor little rich girls bought two lovely pink chairs which don't match anything but the telephone. Funds are now being raised to make the fire escape more accessible.

PEPPERS

Another organization to go un-officially inactive was the Peppers. They managed to complete the entire year without doing anything.

Mr. R. R. Raspythroat, of Possum Trot, Oklahoma, writes: "Year after year I kept coming back. Year after year they kept telling me that Kappa Sig was doing fine, but they were a little short on house space and that I would have to wait till Paul Stewart graduated and moved all his architectural junk out. That's why I say, young man, . . ."
